

Grecian Theme Featured At Tonight's WRA Dance

Amid a colorful Grecian Valentine background, the Women's Recreation Association will hold its 15th annual Sweetheart Dance from 9 to midnight tonight in White Hall.

Following a combined Grecian and Valentine theme, the decorations will consist of cupids, hearts, and flowers covering the walls of the gymnasium. At one end of the room a garden scene will be depicted, with a rose-entwined white picket fence, antique iron chairs, and a bubbling water fountain. Three white Greek columns will be placed on each side of the gym, and the bandstand will be placed opposite the garden scene.

Music by Jenkins

WRA has annually sponsored the dance since White Hall was first constructed in 1938. For the 15th consecutive year, the dance tonight will be semi-formal, the only one of its kind to be held in White Hall each year. The tradition that the dance be a girl-ask-boy event has been kept.

Music for the dance will be provided by Jack Jenkins and his orchestra, who will feature the Melowaires, a singing quartet consisting of Jenkins, George Ieff, Bob Byrnes, and Jim Shaw. Refreshments, to be served at intermission, will be gingerale and sherbert punch.

Tickets At SU, Door

Proceeds of the dance will be sent to Marie Aftanas, the "adopted" war child of the WRA. This 13-year-old Polish refugee is now living with her mother and two older brothers in a shanty in an American zone DP camp. The organization has already sent the poverty-stricken girl and her family several packages. The proceeds will allow them to keep up their traditional gift of $200 annually for the help of a war child.

Tickets for the dance, which are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main until noon today, are priced at $1.50 per couple. They will also be sold at the door tonight.

With Open Mind

Next evening, when Sammy steps out of the locker room, a car is waiting for him with the door open, so he hops in, figuring it's just another dame what'll give him a lift to his dorm. But no sooner is he in the car when steel handcuffs are flipped on him and he is soon tied hand and foot.

Next thing Sammy knows he is taken for a ride, for quite a while, and Delie (who of course is the abductress) don't say a word, she just keeps driving. Finally Delie stops the car five hours later and leads Sammy into a room in a small Philadelphia hotel. Delie shows Sammy in the corner of the room and takes off—back to State.

A week later Delie drives down to see Sammy again. Sammy is pretty weak by now (what with no food and water for a week) so Delie unties him and gives him a hoagy. He gulps it and then asks Delie what's up.

"Well, Sammy," Delie says, "It's like this. You've been here a week now. We played the big game with Michigan and lost so you're kicked off the team and, of course, without that money, you can't keep in school."

She throws Sammy another hoagy.

"So don't worry," Delie reassures him. "I've got everything fixed—I got you signed up with a pro team. After all, Sammy, only a square plays for kicks anymore—it's the money that counts. So what do you say?"

Sammy shakes his head yes and smiles. Delie tosses him another hoagy.

"One thing, though, Sammy. You'll have to get your hair cut. Your crew cut has grown long while you were here. Who ever heard of a strong guy with long hair?"
