

Cabinet Recommends 'Bloodless Revolt' Mid-Semester Recess Rocks Kansas U.

All-College Cabinet Thursday night recommended that a one-week recess be established after mid-year examinations.

The recommendation is one of four passed by cabinet to be sent to the Senate committee on student affairs. The other three recommendations requested that professors be required not to give blue books during Thanksgiving weekend, that the calendar be reviewed each year so that changes can be made for the convenience of the faculty and Clarence R. Decker, president of the University of Kansas, would never succeed as a confidence man.

Too few people have confidence in him. As a result, students at the university were boycotting classes yesterday in an attempt to revolt against their school's president.

Six Leave For Music Conference

Four faculty members and two students from the Department of Music left yesterday to attend the bi-annual Eastern Music Educators Conference, which begins today in Buffalo.

The meetings will feature lectures and clinics conducted by outstanding musicians. Exhibitions of the newest musical releases and demonstrations of new teaching methods will be staged by music publishers.

The Buffalo Symphony Orchestra, the Buffalo Opera Company, and the New York All-State (high school) Band, Orchestra, and Chorus will present concerts at the conference. Fritz Mahler, conductor of the Erie Philharmonic Orchestra, will direct the All-State Orchestra.

Hummel Fishburn, professor of music and music education; Theodore K. Karhan, assistant professor of music and music education; Frank Gullo, associate professor of music; James W. Dunlop, assistant professor of music education; and two students, George Groniger and William Greenham, will attend the meetings.

Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, associate professor of music education, and Elmer C. Wareham Jr., instructor of music, will attend a later meeting of the conference.

the students, and that an "at home" football game be scheduled on Thanksgiving day.

The recommendations were originated after the Senate committee on calendar announced a policy which could be used for setting up calendars in future years. One of the results in establishing a calendar policy would be the establishment of a one-day Thanksgiving vacation.

Sport Night

Joseph Lemyre, chairman of the recreation committee, said that the date for a special sports night which was scheduled for April 18 in Recreation Hall has been changed to 7:30 p.m. April 25. The change was made when it was discovered that the previous date would interfere with Greek Week.

The sports night would feature demonstrations on tennis and table tennis by professionals and a possible clinic session afterward. The group of professionals can be brought to the campus for $300, Lemyre said. Campus Chest, for which the event is being sponsored, will be expected to underwrite the $300. The charge per person has not yet been fixed, he said.

Committee Reports

Four students, Jerome Kidd, Jane Mason, Nancy D. White, and Sarah Devita, were named to a committee to assist in the training of newly-elected student officers. The appointments were made following a report by Robert Smoot, chairman of the encampment committee on student leadership.

Other committee reports included the Orientation Week committee, junior class week committee, and the enrollment committee. The Orientation Week committee requested that a new committee be organized early in the year and that the new committee work with the old committee to discuss and perhaps solve problems.

Andrew McNeillie, chairman of the enrollment committee, said that 90 representatives of the committee had favorable contact with 80 high schools with information about the College. The junior class week committee report by Richard Lemyre, chairman, contained a general description of the junior week activities, but did not have specific recommendations.

Cabinet approved a request for $9 to make a new recording of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Penn State Blue Band. The recording is requested for use at Recreation Hall for athletic events.

John Laubach, president, appointed Cordell Murtha and Richard Grossman to the elections committee.

Fraternities Receive RILW Evaluation Blanks

Religion-In-Life Week evaluation blanks have been sent to the presidents of those fraternities which had fireside speakers and house guests during RILW, William Griffith, chairman, announced yesterday.

Griffith requested that fraternities fill out the blanks and send them to the RILW office, 304 Old Main, at their earliest convenience.

Ag Contest Subjects Due

Participants in the first Paul R. Guldin Agriculture Speaking Contest may submit their topics to the approval committee at 7 p.m. Monday in 103 Agriculture.

Agriculture undergraduates are eligible for the contest. Topics may be of the contestant's own choosing but should be original and agricultural in nature, Edgar Fehnel, publicity chairman, has announced.

Contestants will present five-minute speeches in the preliminaries at 7 p.m. March 23 in 109 Agriculture. The final speeches will be 8 to 10 minutes long and will be presented the following night at 8 p.m.

Philotes Open Meeting

Philotes, independent women's social organization, will have an open meeting for independent women interested in joining the organization at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the second floor lounge of Simmons Hall. Get-acquainted games are planned.

Resort Seminar to Give Summer Job Information

A resort seminar to inform undergraduate and graduate students and faculty members of the opportunities for summer employment at camps and resorts will be held Monday in 100 Horticulture.

John M. Crandall, general manager of the Pocono Mountain Inn, will be guest speaker for the open meeting. Crandall will discuss working conditions, requirements, and living conditions in the resort employment field.

Two sessions of the seminar will be held, one at 3 and one at 4 p.m. No previous registration is required.

Students interested in summer employment at camps and resorts should take advantage of the facilities offered by the Student Employment Service in 112 Old Main, Jack Huber, director, said yesterday.

Eleven hundred camp jobs and at least 100 resort positions are on file at the office. The files are open for inspection by students, Huber said.

One hundred-eighty camps in 13 states and Canada have listed jobs with the employment service. Six to eight camps will interview on campus. Appointments for interviews should be made with the employment service, Huber announced.

Camp salaries range from $150 to $350 plus room and board for an eight week season. Resort salaries range from $50 to $75 a month plus room, board and tips. The seasons range from two months to three and a half months.
