FIVE CENTS

Disciplinary Group To Hear 3 Students

Three students will appear before the Senate disciplinary committee next week for what Dean of Admissions C. O. Williams calls charges of fraudulent and falsifying registration.

The students, according to Williams, tried to register out of turn or have someone else register for them and were caught by registration officials. After warning they were released but tried to register again out of turn. What disciplinary action would be taken could not be determined before the appearance of the students before the committee, Williams said.

FMA Elects New Board Of Trustees

A Board of Trustees was elected last night at a meeting of the Fraternity Marketing Association at Phi Kappa Sigma.

The Board of Trustees consists of five alumni members, two trustees-at-large, and five student members.

I. C. Boerlin, supervisor of audio-visual aids, was elected alumni trustee for a five-year term and was appointed chairman pro tempore of the board. Other alumni trustees elected for four, three, two, and one-year terms respectively were Richard A. Benefield, Ralph E. Peters, S. H. Campbell, and R. J. Grace.

R. K. Murray, assistant professor of history, was elected trustee-at-large for a two-year term, and H. W. Perkins, assistant dean of men, was elected to a similar post for a one year term.

The five student trustees elected were Julius Shapiro, Richard Shively, William Mullen, Ted Frazier, and William Hafley.

The FMA, now consisting of 22 members, is an organization of fraternities which makes possible large-scale buying from wholesalers. Currently the buying includes only canned goods and potatoes, but as more fraternities take part in the program it can be expanded to include all types of food and supplies. The idea for the program, designed to reduce fraternity expenses through wholesale buying, was borrowed from Ohio University where it has been successful.

Completion Of 3 Buildings Undetermined

No definite dates have been set for the completion of three of the four building construction jobs now underway at the College, Walter Wiegand, director, department of physical plant, said yesterday.

Wiegand has abandoned originally planned completion dates for the new Pattee Library wing, the new chemistry building, and the Rec Hall extension. The change in plans is due to the critical steel shortage, Wiegand said.

Wiegand also announced there will be no ceremonies at the cornerstone laying in the buildings under construction. This includes the nearly completed wing of Buckhout Lab.

Construction work at Holmes Field, site of the future Student Union Building, has been progressing steadily since the groundbreaking ceremonies Jan. 8. At the present time, bulldozers, trucks, and a power shovel are moving earth to fill low areas and are excavating for the building's foundation.

AIM Proposal Requests 6th Semester President

By DIEHL McKALIP
Association of Independent Men President William Shifflett last night proposed a constitutional amendment that if passed would require future AIM presidents to be sixth semester students at the time of their election.

The AIM Board of Governors also voted in favor of the proposed 20 cent fee which would be added to each student's fees for support of the campus radio station. Final action on the fee will be taken at tonight's meeting of All-College Cabinet.

Shifflett's amendment, which will be eligible for adoption upon its second reading at the next AIM meeting, will fill the now lacking section of the constitution that provides no set rule regard-

Cabinet to Decide Fate of Radio Fee

Confirmation By Trustees Is Necessary

Final action on a proposed 20-cent a semester fee to support a campus radio station will be taken tonight by All-College Cabinet, according to John Laubach, president.

The proposed fee was first approved by All-College Cabinet at its last meeting Jan. 15. In order to be valid the fee must be approved by a two-thirds majority of All-College Cabinet and must be approved by the Board of Trustees for collection.

provides that for sums exceeding $100 approval must be given at readings in two consecutive meetings of cabinet.

Originally the fee was asked to be 15 cents per student a semester on a motion by James Plyler, All-College vice president, but an amendment by David Pellnitz, chairman of the Board of Publications, raised the amount to 20 cents.

The additional money may be used for expansion of radio facilities in fraternities and larger town housing units. These units would not have been reached except through frequency modulation radios under the plans based on the 15-cent fee.

It was believed at the time of the last cabinet meeting that the College would agree to match the $3000 raised under the 15-cent fee plan, but it was not known whether the College is willing to go along with matching the $4000 raised with a 20-cent fee.

The transmitter to be used is an FM transmitter donated to the College. In order to be heard by most students in dormitories, devices will be needed to convert the signals from FM to amplitude modulation.

Cabinet will also hear a report on Religion-in-Life Week by William Griffith, chairman of the RILW committee.

Williams States Drop-add Rule

C. O. Williams, registrar, yesterday referred students to the "Regulations for Undergraduate Students" in an effort to clarify College policy concerning drop-add forms.

Section J of the regulations states that with his adviser's approval, a student may add a course during the first two weeks of a semester, or drop a course during the first four weeks of a semester.

A student may drop a course after the first four weeks of a semester only upon written approval of his dean. Such authorization is given only under extraordinary circumstances other than scholastic difficulties.

A student will be charged a fee of $2 for each change of schedule unless the change is necessitated by the College, in which case the head of the department initiating the change must certify to the dean of admissions in writing the fact that an exemption from this fee is justified.

Bodde Says West Could Copy Chinese

By CHIZ MATHIAS

The Western world could benefit much from the philosophy of natural harmony in everyday life practiced by the Chinese, Dr. Derk Bodde, professor of Chinese at the University of Pennsylvania, told a near capacity audience last night in 121 Sparks at the first Liberal Arts lecture.

Too much emphasis has been put on the individual in Western civilization and this has led to internal tension and conflict with his fellowmen, Bodde said. To the Chinese the individual is but a humble working part of the whole. Everyman recognizes his abilities and finds his place in life where he can work for the best of society, he said. The Chinese has learned that this social adaptation brings harmony and a simple but peaceful life.

The slim professor pleaded this simple philosophy of the Oriental as a solution to the tensions and international strife of the world today.

Bodde entertained the audience with ancient formulas for changing a concoction of beetles, lead, and mercury into gold. Alchemy as a science is erroneously credited to the sages of ancient Alexandria or Europe, Bodde said, but records indicate that the ancient art first appeared in China in 133 B.C.

Such modern institutions as the civil service also can be traced back 2000 years to the dynasties of the ancient emperors. Examinations were given on the classics of Confucius to anyone desiring a government position. Those with high ratings became officials working for the emperor.

Agricultural practices initiated by Henry A. Wallace during the New Deal also stemmed from the early Chinese, Bodde said. In bountiful years grain was bought by the government and stored in graneries to be resold at normal prices in years of

Injured Student Receives Degree Despite Absence

Robert Amole, graduate student who has been bedridden since being seriously injured by a bull on his father's Pottstown farm Thanksgiving vacation, was awarded a B.S. diploma in geology and mineralogy in absentia during graduation ceremonies Jan. 27.

The 24 year old student is considered "in a safe condition," according to members of his fraternity, Alpha Sigma Phi. He is still paralyzed from the waist down and has been in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, since the beginning of Thanksgiving recess. The College mailed Amole his diploma after graduation exercises.

Because he lacked four credits required for graduation, Amole was classified both an undergraduate and a graduate student.
