

Ziegler Chosen Forestry Queen

By MARY LEE LAUFFER

Joan Ziegler, second semester music education major, was selected Sweetheart of the Forestry Ball last night at the semi-formal dance in Recreation Hall.

The blue-eyed coed sponsored by Sigma Chi is a member of the Penn State Women's chorus. The 5-3 brunette is from Pittsburgh.

The runnersup were Rosey Whetstone, a Bedford High School senior sponsored by Lloyd Arms, and Gail Fromer, fourth semester home economics major sponsored by Alpha Chi Rho. A loving cup and victory figurines were presented to the winner and the runnersup.

The sweetheart was selected by audience applause during intermission. John Laubach, All-College president; Richard Stanley, Agriculture Student Council president; and Arthur Rosfeld, Interfraternity Council president, judged the applause. Gene Love, an agricultural education graduate student, was master of ceremonies.

"A National Forest" was the theme of the dance sponsored annually by the Forestry Society, Evergreens; "Smokey Bear," an eight foot cut-out; and a fire tower were used for decoration. Jim Erb and the Penn State Blue Notes provided the music for the dance.

Hillel to Hold First Fireside

The Hillel Foundation will initiate a series of fireside discussions on religion at 3 p.m. Monday in Hillel Foundation, 224 S. Miles street, with a discussion of the topic, "Towards a Concept of God for Modern Man."

Discussion leaders will be Dr. Walter Coutu, professor of sociology, and Dr. Henry Finch, associate professor of philosophy. Rabbi Benjamin Kahn will moderate the discussion in which members of the audience will have an opportunity to participate.

The series of discussions, which will take place on successive Monday evenings, has been arranged by the cultural committee of the foundation, headed by Judith Lippman and Leonard Goodman. Students, faculty, and townspeople may attend.

Topics for future weeks will be "Theological Differences Between Judaism and Christianity," March 23; "The Meaning of Prayer and Ritual," April 13; "Religion and Social Change," April 20.

Phi Mu Celebrates 101st Anniversary

Celebration of the 101st anniversary of Phi Mu sorority was held Monday in the initiation room of McElwain Hall.

Both the active and the alumni chapter participated in ceremonies honoring the founders.

Phi Mu, the oldest sorority with an active chapter on campus, was founded at Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., in 1852.

Color slides of the Centennial Convention at Macon in June were shown. Mrs. Ralph Blaney, chapter adviser, introduced the former chapter advisers and the new chapter patronesses.

Mrs. A. H. Forbes, scholarship adviser, presented the alumnae scholarship awards to Kay Carr, sophomore; Emily Snyder, junior; and Janet Horger, senior. Jane McDavitt received the chapter scholarship bracelet.

Pi Lambda Theta to Hold Public Autograph Auction

Approximately 150 autographs of nationally famous educators, authors, artists, and statesmen will be on sale at an autograph auction sponsored by Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary association for women in education, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the playground of Grange Dormitory.

The local chapter sent 250 letters to prominent persons throughout the United States asking for their signatures and a reply to the question, "What can Pi Lambda Theta, teachers, and professional people in education do for children?"

A wide variety of comments were received, the basic thought being, "Love them." Numerous autographs were sent to be used at the auction, its purpose the raising of money for Crossnore, a North Carolina mountain school for underprivileged children. The auction is open to the public.

Autographs include Cedric Adams, Sarah Caldwell, Bing Crosby, John S. Fine, Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Lillian Gilbreth, Paul Hoffman, H. V. Kaltenborn, Clare Booth Luce, James Michener, Christopher Morley, Emily Post, Norman Rockwell, Eleanor Roosevelt, Margaret Chase Smith, Harold Stassen, John Studebaker, and Harry S. Truman.

Among those on the College staff who contributed autographs were Clifford R. Adams, Lou Bell, Carroll Champlin, Edgar Dale, John Henry Frizzell, William H. Gray, Grace M. Henderson, Mildred Horton, Robert T. Oliver, Victor Lowenfeld, Harold K. Schilling, C. O. Williams, and Henry Yeagley.

Autographs were also given by Henry Varnum Poor, painter of the murals in Old Main, and Horace Ashenfelter, Olympic champion and former College track star.

Originator of the idea is Dorothy Radziak, assistant to Jeanette Molloy, supervisor of elementary education in the College Area Joint Schools. Assistants in executing the project were Mrs. Jill Bonney, Mrs. Lois Shallenberger, Kay Turner of the College Area Public Schools, Muriel Starr of the School of Home Economics, and Dorothy Harpster, president of the College chapter of the national honorary.

Dr. George E. Murphy, director of the College reading clinic, will be auctioneer.

Maybe the Low Man on that Totem Pole Started at the Bottom

Once there was a Senior who was Engaged. Very happily. One day, however, he realized that while being Engaged, before graduation, was one thing, Being Engaged (A.D.) (after diploma) involved such complications as Getting Married and Supporting Dependents. In a word, Work.

So he began sending job letters to Personnel Directors of Large Corporations, outlining his qualifications. Some answered, sending him Application Forms to fill out. Some didn't. Eventually he wound up with a grim Common Denominator: they would let him know if Anything Came up.

Disenchanted but Willing, he outlined the problem to his Betrothed, a girl of Superior Intelligence. She regarded him sternly. "No wonder," she said, "letters, yet! Listen," and she unfurled a Stratagem.

First thing next morning, he jetted down to the Western Union office, in one hand a list of the 10 companies he'd most like to work for, and in the other a compelling message making clear that here was The Man, awaiting only the opportunity to Prove It. Sent it as a Telegram to all 10 companies.

Results? Within a week he had 6 Interviews, 4 Job Offers. Today, when he brags about being a Self-Made Man, his wife just Smiles Indulgently.

When you're jockeying for a job, see Telegrams to Get the Jump on the Competition. Telegrams get in, get Read, get the Reaction you want. Wonder-workers in other ventures, too... whether you're Dickering for a Date, a Hotel Reservation, or Peace from Pop. Just call Western Union.
