

Wanted: Pen Pal
Write: Bombay
—Injun Injuneer

If there's an engineering student on campus with time between analytic geometry and general physics to write to an Indian pen pal, Vinubhai M. Patel of Bombay, India, would like to hear from him.

It seems Mr. Patel, an engineering major himself, but in an Indian university, desires to correspond with an American contemporary and has enlisted the Daily Collegian's help in his search.

It might be well to remind students interested in writing to this "injuneeer from Injia" of two things: (1) Writing letters is a wonderful way to further friendly relations between the United States and India. But (2) a letter to mother and/or one's girl friend should advisably come before any Faith is an essential in every successful life. Faith in God is a requisite to right living. Knowing God as our Creator and Benefactor buttresses man for the trials and temptations of life.

Faith in our fellowmen is necessary in our complex social and economic life. Every man is to be trusted until proven unworthy of our confidence.

Faith in one's self provides the "drive" that allows one to climb the ladder of success. The man who lacks self-confidence will not inspire it in others.
