

Matmen's Foes to See Double

DOUBLE TROUBLE is spelled for all Nittany Lion adversaries when they tackle the Frey twins, Doug and Don, and the Lemyres, Dick and Joe. The Freys and Lemyres represent once-victorious Penn State's "brother act." Don

6 Vets, New Coach to Mark Lehigh's Mat Visit Saturday

By SAM PROCOPIO

When the Engineers of Lehigh invade Recreation Hall Saturday, they will not only bring to the Nittany Vale an experienced and ever-strong wrestling squad but a new coach—Gerald C. Leeman. He succeeds William Sheridan, who served as mat mentor for Lehigh for 40 years, beginning with the 1912 team.

Although the coach will mark his first appearance as varsity coach here, Leeman's squad will not, for it is comprised of veterans. Lehigh, a perennial threat in the East, possesses six lettermen in the starting lineup, headed by Captain Ed Mahoney. The other letter winners are Jim Mahoney, no relation to Ed, Ken Faust, Bill Carlisle, Jack Platt, and Joe Comly.

Thrice Unbeaten
Carlisle is the only matman who did not face the Lions last year. Penn State won, 20-5.

Unbeaten in three starts this season, Leeman shows that he is not new in the wrestling business and is capable of sporting a strong team.

The Engineers opened their season with an impressive 18-10 win over Cornell and followed that with a decisive triumph over Rutgers, 29-3. Last Saturday Lehigh pinned Franklin and Marshall, 32-0.

'Tighten Belts'
The latter score was so impressive that Coach Charlie Speidel expects nothing but a tough battle.

"We will have to tighten our belts now," he said. "We just can't go around thinking that we will defeat every team. Lehigh will be the toughest opponent that we will face in our league."

he explained. Pittsburgh, which is not in the EIWA league, is the other team considered by the Lions' stocky mentor as "tough."

Registered Falls
The Lion matmen, however, will have double trouble in store for the Engineers. Penn State has a two-brother act or so-called "murderers' row" in Don, co-captain, and Doug Frey and Dick and Joe Lemyre, co-captain. The Frey brothers are identical twins.

Don and Dick have registered falls in their initial outings, while their brothers picked up wins via decisions.

Most spectacular about Don Frey's pin against Virginia University last Saturday was that he wrestled in the 167-pound class, although the scrappy tackler is a 147-pound division wrestler.

Speidel, who moved up most of his men one weight, advanced Don two weight classes. The Lion coach said the move-ups were made "to help the team and not the individual."

Scoring Giant

Penn State's Jesse Arnette averaged 19 points per game in his first season of college basketball.

Palms, Irvineers Lead Intramural Cage Loops

By TOM WERNER

The Palms, league D, and the Irvineers, league C, tightened their holds on league first places with wins in independent IM basketball at Rec Hall Tuesday night.

The Nightmares couldn't stop Tom Anderson as he racked up 15 points to lead the Palms to a 43-30 victory. The Nightmares, within shooting distance at the end of the half, 16-13, could not keep up with the victors and became another stepping stone in the Palms' perfect 5-0 record.

DIR's Win

The Irvineers had little trouble in rolling up a 46-15 victory over a fang-less Lion five. Both teams possess perfect records—the Irvineers with no losses, at the top of the league C, and the Lions, with no wins, at the bottom. Stan Lassoff, with 18 markers, and Lew Levin, with 16, led the Irvineers.

Other action in league C saw the D.I.R.'s hand the West 25 quintet its first loss of the season, 37-18. Leading all the way, the D.I.R.'s had little trouble with 6-8 Wil Hauer dumping in nine for the winning cause. Both teams are right behind the Irvineers with 4-1 logs.

Jack Dunn Stars

The Rovers couldn't figure out the Mob's one man mob, Ed Mueller, as he sank 16 to clinch the 26-22 victory for his team. Both Fives have the same 2-3 records in league C. In the same league, the States forfeited to the Polecats.

In the most fabulous scoring duel of the season, Jack Dunn, playing for Joe's Boys, pitted his talents against the whole of the Hoopster's team and won, 28-22. Trailing at halftime, 11-6, Dunn pushed 11 field goals through in the second half to come out on top at the final whistle. Joe's Boys, with a 4-1 season mark, are behind the Palms in League D.

Grizzlies Bow

The Aces played well enough to emerge at the top of a 17-6 score over the Radads, also in league D.

At the short end of the 10-2 halftime score, the Grizzlies bared their fangs too late to overcome the eight point Trojan lead and succumbed 16-13. Thus, the Trojans managed to hold onto second place in league B, looking over the Nighthawks' shoulders, tops in that league.

The Cadets came within four points of winning their first contest of the season, but the end of the game saw the Devils ahead, 15-11.

Gilbert Named To NCAA Post

Harold R. "Ike" Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics, has been appointed to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's boxing rules committee.

He was named to the position formerly filled by Dr. Carl P. Schott, dean emeritus of the School of Physical Education and Athletics.

Gilbert has also been appointed to the finance committee of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

NRA Rifle Shoots

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Rifle and Pistol Championships will be fired this year at Camp Perry, Ohio, from Aug. 22 to Sept. 7.

It will be the 68th firing of the championships, and the 26th time they have been held at Camp Perry.

Leading Grid Scorer

A hometown boy, Bill Leonarc, was Penn State's leading scorer in 1952. The 190-pound halfback, a sure-footed kicker, booted two field goals and 21 of 23 extra points to rack up 27 points—three more than his nearest competitors.

Collegiate Chatter

Boston University backers blame the Terriers' mediocre 1952 grid record mainly on the loss of their brilliant end, Bob Capuano. Capuano had been counted on to team with passing wizard Harry Agganis to give the Beantowners' the top aerial combination in the East.

Agganis, "The Golden Greek," had a great season, but the Capuano-less Terriers could boast only five wins against four losses and a tie for the campaign.

Ken Loeffler, coach of La Salle's top-ranking basketball squad, has departed from the tradition of naming a team captain at the beginning of the season. Loeffler claims that the added burden of the captaincy sometimes hampers the player's effectiveness.

Loeffler says "I prefer to pass the honor of being captain around until the end of the season, when the players can elect one. I want it to be an award rather than a responsibility."

Bernie Faloney and Bob "Blubber" Morgan have been elected co-captains of the Maryland eleven for the 1953 season. Faloney was a mainstay of the Terp defensive squad in 1952, as well as spelling All-American quarterback Jack Scarbath.

Morgan, a 235-pound tackle, is the nucleus around which Coach Jim Tatum hopes to build another mighty Terrapin forward wall.
