

College Enrolls Fewer High-Ranking Freshmen

A smaller percentage of freshmen ranking in the upper fifth and two-fifths of their high school classes was admitted to the College this year, according to Dean of Admissions C. O. Williams.

Only 34 per cent of the present freshman class were in the top fifth of their high school class, Williams said. This corresponds with a 1932-41 ten-year average of 41 per cent and is lower than the average of classes admitted in the last four years.

57 Students On Crews Aid Players

In addition to three graduate supervisors, 57 students will work crews for Players' production of "Amphitryon 38," which will run next Thursday through Saturday at Schwab Auditorium.

Tickets at 60 cents each for Thursday and $1 for Friday and Saturday will go on sale Monday at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

H. Dennis Sherk, dramatics instructor, will direct the risqué comedy written by Jean Giraudoux and liberally translated by S. N. Behrman.

The supervisors are Russel Whaley, designer; costume supervisor, Muriel Stein; and technical director, Mesrop Kesdekian.

The advertising crew consists of Alison Morley, manager; Bill Andresevic, Annette Bartman, Joan Clarey, Ed Dunkelberger, Cindy Fetterman, Dick Gibson, Lynn Kahanowitz, Ruth Kluger, Sue Leib, Paul Mackin, Ruth McSparran, Elda Mae Morgan, Alice Noble, and Jan Schuetz.

Move Over Men, the Ladies Are All Set to Take Charge

By BYRON FIELDING

Clutching his heart and pleading for mercy, the small milque-toast-man pleaded for his last job. But, the callous young brunette, throwing the sickly young man's cajoles aside, exclaimed, "I am no longer your captive. Your golden age has passed, even though you hate to admit it. All you men are neurotic. And furthermore, when you are dead, I shall own everything."

No, this is not an excerpt from True Confessions . . . just the annual male versus female Penn State versus Mt. Mercy debate. What are these people talking about, you ask? Gloria Gallagher and Louise Koenig, via Mt. Mercy, argued for a greater share in public life. But those two antiquated, old plutocrats from the College, Samuel Nowell and Robert Murrer, were against the resolve, That Women Should Participate More Fully in Public Life.

Misses Gallagher and Koenig warned that women were pushing men aside in their climb upward. To quote Miss Gallagher, "Women are the beacon in the after-smog in the world of male blunders."

Clutching his chest, obviously he had heart burn, Nowell ejaculated (said), "Women live longer, but men are not here very long. Please ladies, stay in the home and let them enjoy their few pleasures. Besides, women have so many advantages over men that if they try to push men out of public office, they might succeed. Remember, a woman may be able to replace a man, but a man can not replace a woman." At the close of this statement Nowell threw up two heavily bandaged index fingers which he had injured sewing on a coat button.

At the end of the debate a gift dedication of a set of cuff links and a matching tie clasp was made to assistant debate coach, Dr. Harold J. O'Brien by the Forensic Society. Dr. O'Brien, who is taking a leave of absence, was moderator of the debate, and he also led the forum that followed.

"A powerful force in these difficult times"

says FRANKLIN D. MURPHY
Chancellor, University of Kansas

"In these days when much is said about 'adult education,' we too often forget that a great deal of adult education is daily carried on by such instruments of public information as The Reader's Digest. In my judgment, The Reader's Digest is one of the powerful and useful forces shaping the thinking of our people in these difficult times."

The articles in each issue of The Reader's Digest cover a broad range of subjects: from travel and politics to science and history, from humor and personal inspiration to headline news. Forty or more articles and a host of short subjects, carefully chosen from hundreds of publications, bring Digest readers more varied and more concentrated information than can be found in any other magazine.

In January Reader's Digest, you'll be interested in The Way It Is in Korea—James Michener reports the facts of war in Korea today; 24-page book condensation People of the Deer—Farley Mowat's experiences in the Arctic with a lost tribe of Eskimos; More Work With Less Fatigue—facts from experts to help you accomplish more, tire yourself less.
