

End Food Woes
In Democratic Way
See Page 4

The Daily Collegian

Students View
Korean War—
See Page 4

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 53, No. 81

STATE COLLEGE, PA., TUESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 10, 1953

FIVE CENTS

Registration Errors Put 3 on Probation

Three men charged with fraudulent and falsifying registration were placed on office probation with the Dean of Men's office Friday until their graduation, Dean of Men Frank J. Simes announced yesterday. They were a fifth semester Agriculture major and first and third semester students in the Chem-Phys school.

Office probation with the Dean of Men's office means that a

Pep Band To Perform Tomorrow

Students attending the American University-Penn State basketball game tomorrow night will see the Air Force ROTC Pep Band make its first appearance of this basketball season.

The Pep Band, consisting of 14 members, is made up entirely of students in the AFROTC program at the College. All are members of the Blue Band.

The idea for the band was originated by Major John F. McHugh, assistant professor of air science and tactics, and adviser to the Pep Band, and Staff Sgt. Robert L. Campbell, instructor of air science and tactics and assistant adviser and conductor of the band.

The Pep Band will play before the game and at the half-time intermission. The program will include dixieland, various school songs, and a few marches.

Members are: James Bortolotto and David Fishburn, trombones; Eugene Thomas, Allan May, and Charles Springman, cornets; Thomas Hahn, Glenn Stumpff, James Stitt, and Mitchell Haller, clarinets; George Georgieff, tuba; Lee Garbrick and John Redmond, drums; Gerald Robinson, baritone; and Neil Andrea on the French horn.

Tomorrow night's presentation culminates many months of arranging by Sgt. Campbell and many hours of practice by the band.

Allan McChesney, head cheerleader, said the band has possibilities as an aid to cheering, which has been lacking at recent basketball games.

Faculty Members Injured in Collision

Two faculty members were among four persons injured Sunday when two automobiles collided two miles east of DuBois.

Dr. Donald G. McGarey, associate professor of education, and William Lockhard, graduate assistant in the School of Education, were listed in fair condition at DuBois Maple Avenue Hospital.

McGarey suffered a hip injury, and Lockhard sustained a fractured nose, face cuts, an injured knee, and lacerations.

A resident of Pittsburgh received body bruises, and his mother suffered several fractured ribs as the cars collided in the fog. They were admitted to the hospital.

Council to Elect Officers

New officers of Pollock Council will be elected at a meeting at 6:30 tonight in the council room of Dorm. 20.

Dormitory presidents in the Pollock area are requested by President Joseph Gardecki to attend.

TODAY'S WEATHER

CLOUDY
AND COLD

Campus Flu Cases Overflow Infirmary

Discuss Talent Show

—Photo by Schroeder

PETER LANSBURY (seated) discusses tentative program arrangements with John Matkowsky, master of ceremonies for the All-College Talent Show, sponsored by the Penn State Club. Matkowsky and ten others were chosen from 26 contestants who tried out for the talent show, which will be held Feb. 20 in Schwab Auditorium.

Ten Acts Selected For Talent Show

Ten acts have been chosen to perform in the Penn State Club's annual All-College Talent Show to be held Feb. 20 in Schwab Auditorium.

Michael Belgio, tenor, and Peggy Crooks, soprano, will be soloists in the talent show.

Joanne McNally and Peggy Mayberry will do a blues dance duet.

Anthony Marco will be trumpet soloist.

The MellowAires, comedy quartet, was also chosen for the talent show. The Apple Brothers, alias Ross Lytle and Anthony Mattos, have a comedy act.

Morton Akins and his five-man ensemble will perform on pop bottles.

The Lee Garbick Trio—vibraharp, guitar, and string bass—will also participate. The Collegians, a quartet made up of two graduate students and two undergraduates, will perform a few barbershop favorites.

Celeste McDermott combines tap dancing with acrobatics to provide the tenth act.

John Matkowsky has been selected as master of ceremonies.

Peter Lansbury, chairman of the talent show auditions committee, said it was difficult for the committee to choose 10 from the 26 contestants who tried out for the show, because all of them were good.

Engineer Features Valentine, Reading TV

The February issue of the Penn State Engineer is now on sale at the Corner Room and at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Theresa Hess, third semester elementary education major, is featured as February's "Valentine."

The world's most powerful TV station and one of the world's highest towers are described in "What Have You Missed in TV?," an article about Reading's new WHUM-TV. Included in the issue are Sly Drools, photo pages, New Developments, and other features.

Town Council to Meet

The new constitution of Town Council will be presented at a council meeting at 7 tonight in 102 Willard, Edward Thieme, president, has announced.

Illness Called Not Serious By Dr. Glenn

Influenza at the College, which so far has filled the infirmary to overflowing, was termed not serious yesterday by Herbert R. Glenn, director of the College Health Service.

Forty-one beds were filled in the 30 bed-capacity infirmary late yesterday. Extra beds were moved to the infirmary from nearby women's dormitories to take care of the present rush. The beds were placed in the sun rooms or doubled-up with others in the usual one or two-bed rooms. A total high of 43 was reported at one time yesterday.

Glenn said he believed the sickness was probably gripe, and not flu, as called in papers throughout the country where the illness has been noticeable. Gripe, although similar in symptoms in influenza, is not as serious, he said.

The illness of the students is characterized by chills and aching muscles, Dr. Glenn said. Dressing warmly and other precautions will not prevent the disease.

Because it is a contagious or contact disease, he said, merely attending classes can expose the student to the illness. The disease is thought to be a virus disease, he said.

Students who have been in the infirmary with the flu usually stayed there three or four days. They are released 24 hours after the fever subsides. No students have been turned away thus far. How many more beds could fit into the infirmary could not be immediately determined.

Asked what might happen if a major outbreak of the sickness hit the campus, Glenn said it would be up to the President's office and "that bridge will be crossed when we come to it."

UN Executive Will Discuss Korea Tonight

Dr. Andrew W. Cordier, executive assistant to the secretary general of the United Nations, will speak on "The Impact of Korea on the United Nations" at 8 tonight in 119 Osmond.

Cordier's position in the United Nations is subordinate only to the secretary general. He is responsible for the operation of the General Assembly and the Little Assembly.

He was the officer in charge June 25, 1950, when announcement of the start of the Korean conflict was made. He was a member of the preliminary commissions which set up the United Nations, including Dumbarton Oaks, London, and San Francisco. Cordier has made two world tours since taking his post.

He will be presented at the College by the Penn State Christian Association in cooperation with the Political Science department and the International Relations Club.

Cordier received his A.B. and LL.D. degrees at Manchester College, A.M. and Ph.D. at the University of Chicago, and has attended the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva, Switzerland.

O'Connor to Speak

Dr. John J. O'Connor, instructor in philosophy, will speak to the Philosophy Seminar on "Which Freedoms Are Good?" at 4 p.m. today in 129 Sparks.

Journalism Professor, Mahuran, Dies at 60

Dr. Stuart A. Mahuran, professor of journalism, died of a stroke at 10:15 a.m. yesterday in his State Collegé home. He was 60 years old.

Coming to the College in 1941 with one of the six Ph.D. degrees in journalism in the world, Doctor Mahuran taught classes in printing, problems of newspaper publishing, and editorial writing. He was one of the best informed men in the teaching profession on publishing small town dailies, Journalism department head Franklin C. Banner said.

Son of a small-town Iowa publisher, Doctor Mahuran had 18 years of experience as editor, editorial writer, and reporter on midwestern dailies. He had taught journalism courses for over 19 years.

During his term with the College faculty, he served as editor-in-chief of the National Echo and as editor of the School Press Exchange, a publication sent to high schools. He was a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, and of the Association of Teachers and Professors of Journalism.

Doctor Mahuran, magician avocationist, had presented over 400 magic shows in the Central Pennsylvania area. He was a member of the Society of American Magicians and the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

Immediately before joining the College staff, the veteran newsman was director of the School of Journalism, Creighton University, Omaha, Neb., where he served earlier as an assistant professor of journalism.

In 1917 Doctor Mahuran acted

Dr. Stuart A. Mahuran
Dies of stroke

as superintendent of the Hazelton, Iowa, high school. In 1922 he went to the Dubuque, Iowa, Telegraph-Herald, where he was a reporter and later an editorial writer. Later, he served as city editor of the Clinton, Iowa, Herald, and again on the Dubuque Telegraph-Herald as managing editor.

(Continued on page three)