FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 53, No. 83

STATE COLLEGE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 12, 1953

FIVE CENTS

Committee to Select First Business Dean

President Milton S. Eisenhower has appointed a committee to assist in finding a dean for the School of Business to open at the College July 1.

Changes being recommended by a committee from the present Department of Economics and Commerce, which will be replaced by the new school, will meet the requirements of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

AIM Men May File Complaints

Complaint forms will be available to independent students for reporting cases of misconduct by other independent men to the recently created Association of Independent Men Judicial Board of Review.

The board chairman, Edward Thieme, said they would be mimeographed and available by this weekend. They may be obtained from dormitory presidents, dormitory council presidents, dormitory counselors, and the Dean of Men's office on campus and from Thieme in town.

The group, which will hear all cases of independent men reported by other students, counselors, and borough and College authorities, named John Ball, secretary, and Robert Smoot, treasurer.

Thieme said the board would probably hear its first cases Monday night if the meeting does not conflict with Religion-in-Life Week. It will sit in the Student Government room, 204 Old Main, and will attempt to maintain an informal atmosphere, he said.

Penalties will be in the form of fines and dormitory or overall probation, in which cases the offender will be required to report to his counselor or to members of the board, Thieme stated. He added that in serious cases or repeated offenses, recommendations will be made to the Dean of Men's office.

Tribunal Hears Five Violators

Tribunal held an abbreviated extra session last night to hear past student violations which had been accumulating. The court also held two sessions last week.

Four persons received first offense sentences and a subsequent $1 fine, while another received a warning.

A student, whose car was reported illegally parked on Burrows road last month, received a warning. He explained the vehicle had broken down, and it was impossible to move it to his regular parking area.

Two students were sentenced for their first offense and received $1 fines for parking in the service driveway of Pollock Dorm 10. They left the cars there while getting suitcases to go home.

Acting chairman Jack Donnal used these cases to point out the importance of getting special permission from Capt. Philip A. Mark on such occasions. He urged that all students bringing a car to campus for a short time secure a temporary permit from the Campus Patrol.

Cabinet to Discuss Hospital Expansion

'Jada, Jada...'

THE NEWLY-FORMED Pep Band, which played at Recreation Hall for the first time last night, swings into a rendition of "Jada" for the spectators attending the American University-Penn State basketball game.

Swarthmore Paper Regrets Headline

Issues of the Phoenix, Swarthmore College student newspaper, were selling Tuesday for $2 a copy. And the staff was scurrying all over the campus trying to collect and burn stray copies.

A big black 2 1/2 inch headline declaring "Adlai Prexy!!" was the cause of all the trouble.

The announcement that Adlai E. Stevenson, unsuccessful 1952 Democratic nominee for President, had accepted the presidency of the college, was squashed by Dr. John W. Nason, retiring president. Said he: "There is absolutely no truth to the story. Mr. Stevenson has not accepted the presidency of the college. It just isn't true."

Rumors Circulating Said Stevenson, in a telegram to the Philadelphia Inquirer: "It's all news to me. Tell me more."

The issue of the Phoenix hit the campus at 6 p.m. By 6:30 copies were being sold at a premium, and the quotation at 7:30 was $2.

Rumors that Stevenson would be named to succeed Nason had circulated around the campus since Sunday.

How the story got into print was a mystery. The issue was the first put out under the editorship of Peter Bart, junior in the School of Political Science. He couldn't be reached in the newspaper's offices or his dormitory room.

President Maintains Silence Bart's immediate predecessor, John Purnell, a senior, said he believed the story had been added to copy that was prepared for the printer Monday. No such story had passed by Bart, he declared.

The college's president said until he learns more about the affair, he could not speculate about punishment.

The last paragraph may have been added to clear Bart, some students believed. It said:

"Editor Bart, a little breathless from the whole affair, has so far been able to say only that 'this whole affair certainly comes as a surprise to me.'"

It probably did.

In addition to the news story, the paper carried an editorial entitled "Good Luck," which concluded: "Our best wishes and fervent hopes go out to our new president."

Senate Group To Get Quiz On Finances

Questions regarding the possible future expansion of the College Health Service will be presented tonight to All-College Cabinet by John Laubach, president.

Cabinet, which will meet at 8 p.m. in 201 Old Main, will be given the opportunity of adding to the list of questions. The list, if approved, will be submitted to

- AGENDA
- Roll call
 - Minutes of the previous meeting.
 - Reports of officers
 - Adoption of agenda
 - Reports of committees:
 1. student scholarship committee.
 - Old Business:
 1. Religion-in-Life-Week finance.
 - New Business:

 2. Report on health service
 3. Appointments

 - Adjournment

the Senate committee on student affairs and then be sent to the sub-committee on health and recreation.

Some of the questions will be: What is going to be done to increase the College Health Service? What plans are to be made in the immediate future to get funds? How, specifically, will funds that are raised be used?

Other action scheduled for tonight is the approval or disapproval of a $200 donation to the Religion-in-Life Week expense fund. The donation was approved last week after its first reading. The All-College constitution states that action concerning more than $100 cannot become final until cabinet has given its approval at two consecutive sessions.

Edgar Fehnel, chairman of the student scholarship committee, will report on plans to be made for distributing scholarship applications. The Student Scholarship Fund, started by cabinet action, has been built up through the receipts of the last two Spring Weeks and donations.

Plans for a special sports event will be presented to cabinet by Joseph Lemyre, president of the Athletic Association. The event, which is tentatively scheduled for the third week in April, will include demonstrations of ping-pong and tennis by Pauline Betz, professional tennis player, he said.

The exhibition will be handled by Cabinet Projects Council, Lemyre said. Proceeds from the event will be given to Campus Chest.

Semester Fees Payable Feb. 19-20

Student fees for the spring semester will be collected from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 19 and 20 in the basement of Willard Hall.

The exact amount of each student's fees will be posted by matriculation number on large boards opposite the cashiers' windows. To save time for students and administration, David C. Hogan, bursar, requests that students write their checks before entering one of the seven alphabetical lines. Checks should be made payable to the Pennsylvania State College.

Printed sheets giving an estimate of undergraduate fees are available at the Bursar's office.

The new undergraduate school, the College's ninth, expects to apply for membership in the association shortly after its establishment.

Changes Need Approval A graduation requirement of 139 credits may be required by the School of Business. This is seven credits more than needed for graduation from the School of Liberal Arts, in which business students are now enrolled.

Course changes must have approval of the College Senate before going into effect. The department committee hopes to have its report ready within ten days. This means that the report may be ready for Senate approval at the March meeting.

The department will recommend dropping 30 courses now offered and adding about ten new courses. Recommendation for elimination of the 30 courses is being made so the school can have fewer courses, larger classes, and do a better job of instruction, George L. Leffler, secretary of the committee, said yesterday.

About ten new courses are being added to present a better rounded curriculum. Approximately 120 courses will be offered by the new school. Ralph H. Wherry is chairman of the committee studying course changes.

Probation Period Needed The School of Business, even with a net loss of 20 courses, will have one of the most complete course lists among the larger business schools, Leffler indicated.

After applying for membership in the AACSB, schools are put on a one to three year probationary membership, usually three years.

C. S. Wyand is chairman of the committee assisting the President to find a dean for the school. Others serving on the committee are John Macklin, David H. McKinley, Charles J. Rowland, Arthur H. Reede, Sheldon C. Tanner, Ralph H. Wherry, and Morris Mendelson.

The School of Business will offer courses in accounting, business management, economics, finance, insurance and real estate, marketing, trade, and transportation.

IRRA to Meet Tonight

The Industrial Relations Research Association will meet at 7 tonight in 208 Willard to receive new members. Professor Eugene Myers, adviser to the group, will give an address on the association's activities.

Students Might Receive Flu Confinement Excuses

Students explaining to their instructors that they were absent from class because they were confined to their rooms on advice of College health officials will probably be excused, Director of Student Affairs Wilmer E. Kenworthy said yesterday.

At present, no excuses are given by health officials unless the student is a patient in the Infirmary.

Students who report to the Infirmary and are requested by health officials to confine themselves to their rooms will not be officially excused from classes, according to the 1952-53 Regulations for Undergraduate Students.

It was indicated by a College official that a study of the situation would take place.

In the case of hospital confinement, the regulations state that the director of the College Health Service may issue an official excuse. An official excuse permits the student to make up any required work or examinations without penalty.

Mahuran Services To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Dr. Stuart A. Mahuran, professor of journalism who died Monday, will be held at 10 a.m. today at Our Lady of Victory Church. The Rev. John C. O'Leary will conduct the services. Interment will be at the Centre County Memorial Park.

Journalism classes at 10 and 11 a.m. today have been canceled to permit journalism students and staff members to attend the services.
