

Leonides Plans Open Houses

Leonides voted last night to change the date of its observation of National Independent Student Week because it conflicts with Religion-in-Life Week. The Independent Student Week is set nationally for Feb. 15-21 and was changed on campus to the week of Feb. 23.

Profs Asked To Bring RILW Into Classroom

The suggestion that professors be asked to devote one class period during Religion-in-Life Week, Feb. 15 to 22, to religious discussion has been approved by the RILW general committee.

The committee feels that through increased emphasis on classroom discussion, a more intimate and practical contact can be made with the RILW theme "The Student in the University, the Church, and the World Struggle," Edgar Fehnel, RILW publicity chairman, said.

Upon a professor's approval of such a discussion period, students may decide if they want a religious discussion in place of regular class.

The committee has expressed the desire that the instructors lead the discussions themselves and try to tie religion in with the course they are teaching. In this way, students will not feel as imposed upon as in previous years when guest speakers entered the classrooms, Fehnel said.

Should a guest speaker be desired, instructors or students can contract one by calling the Penn State Christian Association, 304 Old Main, and stating what topic they want discussed.

Players Crews To Continue Workshop Training

Players will continue their series of workshops to train volunteers for backstage work at three meetings tonight.

Joyce Lupton will be in charge of a workshop in stage props at 7 p.m. in the basement of Schwab Auditorium. Volunteers for sound crews will meet with Frank Baxter at 7 p.m. in the Little Theater, basement of Old Main.

Allen Adair and Prim Diefenderfer will give instructions to applicants for makeup crews at 7 p.m. at the makeup room in Schwab.

A technical workshop will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the loft by William Nudorf. Patricia Jenkins will conduct the costumes workshop at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the basement of Schwab.

Over 300 Attend RWF Open House

More than 300 people attended an open house at the new student center and education building of the University Baptist Church Sunday afternoon.

Members of the Roger Williams Fellowship, Baptist student organization, served as ushers.

A supper for 60 members of the student group and their guest speakers, Dr. Frank Sharp of New York and Dr. Samuel Proctor of Richmond, Va., followed the reception. The Jr.-Sr.-Hi Baptist Youth Fellowship members, directed by Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Edge, were also guests.

Visitors from all parts of the state toured the $90,000 center which contains ten rooms devoted to church and school classes.

During the week, Leonides will hold open houses for various independent men's living units. The open houses will be held in the lounges of five women's dormitories. Sally McKnight was placed in charge of scheduling the invitations.

Leonides also proposed an amendment to its constitution. Article 7, by-law 4, states that the executive committee will be elected the spring semester and will begin to function the next to last meeting of that semester. The amendment proposes the executive committee will be elected the spring semester and begin to function at the following meeting. Because of a constitutional rule the proposed amendment was tabled until the next meeting, March 1, when it will be voted upon.

Members of the newly chosen election committee are Eleanor Voyvodich, chairman; Barbara Easter, Ruth Israel, Carolyn Marsh, Eleanor Rector, Barbara Richards, and Eleanor Robb. The campus-wide Leonides election will be held at the end of March.

Leonides recently contributed $50 to the All-College Scholarship Fund.

Christy to Play At TUB Dance

Lynn Christy and his Campusers will play for the Penn State Dames Sweetheart Dance to be held from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the Temporary Union Building. Tickets, to be sold only at the door, are $1.50.

Mrs. Robert Belfit is general chairman for the dance. Serving on the reception committee are Mrs. Richard Mathieu, chairman, Mrs. R. W. Scollon, Mrs. John Roberts, Mrs. Vernon Rank, and Mrs. Thomas Curry.

In charge of tickets are Mrs. David Jones, chairman, Mrs. William Sheppard, and Mrs. Albert Miller. Mrs. John Cusack is in charge of refreshments.

On the decoration committee are Mrs. William Biles, chairman, Mrs. Stanley Speaker, Mrs. William Sanders, Mrs. Robert Manning, and Mrs. William Alexander. Mrs. Harold Stetson and Mrs. Richard Mathieu are on the publicity committee.

Graduate students' wives who are interested in joining the organization should contact Eleanor Taylor at 6685. Meetings of the Dames are open to all wives of graduate students.

Camp Job Interviews Set for Tomorrow

W. Nelson, regional representative of the Council of Racial Equality, will interview students interested in inter-racial work camps from 2 to 4 p.m. tomorrow at the Penn State Christian Association, 304 Old Main.

Opportunities to apply for work camps in Europe, Mexico, and the United States are available through the PSCA. Further details about the camps can be found in the PSCA files.

WRA Dance To Feature Greek Motif

"Grecian Valentine" will be the theme of the WRA Sweetheart Dance to be held from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in White Hall.

Six white Greek columns will be placed around the gym, three on each side. At one end of the room a white trellis with red roses and a fountain involving a bird bath will make up a garden scene. Antique iron chairs will be in front of the trellis.

Cupids, hearts, and other Valentine decorations will cover the four walls. The bandstand, from which Jack Jenkins and his orchestra will provide music for the dance, will be set up opposite the garden scene. Spotlights will illuminate the decorations.

The semi-formal dance is a girl-ask-boy affair. Proceeds will go to help a war orphan previously selected by the WRA.

Tickets are now on sale at $1.50 per couple at the Student Union desk in Old Main. They will also be available at the door.

Young GOP's to Hold Valentine Party in TUB

The Young Republican Club will hold a Valentine party at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Temporary Union Building.

Officers recently elected are Suzanne Berleue, corresponding secretary; Judith McWilliams, recording secretary; Agnes Porter, treasurer; and Sanford Lichtenstein to the executive board.

Valentine Buffet

A Valentine buffet supper will be held Sunday in all women's dining halls. Women students will assist with serving. The dining halls will be decorated by a Valentine's Day theme and candles.

Agenda Planned For WSGA Senate

Women's Student Government Association Senate will meet at 6:30 tonight in White Hall, Joan Hutchon, president, has announced.

Senate will discuss representatives to be sent to the Eastern College Convention of WSGA April 2 at Ohio State University. The group will also select the speaker and date for the annual spring WSGA convocation, at which new officers will be installed.

A report on spring elections will be heard, in addition to a request from Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism fraternity, that election of the "Quill Girl" be included with WSGA-Women's Recreation Association elections.

ATO to Collect Clothing Today

Beginning at noon today, the actives and pledges of Alpha Tau Omega will collect used clothing in State College for the Women's Club rummage room in the Frazier Street School.

Thomas Barrett, president of the fraternity, said the men will start out at noon and attempt to cover the borough by late in the evening. Persons are asked to have their porch lights turned on so the ATO men will know there are clothes ready for the collectors.

This project is being carried out as a special feature of the fraternity's "Help Week." Clothing for school children is especially needed, but all types of good used articles will be collected.

Persons who are missed during the collection may call the fraternity, 7683, and the clothes will be called for.

One pound of steel will make 20 miles of the wire used for watch hairspring.
