Centers to Adopt Technical Courses

Two-year programs in drafting and design technology and in electrical technology will soon be introduced at Penn State centers where there is a need and a desire for such programs, President Milton S. Eisenhower has announced.

Dr. Eric A. Walker, dean of the School of Engineering, said the courses would be designed to prepare young men to become engineering assistants possessing specific technical abilities and skills.

Eng Curriculum Open to Plumbers

The man with the monkey-wrench—the plumber—may soon be on equal status with all professional men.

Plumbers, famous for lengthy conversations while $2-hours tick by, will be able to discuss such subjects as economics, chemistry, mathematics, history, physics, and surveying.

These are the courses offered 20 students now enrolled in a four-year plumbing engineering curriculum at the Los Angeles City College.

Duley to Direct Westminster Foundation

The Rev. John S. Duley will take over his duties as director of the Westminster Foundation tomorrow.

A graduate of Ohio State University in group work and recreation, the Rev. Duley completed work at the Union Theological Seminary in New York City in 1948. While in the seminary, he was field representative for the Protestant Council of New York City. In its behalf he assisted in organizing the Shenks Village Protestant Church, which serves 1400 families of veterans and students at the colleges and universities of New York City.

Since graduation from the seminary he has served as director of student work at the Inter-Church Fellowship of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Mrs. John S. Duley is also a graduate of Ohio State University and was for one year an assistant director of the Westminster Foundation at the university.

Groups Named For May Day

Committees for the annual May Day activities were named by Barbara Werts, general chairman, at a meeting of the Women's Student Government Association of the House of Representatives on Thursday.

The ceremony, which consists of the coronation of a May queen and attendants and the honoring of outstanding senior women, will be held May 9. Peggy Crooks was named chairman of the ceremonies committee.

Other committee chairmen are Genevieve Castrodale, costumes; Diane Miller and Katherine Miesoll, decorations; Joyce Johnson, invitations; Gail Greene and Ruth Israel, music and entertainment; Corinne Janssens, properties; Patricia Ellis and Lorraine Gladius, publicity; and Katherine Reynolds, open house and teas.

Ann Cunningham and Betsey Seigler were appointed to assist in the WSGA elections to be held in March.

Alumni Council Formed To Work for Fund Drive

The formation of an Alumni Fund Council to spearhead Penn State's first Alumni Fund drive beginning March 10 has been announced by John M. Spangler, class of 1911.

Spangler, head of the campaign, has named one member of the council from each of the eight undergraduate schools of the College and six ex-officio members. William Sieg, head of the Penn State Foundation and president of the Titan Metal Manufacturing Co., has taken charge of the special gifts division of the fund.

The drive, which will close June 13 at the all-class luncheon during class reunion weekend, will be the first coordinated effort of Penn State alumni to give the College "a living endowment" to answer the institution's immediate need.

The eight school chairmen will, by the end of February, appoint an agent in each class of their respective branch. These agents will write two letters concerning the Alumni Fund to a group of their classmates; one April 13 and the second May 1.

There will be a competition between the schools and the various classes within the schools on a percentage basis. Weekly reports of the fund's progress will be made to the class agents and a preliminary honor roll will be sent to alumni in June listing the donors by school and class.
