

Students Pass Two Laws During Mock Convention

Student congressmen passed two mock national laws on discrimination and national defense at the 18th annual Pennsylvania Debaters Convention and Mock Student Congress held at the College Thursday through Saturday.

One law instituted by the mock congress declares discrimination because of race, religion, and national ancestry is illegal in regard to hiring and firing by employers and labor unions. According to the act the National Labor Relations Board will serve as an enforcing agency with cease and desist orders being issued to violators.

The law on national defense would provide new policies of diplomacy in government, military strength to allies, and armed preparedness.

Provisions are made in the law for educating diplomats, enforcing stricter measures of guarding military secrets, using peace promoting agencies like the United Nations to better advantage, increasing economic aid to the allies beyond its present level, providing civilian defense, and extending research in weapons of warfare.

Bills were legislated during committee meetings and passed only after sessions of hot debate simulating conditions of the U.S. Congress.

Officers elected for next year's convention are Richard Davies, Lehigh University, president; Benjamin Sinclair, College men's debate team, first vice president, and Lee Vines, Slippery Rock State Teachers College, second vice president.

The convention voted to extend the mock congress next year to

Benck to Head Revision Group

Barbara Benck, senior Physical Education Council representative, was appointed Monday night by Robert Kriedler, acting president, to investigate a possible council constitution revision to increase the number of representatives.

Kriedler also announced that Ruth Kronenwetter, freshman representative, will be unable to finish her term. Four girls were nominated to replace Kronenwetter, one of which will be chosen at the next council meeting. Those named were Mary Hudcorich, Jean Whitney, Constance Paulakos, and Donna Bought.

Nedalyn Charnbury, sophomore representative, reported to council that she had been approached by sophomore phys. ed. majors who desire an evaluation program of the School of Physical Education and Athletics to be enacted. The decision of the council was that a new program would be unnecessary, as there is already an evaluation of the school taking place.

Almquist Will Speak

John O. Almquist, professor of dairy husbandry at the dairy breeding research center, will speak at 7 tonight in 105 Agricultural Engineering.

delegates from colleges outside of Pennsylvania. A convention flag and song were also adopted by representatives of the twelve schools attending the congress.

Players to Cast 'Merry Wives'

Students and faculty members with past experience in Players' shows may try out for "Merry Wives of Windsor" at 7:15 tonight in the Little Theater, basement of Old Main.

Four women and 17 men will be cast for the farce. According to Director Walter H. Walters, assistant professor of dramatics, "all shapes and sizes of characters" including a male singer will be needed.

Players will present the comedy by Shakespeare May 7, 8, and 9 in Schwab Auditorium.

Group to Discuss Camp Jobs Today

An employment seminar, open to undergraduates, graduates, and faculty members, will hear Merrill Durdan, director of Camp Conrad Weiser, Wernersville, and Harold White, assistant professor of physical education, discuss the opportunities and duties involved in camp jobs today in 405 Old Main.

General salary range, how and where to apply, living and working conditions, and educational and social benefits will also be discussed. Following the talks, there will be a question-and-answer period.

There are about 5,700,000 honey bee colonies in the United States.

LA Faculty To Receive Rating Tests

A copy of the faculty evaluation test and a letter of explanation will be delivered to the members of the Liberal Arts school faculty by the end of the week, Richard Kirschner, chairman of the evaluation committee, has announced.

The faculty evaluation tests, which are being drawn up under the sponsorship of the Liberal Arts Student Council, are for the purpose of giving the individual instructors an idea of the students' evaluation of the course, instruction, and other phases of teaching. The instructors are asked to order the number of tests they will need within a week after the test and letter are delivered.

It is suggested that the instructors distribute the tests about 15 minutes before the end of a class period, leave the room, have the students make the unsigned evaluation, and then collect the tests.

The use of the tests is at the discretion of the instructor. The results of the test are for the instructor's personal use only.

Reference Book Missing

The reference department of the Pattee Library requests that anyone who knows the whereabouts of the reference desk copy of Winchell's "Guide to Reference Books" notify the department.

Auditions Set For 'Roberta'

Thespians will audition models and impersonators of popular singers for the spring production "Roberta" at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab Auditorium.

According to Moylan Mills, assistant to General Director Ray Fortunato, approximately 12 models will be selected for the fashion show scene in the musical comedy. Models should be reasonably tall and report in cocktail dresses and high heels, Mills said.

Male and female singers who can impersonate such stars as Frank Sinatra or Ethel Merman will also be chosen for the cast. "Roberta" will play a weekend run April 16, 17, and 18 in Schwab Auditorium.

New School --

The new school will be formed from the present facilities of the Department of Economics and Commerce.

Graduates from the School of Business would qualify for a B.S. degree in business administration. Students wishing to major in economics would enroll in the business school and receive the B.S. degree or enroll in the School of Liberal Arts, schedule economics courses, and qualify for a B.A. degree.
