

Coeds Surpass Men in Drive

Campus women as a group contributed a greater amount of money to the student Campus Chest drive than any other group, according to Joseph Haines, acting chairman.

Haines said campus women, including independent and sorority women, gave $2373. Campus men ran second with $1789.44 contributed.

Pre-Vet Club Meeting

Dr. S. F. Scheidy, director of veterinary medicine for the Sharp and Dohme pharmaceutical firm in West Point, Pa., will address the Pre-Vet Club at 7:30 tonight in 105 Agriculture.

No Coffee Hour Today

There will be no Dean of Men's coffee hour today. The former weekly social event is to be held every two weeks this semester, Frank J. Simes, Dean of Men, has announced.

Gardecki President Of Pollock

Joseph Gardecki was elected president of Pollock Council at a council meeting last night. Other officers elected were: vice-president, John Quigley; secretary, Thomas O'Brien; and treasurer, Lewis Maust.

Donald Ludwig was elected representative-at-large to the Association of Independent Men board of governors. Gardecki appointed Robert Clancy food representative for the council on the All-College dining hall committee and Howard Zeutzius chairman of the public welfare committee.

Unless proper support is given the Barons, Nittany-Pollock social organization, Gardecki, who is also acting president of the Barons, said he would ask the Nittany and Pollock Councils to dissolve the organization.

A proposed amendment to the AIM constitution which would limit presidency in that organization to juniors was brought up by Donald Douglass, past president of Pollock Council. He said those in favor of the amendment claim that restricting the office to a junior would raise the prestige of the office, which they contend is now considered merely as a "stepping stone" to some higher campus position. Those against the proposed amendment say that by such a restriction some better men may be denied the right to run for presidency, Douglass said.

1st Art Lecture Set for Today

A lecture-reading on Eugene Delacroix, a leading French romanticist of the mid-19th century, will be presented at 4:15 p.m. today in the Mineral Industries Art Gallery.

This will be the first in a series of four lecture-readings on painters who have done important writing as well as paintings. Francis E. Hyslop, Jr., associate professor of fine arts, will read from "The Journal of Eugene Delacroix."

The presentations arranged by the division of fine and applied arts, will be held each Wednesday for four weeks. Other painters to be included in the series will be Paul Gauguin, Vincent Van Gogh, and John Marin.

Other classifications and their amounts are fraternities, $1304.82; town students, including men and women, $758.63; miscellaneous, $250.84; and commuters, $61.50. Haines said the miscellaneous included contributions that were turned in and could not be classified.

Previous figures released by Chest officials included funds of the March of Dimes and the working fund with student contributions. March of Dimes funds were returned to the Campus Chest last year because the national charter for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis does not permit the acceptance of funds gained through a mass drive.

The working fund of $435.57 and the March of Dimes fund of $959.23, added to the student total of $6538.23, brings the total to $7933.03. However, this is $3 short of the previously announced student total of $7936.03. Chest officials do not know why the $3 difference exists. Haines said he will check into the difference.

Other figures, Kickoff Dance and faculty-administration totals, remain the same. The Sept. 19 Kickoff Dance brought in $1300.34 and the faculty-administration drive totaled $1812.61.

The total collected for the Campus Chest is now either $11,048.98 or $11,045.98, depending upon the missing $3. The goal for the drive was $12,000.

Concerning the final report of the Campus Chest committee before All-College Cabinet, Haines said these figures will not be definite until the bursar collects money pledged by the students. The pledges will be collected Thursday and Friday when fees are due.

Borough's Part in Radio Series to End March 1

State College's participation in "The People Act," a pioneering radio series in adult education and community developments sponsored by the Ford Foundation, will end when the program's educational center in State College closes March 1.

The announcement was made by Ray H. Smith, educational director of the project, at a dinner in the Nittany Lion Inn for staff members and guests, including President Milton S. Eisenhower, national chairman of the project, and Elmore McKee, founder.

President Eisenhower commented on the achievements of the 26-week radio series, while McKee expressed his conviction that the radio series had impressed on American communities the need for more united action in solving local problems.

During the series of broadcasts, which originated in New York, a group of communities was presented whose citizens had worked together to solve local problems. Listeners whose towns had similar problems were invited to write for help to the educational center located in State College.

Advice and names of other individuals and organizations to whom communities could turn to for advice were given.

The project is scheduled to continue with more than 180 radio stations asking for transcriptions, Smith reported.

Spanish Club Speaker

Dr. John D. Lawther will speak on sports in Latin America at the Spanish Club meeting at 7 tonight in Atherton Hall lounge.

Vets Club to Meet

The Penn State Veterans Club will meet at 7:30 tonight in 119 Osmond to enroll new members and elect officers.

Frustrated in Love? There's Hope for You

By HELEN LUYBEN

Don't let "love frustration" set in like gangrene because he, or she, didn't send you a valentine Saturday. The thing to do, warn the authorities on the science of love, is to forget it immediately.

Whether or not the general public is aware of it, there exists today a group of psychiatrists, psychologists and sociologists who have been able to approach love scientifically—an admirable accomplishment.

It is this group that insists love frustration not only lowers bodily resistance and causes profound organic disturbances, but lessens a person's chances of reaching a hale and hearty middle age. Life insurance tables, they say, show that mortality rates for men with unhappy love lives are two to four times greater than for men happily in love.

What would they have you do to forget a disappointment in love? Simple—just (1) fight down the impulse to isolate yourself and brood, (2) take a brief vacation, (3) keep busy, and (4) don't worry about finding a new love interest because one will find you.

The love scientists are extremely optimistic about this whole business of falling in and out of love. They insist that finding your dream mate isn't the least bit like looking for a needle in a haystack. There is not one special person in the world for you, but one special type. And this dream type is composed of countless thousands of faces, any one of which you may latch onto.

There is however, an actual dream type for each individual, and the authorities warn: Hold out for the woman-or man-type of your dreams and don't settle for less.

And never give up hope that love will come to you. If you are a woman between the ages of 16 and 20, or a man in your early twenties, or of either sex in your early forties, your susceptibility to love is at its peak, according to the love scientists.

They further point out that love is not an uncommon phenomenon.

One poll showed that the average college student has two and a quarter love affairs. No one can get along without love. The desire to love and be loved is born in each individual and must be satisfied in one way or another.

Love is one of two basic things that every individual strives for—the second is a feeling of security. This feeling, say the psychologists, is impossible to attain without first realizing love.

The scientists are both kind and unkind to women in their analysis of love, in that they (1) recognize no superiority of the male sex over the female, but (2) reveal woman's age-old secret—that a
