

College to Notify Parents Of First Drinking Offense

A motion providing that parents of women students reported for drinking be notified after the first offense was passed last night by Women's Student Government Association Senate.

After discussing such a recommendation by the administration, Senate voted in favor of the measure which provides that a letter be sent from the College explaining that the coed had been reported for drinking and was liable for expulsion for a repeated offense.

It was explained that parents who were aware of the first violation would be better prepared for the possible expulsion which could result from a second offense. In all cases of students reported for breaking the College rulings against drinking a second time, parents have been notified. Only in specific cases have they received letters after the first violation.

It was also suggested that the letters be held at least a week, giving the girls opportunity to telephone or write home and personally explain the situation to parents before the administration's warning arrived.

Dean of Women Pearl O. Weston had previously stated that she would comply with the decision reached by WSGA concerning the matter.

Senate also voted to contribute $100 to the All-College scholarship fund.

Yvonne Carter, chairman of a committee to investigate dormitory rates for weekend guests, reported the rates have already been modified by the department of housing.

Discussion by the group on a suggestion of a career conference to be sponsored by WSGA independently, or with the Penn State Christian Association, resulted in no positive action. The sponsorship of one prominent speaker instead of the conference was also proposed.

Patricia Ellis was appointed to advise the planning of the booklet "Tune in WSGA" issued to new students by the organization.

'Dimes' Radio Show To Aid Polio Drive

As part of the State College March of Dimes drive, station WMAJ will present the annual Dimes and Dollars for Discs show 9 to 12 p.m. Sunday, according to Edward F. Ormsby, publicity director for the drive.

The program will be conducted similarly to the station's regular Groovology program, except that requested selections will be played in return for pledges to the polio drive. The entire WMAJ staff will work voluntarily to handle phone calls, announcing, and record spinning, Ormsby said.

Students Benefited

In past years, pledges received from fraternities, sororities, dormitory units, and individuals have totaled over $1000. Ninety per cent of the pledges have come from students or student groups.

Students of the College, who are considered Centre County residents, are the responsibility of the local chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, Ormsby stated. Any student stricken by polio will receive treatment available through funds collected in the local drive. Half the total contributions are kept in Centre County, while the other 50 per cent is sent to the national foundation for use in epidemic areas.

Asks For Volunteers

Direct solicitations of students by postal card will not be made this year. The drive is not included in the Campus Chest because a national foundation regu-

Sara Ann Updegraff Okay Joe?

Chi Omega can truly be proud of lovely Sara Ann, an L.A. senior from New Cumberland. With due regret, we feel it only fair announcing to the men on campus that Sara Ann was recently engaged to Petty Officer Don Hosier, U.S.N.

It was a toss up this week as to who was going to be our "OK, Joe" girl. Both Miss Marohnic and Miss Updegraff were so far above the ordinary that we were in a quandry to select merely one. So we placed Jean in Tuesday's Collegian and Sara Ann in today's issue. You'll both receive a beautiful bouquet of roses from florist Jimmy Wolfe.

This is about the only time of the class year when we are not rushed, and, of course, it is most advantageous to our sittings. Right now we can, and do, spend up to an hour with each sitting and in some cases even more. If you're one of the so called "problem cases," then this is the best time of the year to make your appointment.
