

FMA to Hold First Meeting

The Fraternity Marketing Association will hold its first full meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in 219 Electrical Engineering. Adoption of a FMA constitution and the appointment of a nominating committee are on the agenda.

Notices of the meeting are being mailed to participating members of the present Association of Fraternity Counselors-Interfraternity Council joint food buying committee. These participants are considered by the incorporators as charter members of FMA.

Open to All Houses

The participating fraternities are expected to appoint an active member as FMA representative. The FMA representative will attend tomorrow's meeting and will have a voice and vote in the development of FMA, according to notices of the meeting sent by Robert K. Murray, secretary of the FMA Board of Incorporators.

Non-participating fraternities have been invited to attend the meeting to become acquainted with the development of the organization. Advisers of both participating and non-participating fraternities have also been invited.

Term Lengths Set

A constitution has been prepared and will be proposed at this full meeting. If the proposed constitution is approved, the nominating committee to be appointed at the meeting will be asked to nominate persons for the following posts on the board of trustees: five members from the alumni groups of member fraternities, five student representatives, and two trustees-at-large who need not be from member groups.

Alumni members are to serve five years. This year one of the five will be elected for five years, another for four, one for three, one for two, and another for one year. All students elected are to serve one year terms. The trustees-at-large shall serve two year terms, one of the first two serving two serving for only one year.

Oswalt Plays 'Amphitryon' Leading Role

One of Players' leading ladies will play the role created by one of Broadway's leading ladies in S. N. Behrman's liberal translation of Jean Giraudoux's "Amphitryon 38."

Jolly Oswalt will play the Lynn Fontaine role of the all-too-faithful wife Alkmena in the production directed by Dennis Sherk, dramatics instructor.

"Amphitryon 38" is said to be a play of many nations. The Greek legend was used by the French Giraudoux for a high comedy and liberally translated by American Behrman. Miss Oswalt's Players' experience parallels this course.

Miss Oswalt was Antigone's sister Ismene in the Greek tragedy "Antigone" of Sophocles, the cold Hedda in Norwegian Henrik Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," Emily—the girl who grew up, married, and died—in American Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," and played the Tallulah Bankhead role of Elizabeth in British Somerset Maugham's "The Circle."

Gordon Greer will play the role of Jupiter created by Alfred Lunt in the 1937 Broadway production.

John Aniston will be Alkmena's husband Amphitryon.

Sid Archer portrays Mercury, messenger of the gods. Leda is portrayed by Alice Mears.

Dick Neuweiler will be seen as the trumpeter who can't play only one note.

Al Sarkas will play Amphitryon's servant Soci. Bill Musser will be the warrior, and Velma Kaiser will be the echo. Carol Strong and Beverly Masters will play the maids in waiting, Nenetza and Kleantha.

Tickets for the comedy are available at the Student Union desk in Old Main at 60 cents each for Thursday night and $1 for Friday and Saturday nights.

Blue Key Plans Wrestling Show

A program, "Know Your Wrestling," will be sponsored by Blue Key, junior men's hat society, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the TUB.

Rudy Kohn, president of the group, said the program will include demonstrations and explanations of the wrestling point scoring system, examples of the basic holds used by collegiate grapplers, and a showing of movies of the Eastern Intercollegiate wrestling matches from which three College entries emerged victorious.

Those who have tentatively agreed to be on hand for the affair are Wrestling Coach Charles Speidel, Co-captains Donald Frey and Joseph Lemyre, and of the wrestling team including Richard Lemyre, Robert Homan, Douglas Frey, and Hudson Samson. Joseph Lemyre is reigning 167-pound national champ, and he, Richard Lemyre, and Homan are current Eastern champions.

Arguing affirmatively for the College, Benjamin Sinclair and David Swanson will debate a Dickinson negative team in 128 Sparks. Thomas Farrell will act as chairman, and Nick Stamateris as timekeeper.

Meyer Bushman and Thomas K. White will uphold the negative against a squad from Bucknell in 200 Carnegie. Ernest Schonberger will serve as chairman with Joseph Oberster as timekeeper.

Both teams will debate the national intercollegiate topic, Resolved: that the Congress of the United States should enact a compulsory fair employment practices law.

The three schools will join forces in a symposium-type discussion at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in 316 Sparks. Speakers from each team will give seven-minute speeches on discrimination in employment. # Chapel Speakers Named for Spring

A schedule of Chapel service speakers and special religious activities for the winter-spring semester have been announced by the Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, chaplain. The schedule:

Weatherman Hits High Percentage On Predictions

Don't blame the weatherman when he's wrong, for in State College, at least, he's right 90 per cent of the time. Or so says a Centre Daily Times survey of weather forecasts made by Charles L. Hosler, assistant professor of meteorology.

Hosler bases his predictions on teletype weather reports, observations of the clouds, and on readings of weather instruments located on the roof of the Mineral Industries Building.

The records of the College weather post date back to 1887, but unofficial records by someone on Ag Hill are dated 1882 and 1883.

Do many people call up to gripe about wrong forecasts? According to Hosler, yes, but just as many call up to thank him for right predictions.
