

Season's Greetings

Resolutions for 1953— See Page 4

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Yes, Virginia, Santa Lives— See Page 4

Vol. 53, No. 66

STATE COLLEGE, PA., FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 19, 1952

FIVE CENTS

Statesman To Talk at Next Forum

Walter H. Judd, Republican congressman from Minnesota will discuss foreign affairs at the third Community Forum program Jan. 9 in Schwab Auditorium.

A physician and surgeon, Judd is as well known in his home state as a politician. He spent several years as a medical missionary in the Orient. The congressman has been lecturing on foreign policy and U.S. interests in the Pacific since 1938.

Study Scheduling Methods

Considerable revision is now underway in the forum constitution to enable more students to participate on forum committees. Under the present organization most of the work is left to a few interested townspeople. Low ticket sales this year suggested a marked decline in student interest, according to Thomas Durek, assistant forum chairman. The forum hopes to revive that interest and encourage more students to take advantage of the informative lectures.

A committee composed of Elton S. Carter, general forum chairman; Dr. Gerald B. Stein, tickets chairman; and Durek is also studying the possibility of changing the methods for scheduling speakers. According to the present plan, speakers and agencies are contacted during the summer when few students are on campus to voice their opinions.

Ask Continuous Participation

Also, by summer most big-name speakers have arranged other commitments for their lecture tours. The committee hopes to complete the fall forum schedule by the end of the spring semester. A third plan for revision calls for continuous participation on the forum committee for more than one year. Durek said many problems could be eliminated if the entire committee was not changed every year. A suggestion was made to appoint an assistant student chairman each year to serve the next year as student chairman.

Durek, who graduates in January, has handed in his resignation to All-College Cabinet. He will be succeeded as assistant chairman by James Dunlap.

Honesty Rule To Be Stressed

In order to insure uniformity of treatment in academic dishonesty cases, the Council of Administration recommended Monday that the attention of faculty members be called to Rule W-1 under Regulations for Undergraduate Students, 1952-53.

The rule reads, "The College regards all acts of dishonesty as deserving severe punishment. Any case of dishonesty shall be reported to the student's dean, through the head of the department and the dean of the school in which the dishonesty was committed."

'Let's All Sing...'

—Photo by Freeburn

WITH ARMS OUTSTRETCHED, Prof. Hummel Fishburn leads the singing at the traditional Christmas Service and Carol Sing in front of Old Main last night. Members of the Blue Band, in the background, and the Chapel Choir also participated in the program.

Chapel Fund Group Hears Ruiz Plan

The Chapel fund committee yesterday afternoon heard Leopoldo T. Ruiz discuss ways in which the Chapel offering could be used to assist Silliman University in the Philippine Islands, but the group did not commit itself to definitely support any of the suggested projects.

Ruiz, presently consul general of the Philippine Republic in Chicago, will become president of Silliman University April 1.

Funds For Instructor

The university hopes to develop more and better extension services for the Philippines in various areas, including agriculture, home life, and community development, Ruiz said, and is presently doing research in these fields and training specialists for them.

Ways in which the Chapel funds could help work at Silliman are (1) they might be used to provide funds for a young instructor to spend a year studying here or to help finance practical extension experience for some students from Silliman or (2) they might be spent for books, laboratory equipment, audio-visual aids, or other equipment needed at Silliman University.

Supported Lingnan University

In addition to meeting with the committee yesterday afternoon, Ruiz spent yesterday morning conferring with faculty and staff members, particularly some who are engaged in agriculture and home economics.

For nearly 40 years the Chapel offering was sent to support Lingnan University in Canton, China, but this Penn State-in-China project was discontinued when the Communists took over China and refused to allow these funds to enter the country.

World Student Service Fund

Five other projects, in addition to assisting Silliman University, were proposed last spring. One, the idea of sending the money

(Continued on page eight)

Exam Conflicts Due Tomorrow

Noon tomorrow is the deadline for filing fall semester final examination conflicts at the Scheduling office, basement of Willard Hall.

Graduating seniors with final examinations after 7 p.m. Jan. 21 must file a conflict. Grades of graduating seniors must be in the office of the Recorder by 9 a.m. Jan. 22.

Students with three examinations on the same day may file a conflict if they wish.

Guild Resumes Radio Series Over WMAJ

The seventh in the Radio Guild series "World at Our Door" will present Aric Spiegleman of Tel Aviv, Israel, at 7:45 tonight over WMAJ.

Spiegleman will speak on "Conditions in Israel." He is currently working for his master's degree in economics.

LaRue Fritz will interview Spiegleman. Director is Marian Brobeck. Others in the cast are Barton Bass, announcer; Donald Klinepeter, sound; and Frank Hutchinson, engineer.

"World at Our Door" is sponsored by the Radio Guild in conjunction with the Department of Speech.

The Radio Guild is planning to simulate a regular day in a radio station on Jan. 12, when the group will hold a mock Radio Day from 7 a.m. to midnight, according to Prof. David R. Mackey, Radio Guild adviser.

He emphasized that all students, regardless of curriculum, are eligible to participate. Those interested should plan to visit 306 Sparks for names and telephone numbers of heads of script, production, continuity, acting, and announcing units, he said. They should contact these persons immediately, as permanent lists of casts and crews will be made up within a few days after students return from Christmas vacation.

Committee to Nominate Successor to Stassen

The University of Pennsylvania has named seven trustees to a committee to nominate a successor to Harold E. Stassen, who recently resigned the college presidency after being named head of the Mutual Security Agency by President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Snow and Rain Predicted as Vacation Starts

A white Christmas may come early to thousands of Penn Staters this weekend, according to the College Weather Station, which forecasts rain and snow beginning tonight and continuing into Saturday.

The United States Weather Bureau also says snow is likely in this area, starting as early as this afternoon. Although classes officially come to an end at 11:50 a.m. tomorrow, thousands of students, whose schedules list no Saturday classes, will have deserted the valley by that time.

Dr. Charles L. Hostler of the College Weather Station gave the following detailed weather report last night:

"I anticipate a gradual increase in cloudiness tonight (Thursday night) with some rain or snow beginning late Friday evening. East and south of the College the weather is likely to be rainy; in the northern parts of the state and in the New England states there will be snow."

Saturday will be colder with more snow, Dr. Hostler concluded. The official government bureau report for western Pennsylvania was:

Mostly cloudy and colder tonight (Thursday) and Friday, with some snow likely Friday afternoon, possibly mixed with rain in the south portion.

The 17-day official College vacation beginning tomorrow will end at 1:10 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Scarcely two weeks of classes will remain in the semester after the return Jan. 6. This semester's classes officially end at 11:50 a.m. Saturday Jan. 17. Final examinations start one hour and 40 minutes later.

The next official College vacation is scheduled for Wednesday, April 1.

The Centre County Motor Club reported yesterday that state route 322 is not detoured leaving State College in either direction. The only detour in the central Pennsylvania area of any size is routes 322 and 220 between Milesburg and Port Matilda, the club reported. That temporary route runs through State College.

Convention Hears Report on CPC

Members of the Penn State delegation to the National Student Association convention in Philadelphia last week reported to the convention on Cabinet Projects Council, group set up by All-College Cabinet to investigate and explore campus projects and problems. The group currently works in conjunction with NSA and cabinet.

The convention, meeting with the theme "NSA on Your Campus," was attended by 15 other colleges and universities in Pennsylvania. Representing the College were Walter Sachs, region sectional director, and Arthur Rosfeld, Marlene Heyman, Margaret Lamaster, James Plyler, and Theresa Taylor.

Grad Student Shows Slight Improvement

Robert Amole, graduate student injured by a bull on his father's farm during Thanksgiving vacation, is reportedly "slightly improved over his very critical condition."

"The doctors have more hope for him," according to members of his fraternity, Alpha Sigma Phi. Amole is in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia.

'Lute Song' Tryouts Scheduled

Players will hold general tryouts for "Lute Song" and the next Center Stage show at 7 p.m. Jan. 7 in 405 Old Main.

Ken Williams, freshman in arts and letters, and Velma Kaiser, sophomore in arts and letters, have been chosen for the leads in the musical to be presented by Robert D. Reifsnider, assistant professor of dramatics, March 12-14 in Schwab Auditorium.

"Children of Darkness," originally chosen as the next Center Stage show, may appear in New York this spring. If it does, a different play will be scheduled at Center Stage.

Callbacks for new people and tryouts for those with Players experience will be held Jan. 8 in 10 Sparks for "Lute Song" and in the Green Room in Schwab Auditorium for the Center Stage show. Final callbacks will be held Jan. 9.

Copies of the plays will be available in the Green Room.

Kelly Yeaton, assistant professor of dramatics, will direct the Center Stage show, which will begin a six-week run Feb. 27.

The next performance of "Major Barbara," the current Center Stage show, will be Jan. 9.

Veteran Signup Ends Tomorrow

Veterans unable to attend the organizational meeting of the Veterans' Club Tuesday night may still sign up for charter membership until noon tomorrow at the Student Union desk in Old Main or in the TUB.

According to Charles Mayer, organization committee member, more than 50 have already signed for membership.

A constitution has been approved and will be submitted to the College Senate committee on student welfare. If it is ratified the Veterans' Club will be recognized as an official campus organization.

The club was organized to promote the interests of veterans and to help ex-servicemen to become readjusted to college life.

TODAY'S WEATHER

CLOUDY AND COLDER

MORE SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS