

Yule Sing Slated for Tonight

The Candlelight worship service celebrating the Christmas season with musical selections by the Chapel Choir will be presented at 10:55 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

The Choir concert will be repeated at the regular Chapel hour, 10:55 a.m. tomorrow. Doors will open 30 minutes preceding each service.

In addition to the Choir, the program will feature selections by members of the Blue Band and organ meditation by George E. Ciega, Chapel organist. Luther C. Harshbarger, College chaplain, will offer the Christmas meditation, "The Faith That Was Born at Christmas."

Selections by the Choir, directed by Willa C. Taylor, will include "O Thou the Central Orb" (Gibbons); "Divinum Mysterium," a 13th century plain song; "The Three Kings" (Cornelius) with Robert Day, baritone soloist; "Christmas Day," a fantasia on traditional Christmas melodies, arranged by Holst; and four traditional carols, "Puer nobis nascitur," "Herricks Carol," "Sussex Carol," and "Upon My Lap My Sovereign Sits."

Introducing the worship service will be a concert of Bach Chorales presented by members of the Blue Band, directed by James W. Dunlop. Organ meditation will include "Vom Himmel hoch" (Buxtehude), the prelude; "From Heaven High to Earth I Come," the introit; "Noel" (D'Aquin), the offertory; and Bach's setting of "Vom Himmel hoch," the postlude.

Three Christmas hymns will be sung by Choir and congregation during the Candlelight procession. They are "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." The procession will be closed with the hymn "O Come, O Come Emanuel."

Annual Concert Set Tomorrow

The Symphony Orchestra will present its annual concert at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium. Doors will open 30 minutes preceding the performance.

Under the direction of Theodore K. Karhan, assistant professor of music and music education, the orchestra will offer four selections ranging from a waltz to a symphony. In addition Elizabeth Stuter, piano soloist, will play "Concerto in G minor for piano" by Felix Mendelssohn.

Numbers by the orchestra will include "Overture In Autumn" by Edvard Grieg; "Suite No. 4" by Johann Sebastian Bach; "Concert Waltz" by Alexander Glazounov; and "Symphony No. 4" in D minor by Robert Schuman.

Veterans' Club to Hold Organizational Meeting

The Veterans' Club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in 418 Old Main to ratify a constitution and organize permanent club. Co-chairmen Richard Smith and Charles Mayer have asked ex-servicemen to attend. This is the first attempt to organize a veterans' club on campus.

TODAY'S WEATHER

CLOUDY

WITH SNOW
FLURRIES

Hoopmen Beat Alfred 56-43 in '52 Opener

—Photo by Schroeder

HERM SLEDZIK, the Lion's Captain, drives in for a two handed jump shot as two Saxon players (Evak—No. 51 and McCormick) make an effort to stop him. Sledzik scored 16 points to tie with the Saxon's Bud Roberts for second high scorer of the game.

By TED SOENS

Coach Elmer Gross cleared the bench last night as the Lions opened their basketball season with a 56-43 win over Alfred University.

The Lions had just too much height for their opponents as Sledzik and Arnelle controlled both backboards. Time and again the Saxons would bring the ball up court only to lose it after a shot.

Roberts Paces Alfred

Jesse Arnelle was the games' high scorer with a total of 18 points. He made seven out of 14 shots at the basket for a percentage of 50. The second leading scorer for the Lions was Captain Herm Sledzik. On some very fine shooting and rebounding, the 6-4 senior was able to score 16 points. His total was also a good 50 per cent—five out of 10 shots.

The Lions will play their second game tonight against the Presidents from Washington and Jefferson. Starting time is 8 p.m. and a preliminary game at 6 p.m. between the Frosh and the JV's. The W&J team has all of their starting five back from last year's team which last year scored an upset victory over the Lions in the last few minutes of play.

For the Saxons, it was their little forward Bud Roberts who led the scoring column. His 16 points were mostly made on drive ins and sets.

Lions Pull Away

The Lions got off to a slow start and were only able to connect on 20 per cent of their shots in the first quarter. Sinking basket for basket both teams kept even with each other and at the end of the quarter the Saxons were leading, 12-11.

The game picked up tempo in the second quarter. Between Arnelle, Sherry, and Sledzik the Lions slowly began to pull ahead. Again it was the excellent defensive work on the part of the Lions that kept the Saxons from scoring.

Just as the buzzer for the end of the half sounded, Arnelle on a jump shot, dropped the ball through the hoop to give the Lions a 30-20 lead.

(Continued on page six)

Final Exam Schedule

The fall semester final examinations schedule will be printed in The Daily Collegian Tuesday.

50 to Return From 3-Day Trip to UN

Approximately 50 students and faculty members left via bus, train, and car early Thursday morning for a tour of the United Nations headquarters in New York City. The group will return tomorrow.

The trip is being sponsored jointly by the Education Student Council, the Political Science department, and the Penn State Christian Association and will include visits to UN committees, and discussion sessions with delegates that have free time in their schedules.

The three evenings to be spent in New York were left open so persons on the tour can "see the town."

A highlight of the trip will be an address by Mrs. Ede Samson, United States delegate to the UN, which took place yesterday afternoon.

Fourteen campus organizations and church groups are sponsoring delegates on the trip. The remainder of the tour members are paying their own expenses.

Mary Jane Wyland, program coordinator of the PSCA, said she was pleased at the interest shown and hopes that it will continue so the tour can remain an annual event.

Employment Office Has Holiday Jobs

Students remaining in State College during the Christmas holidays should notify the Student Employment Service if they are interested in part-time jobs during that time, John Huber, director, has announced.

Huber anticipates that people will be needed for housework, baby sitting and odd jobs.

The Student Employment office in 112 Old Main will remain open during the holiday period, with the exception of Christmas Day and New Years Day.

Ski Club to Hold Party

Members of the Penn's Valley Ski Club will meet in front of Osmond Laboratory at 2 p.m. tomorrow for a Christmas party at Penn's Valley Ski Center, located about two miles from Boalsburg.

The party will feature work on the Christmas tree and the ski trail as well as the distribution of gifts by Santa, alias Moses Cornwell.

Christmas Mails Give Headaches To Post Office

Centre County post office employees are having new headaches these days with the heavy flow of Christmas cards and packages.

To insure delivery before Christmas postmasters have asked the public to cooperate by mailing cards and packages well in advance.

Overseas mail delivery should be sent by air parcel post as it is too late in the season to guarantee regular mail delivery by the holidays. Out-of-town cards should be mailed within the next week and local cards should be postmarked at least a week before Christmas.

Sorting mail could be facilitated at the post office if cards are tied in two bundles and marked "all for local delivery" or "all for out of town delivery."

Dorm Windows To Be Judged

Judging of Christmas window displays in the West Dorm area will begin at 1 p.m. today.

Winners will be announced at the area's Christmas party at 9 tonight. Lewis Goslin, co-chairman of the judging committee, announced yesterday.

Three awards—a $5 first prize, a $3 second prize, and a $2 third prize—will be given to the display winners.

Only couples will be admitted to the Christmas party, to be held in the main West Dorm lounge. Admittance will be limited to residents of the West Dorm area. Students will be required to show meal tickets before being admitted.

Dickson to Speak

Dr. Harold E. Dickson, professor of fine arts, will speak on "The Nativity in Art" at the Faculty Luncheon Club at noon Monday at the Hotel State College.

'Religious' Clash in Shaw Play

By BETTIE LOUX

The conflict between two active "religions" was fought out in the heart of a passionate human being last night as the Penn State Players brought Bernard Shaw's brisk comedy "Major Barbara" to Center Stage to stay, unfortunately, for six weekends only.

Under the guiding hand of Director Walter H. Walters, a generally strong cast including many experienced Players and a very promising newcomer in the title role has done an above-average job with a remarkable, but difficult, social comedy.

"Major Barbara," its theses pointed up by satire that had a packed audience in stitches, attacks the fallacy of preaching to, or helping the poor simply because they are poor.

The only chance for individual salvation lies in the cleansing of society as a whole, it says, rather than by bribing conversions out of the poor with crusts of bread.

Barbara, an officer in the Salvation Army, is the daughter of millionaire Andrew Undershaft, chief partner in a vast munitions works. He has been separated from his wife Lady Britomart for years, during which time he has not seen his children, but as the

(Continued on page eight)

BARBARA (no longer a Major) Undershaft, portrayed by April Heinsohn, listens seriously to her millionaire father, Andrew Undershaft, played by Richard Anderson, as he argues for a "money and guns" philosophy in the final scene of George Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara," which began its run at Center Stage last night. Watching Barbara attentively is her love, Adolphus Cusins, played by Myron Cole, known throughout the play affectionately as "Dolly." "Dolly," a poet and professor of Greek, follows Barbara and her philosophies during the play.

Only
10
MORE
SHOPPING DAYS
TO CHRISTMAS