Matmen Lead Easterns; 5 Boxers in Semifinals

Mittmen Score Two Points In First Round

By JAKE HIGHTON
SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 14—The Penn State boxing team, hopeful of pulling surprise team victory in the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Championships at Syracuse, placed five men in the semi-finals yesterday. The team scored two points in the first day of action.

Syracuse's four-time-successive defending champions, favorites to cop number five in a row, held true to promise by placing six men in the semi-final round and one in the finals. The Syracuse team led the pack after yesterday's battling with six team points.

Scores of other teams were as follows: Virginia, 4; Army, 3; and Maryland, 2.

Virginia, Army and Penn State each advanced five mittmen to the semi-finals, while Maryland managed to send four into the semis.

In the 125 pound class Garber of Maryland will meet State's Sam Marino in the semi-finals today. Garber is a solid left-handed puncher.

Sammy Butler lost to Bob Rush of Virginia in a preliminary bout. Butler went to the canvas in the third round after a solid right cross from Rush found its mark.

Tony Flore (139) will battle Fisher of Maryland in the semi-finals.

Stan Engle was knocked from further competition when he was TKO'd by Larry O'Sullivan. In the 165 division, Hank Arnold will angle with Rigelosi who won his match yesterday.

Adam Kois (176) picked up State's lone preliminary win by flooring McInnis. He held the upper hand all the way, and though he floored his man twice in the second he was unable to score a knockout. Andresevic will meet Maryland's Quenstedt.

Open Shelf Room To Reopen Monday

The newly remodeled open shelf reserve room in the Patee Library will be open Monday, according to Ralph W. McComb, College librarian.

The new room is the first part of the remodeling and building project to be open for use.

College Status May Get Re-examination in Fall

The accredited status of the College will be checked by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools sometime in the future, Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, said yesterday.

The re-examination is tentatively scheduled for the fall of 1954 and will be "very thorough" he said.

The accrediting team, 20 or 30 representatives from other schools, will spend several days at the College checking facilities, policies, procedures, the construction program, and other factors affecting the quality of education offered students.

Kenworthy noted that the accrediting procedure serves the College in two ways:

(1) The College considers it essential to be accredited by the existing accrediting agency. Otherwise, he explained, diplomas and transfer credits from the College would have little value.

(2) The accrediting procedure is the basis of a very worthwhile and rather thorough self-evaluation of the College and its facilities.

Much of the work involved in the accrediting program must be done before the visitation. This work involves compiling statistics and information about each school and requires much time and work, Kenworthy said.

Accredited status is granted to a college after study of the reports submitted to the group and information gathered on the inspection team's visit.

Committees are being or will be set up in each school to handle the preparation of the preliminary reports. These committees are appointed by the deans of the schools.

The accrediting group will investigate all phases of the College's educational program, both graduate and undergraduate.

Quite a few years have elapsed since the last checking of the College's accreditation. The school's accredited status is checked periodically, Kenworthy said.

College personnel have often participated in the accrediting and checking of other schools.

The team to check the College will include instructors and administrators from other colleges.

Holtzinger Selected Debate 'Gavel Girl'

Susan Holtzinger, eighth semester arts and letters major, was named "Miss Gavel Girl" of the 1953 Pennsylvania Debaters Convention last night at the annual banquet at the State College Hotel.

Miss Holtzinger was chosen by official ballot after her speech on "Woman—What is Her Place?" In her talk she traced the progress made by the "fair sex" in gaining suffrage and taking her place beside men in politics, industry and business.

Other nominees for Gavel Girl were Barbara Tokarsky, fourth semester College coed, and Virginia Nill, Bucknell. Candidates were nominated by the 3 discussion committees on fair employment and national defense.

William McCartney of Allegheny College, president of the convention, presented Miss Holtzinger with a silver gavel necklace and a coal gavel symbolizing the industry and wealth of Pennsylvania. Miss Holtzinger is the second Penn State coed to win the title in the 18 years of the convention.

Following the banquet the delegates convened in a Mock Congress to debate the merits of three bills legislated during afternoon sessions yesterday.

The three student-submitted bills are designed to legally abolish discrimination in employment.

Bill I provides an act declaring discrimination in employment because of race, religion, color or national ancestry illegal and proposes the National Labor Relations Board as the bureau to enforce such an act.

Bill II makes similar provision against discrimination with the interstate Commerce Commission as an enforcing agency. A minority report by Penn State men delegates would establish the right of employment without discrimination as a federal civil right enforced by a proposed Federal Commission Against Discrimination with fines for individual violations.

Parties to Hold Clique Nominations

The State party will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 121 Sparks to nominate junior and senior class clique officers. In the Lion party, nominations will be made for party vice clique chairman and for senior and jun-

Party Meetings To Be Examined

Members of the All-College elections committee will attend State and Lion party meetings tomorrow night, according to Ronald Thorpe, chairman.

The committee will total the number of students who attend the meetings against the list of names to insure the accuracy of the parties' rolls. The election code will also be read to the cliques.

Senior class clique chairman, vice clique chairman, and secretary. Fiorentino Feraco, Lion party publicity spokesman, said the nominations may be made by anyone, but must be made for a person going into the class for which the clique office is open.

Guest speaker at the State party meeting will be All-College President John Laubach. Nominations in the State party may be made by anyone, and also must be made for someone going into the class for which the clique office is open. Enelow said this is the first of two meetings students must attend to be eligible to vote at the final nominations for class and All-College offices. Final nominations will be held March 22.

Enelow said that the first workshops for seven party committees will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Willard Hall. The committees and the rooms in which they will meet are campaign, 215; ward, 202; distribution, 209; publicity, 208; membership, 218; public relations, 220; and platform, 216.

Ceiga to Play Organ Recital

George E. Ceiga, Chapel organist and assistant professor of music, will present the fifth faculty recital, presented by the Department of Music, at 4 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium.

Ceiga will open his program with "Litanies" (Alain), followed by the "Trio Sonata in D Minor" (Bach). Bach wrote this sonata composed of Andante, Adagio e dolce, and Vivace movements in the course of teaching music to his son, who used it as a practice piece.

Army Issues Call For 53,000 in May

A draft call for 53,000 men in May was issued yesterday by the Army, the Associated Press reported.

This is the same number asked for in the three preceding months. With this new quota, the total of men drafted or awaiting the call to service since Selective Service was resumed in September, 1950, will reach 1,414,430.

The Army is the only service still resorting to the draft. After drafting 81,430 men, the Marine Corps discontinued use of Selective Service last May.
