

Oliver Asks Contributions For Korea War Orphans

Are you getting a cashmere sweater for Christmas? Or perhaps that grey flannel suit you've been hinting about? Or maybe the wool jersey dress that you've been dying to get because it's "just made for you?"

Let's hope you get all of these and more, but the Korean War orphans don't have anything like this to look forward to. In fact,

Dorm Food Committee Organized

An All-College Cabinet dormitory foods committee, which will handle students' food complaints and suggestions and plan menus for dormitory dining halls is now in operation, according to William Griffith, chairman of the dormitory food service committee of Mt. Alto Student Encampment.

Two members of the committee met for the first time Thursday afternoon with Mildred Baker, supervisor of the College food service, to approve menus for the week following Christmas vacation. Two members will meet every week with Miss Baker.

Dining Halls Represented
Expecting to become an official All-College Cabinet committee at the next cabinet meeting, the committee will meet every Wednesday afternoon to discuss complaints and suggestions of residents of the dormitories.

Members of the group are chairman Gail Green, LaRue Stelene, Robert Clancy, Ruth Israel, Evelyn Horwin, Lewis Goslin, Joyce Johnson, and Sara Jane McKnight. Each dining area is represented.

Complaints to Be Handled
Forms are being prepared with which students can send their complaints and suggestions to members of the committee. These will soon be distributed. Blanks on the forms call for the name, address, complaint, and suggestion of the student. It is important that suggestions as well as complaints be made, Griffith said.

If complaints received by the group deal with an area problem they will be taken up with area food supervisors. Otherwise they will be handled by the committee as a whole, working with Miss Baker.

Most members of the committee are the chairmen of the food committees of the various living area student government organizations. The committee will present a report at the next meeting of cabinet.

days. Hundreds of thousands of Americans will involuntarily spend Christmas in his native land Korea.

A veteran at celebrating Christmas in the United States is Ngyen Ban from Vietnam, junior in agricultural engineering; and the only Vietnamese in Pennsylvania.

He's been in the United States two years, has spent a typical American Christmas with an American family, and this year there are quite a few things they don't want to "look forward to."

Seoul Orphans Starving
Dr. Robert T. Oliver, head of the Speech department, has been an adviser to Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea, and to the Korean delegation to the United Nations.

Recently returned from Korea, Dr. Oliver has this comment: "Visiting orphanages in Seoul, I saw children of four and five years of age so starved that their ankles were no larger than thumbs. Over 70,000 of Seoul's million inhabitants have no roofs over their heads in this cold winter. Warm clothing and concentrated foods such as powdered eggs and milk, peanut butter, and vitamin tablets will save a great many lives."

Dr. Oliver expressed the hope that students and faculty alike would contribute unsparingly to the clothing drive being sponsored by the Women's Student Government Association to help these people.

Old Main is Collection Point
The WSGA drive will last from Jan. 8 to 15, thus giving students a chance to look in the backs of closets over Christmas vacation for old clothing that hasn't been discarded.

Collection boxes will be placed in women's dormitories and in the lobby of Old Main.

The clothing will be turned over to the Friends' Society, where it will be mended and sent to Korea.

Speech Prof To Be on Air

Dr. Bruce M. Sigenthaler, assistant professor of clinical speech and supervisor of the adult speech therapy program, will be interviewed by Sidney Archer at 9:30 tonight on the WMAJ program, "Spotlight on State." Archer will also interview two patients from the speech and hearing program, William Jeglenski and Catherine Caporuscio.

The seventh in the Radio Guild series, "Call Card," will be presented at 9:45 tonight over WMAJ. Patricia Hathaway will read Charles Tazwell's Christmas story, "The Littlest Stork." Other members of the cast are Madeline Sharp, Sally Lowry, Jay Murphy, Emily Snyder, Frank Hutchinson, and Robert Zimmerman.

Vet Certifications

Veterans training under public law 550 must turn in their completed monthly certifications by Saturday at G 4 Willard instead of 6 Old Main.

is going to New York with friends for the holidays.

"After all the hard work and running around they do all year," said Ban, "Americans deserve the vacation Christmas gives them."

IFC to Set Pledge Date For Frosh

Second semester freshmen may not be pledged by a fraternity until a date to be set after the Christmas recess by the Interfraternity Council. This date will be sometime after averages from last semester have been released.

Anyone pledged by a fraternity must have a 1.0 average for the previous semester, the IFC rushing code specifies. Arthur Rosfeld, president of the IFC, said yesterday that the 1.0 average rule will definitely be enforced. The averages of all pledges will be checked with a master list in the Dean of Men's office.

First semester freshmen may not be pledged until sometime in their second semester. This date is decided upon by the IFC and is a date after the issuing of first semester grades.

A rushing list of students who have expressed a desire to affiliate with a fraternity has been mailed to all houses by the Dean of Men's office. The 16-page list was the result of a joint survey by the office and the IFC general rushing committee and contains names, addresses, curriculum, and other information of students interested in fraternities.

An additional list of students who indicated a preference for a particular house during the survey has also been prepared by the Dean of Men's office and is available in 109 Old Main.

Lab Papers Are Published

Two papers by members of the Ionosphere Research Laboratory have been published in national scientific journals.

"A Method of Solving the Wave Equation in a Region of Rapidly Varying Complex Refractive Index," by John Gibbons Jr., professor of physics, and Robert Schrag, instructor in electrical engineering, appeared in the October issue of the Journal of Applied Physics.

"Theoretical Group Heights of 150 Ke/s Radio Waves Vertically Incident on the Ionosphere," by Dr. Norman Davis, associate professor of engineering mechanics, appeared in the Journal of Atmospheric and Terrestrial Physics.

Student Fined For Misconduct

Charles L. Brobeil, first semester commerce major, was fined $61.90 by Justice of the Peace Guy G. Mills yesterday for disorderly conduct.

Brobeil, who, police say, had altered his matriculation card, was arrested on S. Pugh street at 1:30 a.m. yesterday.

Police said Brobeil was creating a disturbance on the street and in jail after his arrest. During the hearing, it was discovered that he had altered his matriculation card to make it appear that he was 21.

Cabinet Council Names Projects

Orientation Week evaluation, a survey of student rooms in State College, and study of a National Student Association travel bureau were selected for immediate consideration by Cabinet Projects Council Tuesday night.

Committees for each project were organized at the meeting. The committees will meet early in January. Irvin White, council president, announced that the board of directors will meet Jan. 8.

A census of airplanes by the Civil Aeronautics administration reveals there are more single-engine planes in use than any other type.

Electronic Club Offers Course In Radio, Code

The Volunteer Naval Reserve Electronic Platoon 4-3, which is open to men and women who are eligible to join the naval reserve, conducts classes in radio theory, transmitter procedure, and morse code.

Many veterans of World War II and the Korean War belong to the club.

Meetings are held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. every Monday in 300 Engineering E. Because members belong to the reserves, they may be called to active duty. However, the chance of this is very slim, according to Lt. Francis H. Yonker, of the electronic division of engineering at the College.

No physical examination is required in order to join, and the organization is in no way connected with the NROTC unit on campus, Lt. Yonker said.

The club uses two radio stations: K3NR1, licensed by the Federal Communications Commission and N4GAC, an amateur station. The operation of these stations is the main purpose of the club.

All-College Cabinet
There will be no All-College Cabinet meeting tonight. Cabinet will meet again after vacation.
