

Albrecht To Direct Extension

President Milton S. Eisenhower announced today the appointment of Dr. Herbert R. Albrecht, professor and head of the Department of Agronomy, as director of the Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Service.

Dr. Albrecht will assume his new post July 1. As director he will head the agency through which information pertaining to agriculture, homemaking, and rural community life and welfare is distributed and made effective throughout Pennsylvania. The staff includes agricultural and home economics extension representatives in every county of the state and specialists at the College.

Educated at the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Albrecht's entire career has been identified with land-grant colleges and universities. At Wisconsin he earned his bachelor's, master's, and doctor of philosophy degrees, majoring in plant genetics, a field in which he later was to gain international recognition.

Named assistant agronomist at Alabama Polytechnic Institute in 1936, Dr. Albrecht initiated a program in plant breeding work with forage crops. Five years later he was made associate agronomist. In 1944, he went to Purdue to set up research in forage and turf breeding and a year later was made assistant chairman of the Department of Agronomy. Most of his time at Purdue was devoted to plant breeding and the teaching of genetics.

In 1947, Dr. Albrecht was named professor and head of the Department of Agronomy at the College where he has developed a forage crop research program that has been rated as one of the foremost of its kind in the United States.

No Frosh Women Decision Clarified

No freshman women were accepted to campus this semester primarily because it would be unfair to second semester freshman women who are currently attending Penn State centers under one year contracts, Dean of Admissions C. O. Williams announced yesterday.

When almost 250 women signed contracts to attend centers, he said, the staffs and faculties of these centers had to be increased to handle them. If these 250 women were accepted to the campus, it would leave the centers over-staffed and incur excessive expense. Therefore the women were asked to sign yearly contracts.

Because these women must remain at the centers, Williams explained, it would be unfair to them to accept other first semester women on campus.

Business Leaders To Plan Conclave

The Penn State chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the study lounge of McElwain Hall to plan the state-wide convention of Future Business Leaders chapters to be held on campus sometime in April.

Student teachers Janet Horger and Merlin Teed will conduct a panel discussion on experiences while student teaching. John Ritchey will act as panel chairman. Those interested in becoming members may attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Police Seek Bucknell Coed

Police in 13 states are investigating the disappearance of an 18-year old Bucknell freshman coed who left Lewisburg Friday with a 16-year old boy who planned to drive her to Bethesda, Md., the Associated Press reported yesterday.

Neither has been heard from since.

Jacqueline Mengoni, Trenton, N.J., left a message for her roommate saying she had gone to Washington with Michael O'Connell, who had driven his family's car to Lewisburg Thursday to visit his sister, another student at Bucknell.

Bucknell officials said Miss Mengoni signed out Friday listing Washington as her destination. Her father suggested foul play, but police tried to keep him from becoming alarmed when the coed did not return. Police now admit, however, "The time lapse is beginning to strain that belief."

Riley to Speak

D. H. Riley, assistant manager of power production of the West Penn Power Co., will address the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Institute of Radio Engineers, and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 17 in 219 Electrical Engineering.

Hughes Labs To Renew Plan For Degrees

Hughes Research and Development Laboratories of Culver City, Calif., are renewing for 1953 their cooperative plan for master of science degrees initiated last year. The plan makes it possible for outstanding graduates to obtain M.S. degrees while employed in industry and contributing to important military work.

Eligible are June 1953 college graduates and members of the armed forces being honorably discharged before September 1953 and holding degrees in electrical engineering, physics, or mechanical engineering.

Under the plan, successful candidates will spend half their time in advanced study to complete their master's degrees and the remaining half working in the Hughes Laboratories in Southern California.

Application forms may be obtained by writing to Committee for Graduate Study, Hughes Research and Development Laboratories, Culver City, Los Angeles County, Calif. The final date for submitting completed applications is Feb. 28.

Men May Join Naval Program

A Reserve Officer Candidate program of the Naval Reserve is now open to college students, according to Lt. Commander C. C. Nichols, inspector instructor, U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center, Altoona. Applications for the program, which may be secured at the center, must be submitted prior to Tuesday.

The program is open to college men, except seniors, 17 or over. Those between 18½ and 26, however, must not hold a draft classification other than IV-A.

Additional information concerning the program may be obtained by calling Altoona 3-0731 or at the Naval Reserve Center, Chestnut avenue and Kettle street.

Summer Camps Seek Employees From College

One hundred thirty summer camps seeking students and faculty members interested in summer employment have sent inquiries to the resort division of the Student Employment Service.

At least five camps will interview student-applicants on campus. Students interested in interviews may register in the College Placement Service office, 112 Old Main.

The camps, located in 11 states and Canada, have a wide variety of jobs available in the fields of woodcraft, arts, sports, waterfront activities, music, dramatics, dietetics, counseling, nursing, photography, riflery, nature study, office and kitchen work, and program directing. Most of the camps have eight week seasons.

Information from camps which will not send representatives is on file in the Placement Service office. Students interested in jobs with these resorts may apply directly to the camps in which they are interested.

A resort seminar will be conducted Feb. 19 from 3 to 5 p.m. in 100 Horticulture to acquaint students with specific duties involved in summer resort work.

College Prof To Receive Science Award

The $1000 Precision Scientific Company award in petroleum chemistry will be presented to Robert W. Schiessler, associate professor of chemistry, in Los Angeles March 16.

The award, administered by the American Chemical Society, is given "to recognize, encourage and stimulate outstanding research achievements in the field of petroleum chemistry in the United States and Canada."

During World War II, Professor Schiessler aided in the discovery of a new synthesis process for a super-explosive while conducting research for the Canadian government. This process was the basis for large-scale production of the explosive later in the war.

He is director of the American Petroleum Institute's "Project 42" at the College. This project involves the investigation of pure hydrocarbons and is important in the development of new and improved petroleum products.

Professor Schiessler, a graduate of the College, is from Honesdale. He received his M.S. degree from McGill University and his Ph.D. from the College in 1944. Schiessler joined the College faculty in 1942.

A member of the American Chemical Society, Schiessler is the author of a pamphlet on hydrocarbon synthesis.

Goodrich Will Discuss 19th Century Painters

Lloyd Goodrich, associate director of the Whitney Museum of American Art, will lecture on Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Albert Ryder, 19th century painters, at 8 p.m. Tuesday in 121 Sparks.

The lecture, sponsored by the division of fine and applied arts of the Department of Architecture, will be open to the public.

Loyalty Law --

"My purpose in preparing the bill was to keep our schools and government clear of communism's taint. I can't see anything wrong with that. I can't see why anyone should hesitate to say he is not a subversive.

"Teaching school is not a right. It is a privilege given qualified people and one of the qualifications is taking a loyalty oath."
