

Open Houses Will Mark Local Independent Week

In observance of "National Independent Students' Week," Leonides, independent women's group, and the Association of Independent Men will hold a series of dormitory open houses beginning tomorrow.

The open houses, to be held in the women's dormitories, will feature record dances and refreshments.

Co-Edits

Kappa Delta

Kappa Delta recently entertained Delta Tau Delta at the fraternity house. The sorority presented a skit representing the months of the year. Refreshments were served.

Alpha Tau Omega

Alpha Tau Omega recently entertained Mary E. Brewer, assistant to the dean of women, at a dinner in the fraternity house.

Alpha Chi Sigma

Alpha Chi Sigma recently entertained Delta Gamma at a dinner. Following the meal, a short skit was presented by the fraternity.

Korim Elected Vet Club Head

Andrew Korim, second semester arts and letters major, was elected president of the recently approved Penn State Veterans Club at a meeting Wednesday.

Other new officers are Richard W. Smith, vice president; Charles Mayer, secretary; August Greyhosky, treasurer; Eugene Seyna, chaplain; Edward Lukin, historian, and Richard Zanowick and Benjamin Zuckerman, members of the executive committee.

Approximately 65 veterans attended the meeting. The new officers will meet next week to determine the date of the next club meeting.

The Veterans Club is an organization designed to help solve problems which frequently face the veteran in college. Organized last year, the club did not receive College approval until a recent meeting of the College Senate committee on student affairs.

Coeds May Obtain Nomination Forms

Women interested in running for office in the Women's Student Government Association-Women's Recreation Association spring elections may file applications until Wednesday.

The blanks are available in the Dean of Women's office, 105 Old Main. Candidates for the seven WSGA and five WRA positions will be self-nominated students with 1.5 or better All-College averages and no major judicial record.

Primary elections, to be held March 10, will narrow the candidates for each office to two women. Final elections will be March 12.

Druids to Meet

Druids, sophomore men's athletic hat society, will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Beta Theta Pi.

Six Colleges To Vie in Sports Day

The Women's Recreation Association will play host to five colleges when the annual WRA Sports Day takes place this afternoon.

A total of 105 women, representing Bucknell University, Juniata College, Lock Haven State Teachers College, Lycoming College, Mansfield State Teachers College, and the College, will participate in the five sports scheduled.

Basketball, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m., will open the sports program. Representing Penn State will be the Navy team, winner of the interclass basketball games.

Bowling, modern dance, and badminton will follow, and swimming will end the afternoon of sports. The College will be represented in these sports by the outstanding women in intramurals.

No team honors will be given, as the purpose of the Sports Day is for all participants to have a good time and to promote good relations between the colleges.

A meal of frankfurters, baked beans, celery, and carrots, and milk will be served the women following the sports.

feature record dances and refreshments.

Because of limited facilities, the schedule for men attending the open houses has been changed, Vivian Peterson, Leonides president, announced yesterday. Dormitory presidents will be notified which open houses men in their units are to attend.

The schedule is Monday, Simmons Hall; Tuesday, Thompson and MacAllister Halls; and Thursday, McElwain and Atherton Halls. According to Miss Peterson, more men have signed up for the open houses than can possibly be accommodated.

Although the idea for an "Independent Week" was developed two years ago at the University of Kansas, this will be the first year it will be observed at the College.

The week was observed nationally last week, but postponed here because of the conflict with Religion-in-Life Week.

ROTC Cadets To Hear Vet

Air Force ROTC students will get first-hand information on flight training and flying officers from a Korean veteran who will be at the College Monday through Wednesday.

The veteran is 1st Lt. William H. Gallup of South Norfolk, Va., a 1949 graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute. As a distinguished military student in 1949, he was appointed to a regular commission in the Air Force.

Lt. Gallup was ordered to the Far East in 1950 and during his 11 months there, flew 59 combat missions and 84 combat hours in F-86s. He is presently assigned to the Otis Air Force Base, Mass., as an all-weather jet pilot, flying F-94Bs.

Hummel Fishburn, Professor of Music, will speak to Wesley Foundation on "Religion and Music" after the fellowship supper at 5:15 p.m. tomorrow.

3 Formosans To Study Here

Two Formosan teachers arrived at the College this week to begin a year's study of American classroom techniques under a program designed to strengthen Formosa's new vocational teacher education system.

A third teacher, Chen Lui, president of Taiwan Teachers College, is expected to arrive soon to begin his studies.

This system, the first of its kind in both China and Formosa, was organized following a recommendation made by Dr. S. Lewis Land, professor and head of the Department of Industrial Education, after he had completed a tour of Formosa for the Mutual Security Agency last October.

Both Formosan teachers will study in the Department of Industrial Education.

The Canterbury Club is holding a supper at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow at St. Andrew's Episcopal Parish House, 300 S. Pugh street. A panel discussion "Traditions of Lent" will follow.

Mildred E. Winston from the United Lutheran Church Board of Education will talk to the Lutheran Student Association at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow on "Summer Service Projects."

Dr. Allan MacRae, president of the Faith Seminary and an authority on archaeology, ancient history, and Hebrew, will speak to the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship at 8 tonight in 405 Old Main. He will give an illustrated talk on the rescue of three Air Force men from the Grand Canyon analogous with a Bible message.

St. John's Evangelical United Brethren Student Fellowship will hold its regular weekly meeting at 6:45 p.m. tomorrow in the church basement. Ned Sittler, treasurer of the group, will have charge of the meeting.

Isaac Auvelio will give a report to the Roger Williams Fellowship tomorrow night at the University Baptist Church. Auvelio will talk about the recent United Student Christian Council Quadrennial Conference in Baltimore.

There will be a record concert at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Hillel Foundation. The program will include Shostakovich's First Symphony, operatic arias by Caruso, Roumanian Rhapsody by Enesco, and a medley of numbers by Aaron Copland.

The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations have joined with thirty-five other national Jewish agencies in an effort to collect books of scientific and technical nature for the Israeli libraries. Textbooks on all conceivable scientific subjects published since 1940 are needed. Books may be left at the Hillel Foundation at 224 S. Miles street for shipment. Books in quantity will be picked up if a call is made to the Hillel office, 2408.

Noon tomorrow is the registration deadline for the ping-pong tournament to be conducted by Hillel. Those interested in participating in the tournament, which will be played in men's and women's singles, must sign up before that time.

RILW Should Last Through Year-Diem

By PEGGY McCLAIN

Religion-in-Life Week is of definite value to a college campus, Albert E. Diem, RILW speaker, said in an interview yesterday. But RILW is not enough, he added.

Such concentration upon the subject of religion, as well as the influence of "outside" speakers and leaders is advantageous to a college. However, religion should be a 52-week proposition in every daily social and academic activity.

Diem added that among the 500 Penn State students with which he talked, the desire to know truth and understand life was both evident and encouraging.

Diem, a Penn State graduate, class of 1935, is vice president in charge of manufacturing for the Dictaphone Corporation. He has also held the positions of manager of procurement and manager of manufacturing.

As a student at the College, Diem served on the Penn State Christian Association cabinet and as chairman of the finance committee. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity, and Acacia.

Diem's main criticism of religion on the campus is that it has become secondary to academic achievement. The two fields should be of equal importance to the student, he said. "Get all you can" of material wealth, he advocates. It is the way in which you get it and what you do with it that is of moral concern to society.

Without people, religious communities would have no purpose, he said. Religion's greatest asset is its value to human relations. Thus, Diem pointed out, those who profess a religion should assume the responsibility of supporting, with both talents and money, free religious institutions.

He parallels a comprehensive religion with a comprehensive insurance policy. Neither guarantees freedom from adversity; both promise the strength to weather it.
