

SDX to Hold Grid Banquet

The Gridiron Banquet, sponsored annually by the College chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national professional journalistic fraternity, will be held at 7 p.m. March 24 at the Nittany Lion Inn.

President Milton S. Eisenhower will be guest of honor at the banquet, Andrew McNeillie, fraternity president, said yesterday.

WSDX-TV will be the theme of this year's banquet. Student leaders and members of the faculty and administration will be "panned" in skits based on the television theme. Decorations will feature television cameras and microphones.

Invitations to the banquet will be sent out this week, McNeillie said.

Zoretich Displays Art in Philadelphia

George Zoretich, instructor in fine arts, is one of a group of six students of Hobson Pittman who are displaying their paintings at the Ellen Dovan Gallery in Philadelphia this month.

The other five students, who studied oil painting at the College during the summer sessions, are Douglas Lockwood, Daniel Miller, Josephine Paul, Dean Stambaugh and Hiram Williams.

In the only 165-pound tussle, Paul Brobst, Triangle, pinned Bob Cronenwett, Alpha Sigma Phi in 4:31 with a half-nelson. After his opponent knotted the count at 2-2, Brobst quickly escaped and almost in the same motion, scored a takedown. He then maneuvered Cronenwett for the fall.

There were but two forfeits, Bill Wendel, Theta Chi, over Jim Lewis, Sigma Chi, and Jack Jenkins, TKE, over Frank Wick, Beta Theta Pi.

6 'Barber' Quartets Named Finalists

Three groups in each of the men's and women's division were named as finalists in the preliminary tryouts of the barbershop quartet contest held Wednesday.

In the men's division are the Collegians, the Mellow Aires, and the Alpha Tau Omega quartet. The Rollo Quartet, the Keyettes, and the Alpha Gamma Delta quartet placed in the women's division.

Finals will be held March 18 in Schwab Auditorium. Free tickets are available at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Requests Due For Stipends

Applications for the John W. White Fellowships are due Tuesday, Kinsley R. Smith, chairman of the Senate committee on scholarships and awards, has announced.

Applications for the two fellowships to be awarded this year may be obtained from the Scholarship Information Center, 110 Old Main, and are to be filed at 202 Burrows.

The awards are for members of the graduating class who intend to enter study at the College, or elsewhere, and are awarded to students of highest standing whose ability and personality hold high promise of success in graduate study, Smith said.

composed for the main part of such philosophers. A quaint little club, the Society of 13 meets today, and every Friday the 13th, ending its luncheon with a traditional salt-spilling ceremony, and smashing mirrors between courses.

Perhaps the philosophy club on campus would be interested in holding a similar luncheon next Nov. 13th. November has been known to be a rather drear, dull month and such a meeting WOULD be different.

Lute Song --

while his devoted wife is left at home to care for his aged parents. As he becomes wealthy and powerful, they succumb to poverty and famine. When the parents die, the wife must sell her hair to afford them a proper burial.

She assumes the robes of a novice and supports herself along the Great North Road by begging and singing. Encountering her husband in a temple, she realizes the gap between them, and leaving his lute, steals off into the crowd. The couple is reunited by the understanding princess and Tchao-Ou-Niang is made first wife in the royal household.

Sporadic bursts of song, Oriental mummery, and ceremonial dances interrupt the play at various intervals.

The musical score by Raymond Scott and Bernard Hanighen is anything but Oriental. Played by a seven-piece ensemble orchestra in exotic five-note scales, the music lends a wistful harmony to the play. Miss Kaiser won loud applause with the haunting "Mountain High, Valley Low," "Monkey Song," "Vision Song," "Where You Are," and "Bitter Harvest." Salus scores on his own with "Vision Song" and a reprise of "Mountain High."

"Lute Song" is a masterpiece of staging. Players have constructed a postcard view of a red and green pagoda as the main set, behind which simple scene changes are acquired through stray props and brilliant curtains.

Ninety-six vivid costumes keep the eye dazzled with a parade of multicolored cottons, satins, and taffetas.

Lighting is sheer magic particularly in the midnight blues and linobox projections in the palace garden and in the temple when the houselights are down, silhouetting the priests in black against a blaze of scarlet.

Kenworthy at Meeting

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, represented the College at a meeting of the Association of Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps Colleges held Monday at Chicago.

Boxers in EIBA's --

light of Penn State's six-time winless team, the Lions must be rated serious threats. With defending 125 pound champ Sam Marino, 139 pound runnerup Tony Flore, and unbeaten Adam Kois (176), State has a strong possibility for three individual crown-holders.

Four of last year's individual champions, and a fifth 1951 champ, add luster to the tourney. Defending titlist Syracuse leads the way with three ex-champs. At 139 the Orange boast Johnny Granger. In the 132 pound class they have classy combination puncher Artie Nelson and at 156 they lead with 1951 champion Bill Miller.

Aside from State's defender, Marino, the other returning champ is Army's Carl Crews in the 156 pound division.

In seedings held here last night, Penn State fared well. Marino drew a bye into the semi-finals tomorrow. He will meet the winner of the Gar Garber (Maryland)-Beck (Army) fight. Sam lost to Garber 29-28 in the season opener.

Sam Butler (132) tonight fights Virginia's Bob Rush who decided him in the dual season. Flore drew a bye into the semi-finals and will probably meet Maryland's Gary Fischer whom he beat in a dual match.

State's Stan Engle (147) drew a rugged cut customer for tonight's bouts in Syracuse's Larry Sullivan. The Orangeman TKO'd Engle during the season. Hank Arnold (165) also byed to the semi-finals.

Kois squares off against Maryland's McInnis tonight in the preliminaries. Adam scored a wide decision in the regular season. State's heavy Andresevic also drew a bye into tomorrow's semi-finals.
