FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 53, No. 113

STATE COLLEGE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 26, 1953

FIVE CENTS

ISCB to Offer New Council Constitution

Fee Plan Suggested By Council

The elimination of the College's collection of fees which are not paid by all students was recommended last night by Engineering Student Council.

Council President Robert Watson will carry the suggestion—passed by a straw vote—to the Inter-school Council Board, which is studying fee consolidation.

To find out how student-operated book stores are managed, letters will be sent to other colleges and universities, the book store committee reported. Investigation of possible establishment of a College book store was proposed at a recent council meeting.

An engineering school smoker and mixer to build up interest in the engineering open house will be held May 1. Skits will be presented by students in each department and by faculty members at the coeducational affair.

Nomination Dates
Council voted in favor of establishing a blue book file for engineering students. Watson will appoint a committee to work on this project.

Nominations for council members will be made April 23 to 25, Watson announced. Elections will take place April 29. The outgoing council will elect the next president April 21.

Drawing rooms will hereafter be open for student use during class hours, the drawing room committee announced.

Contributes to PSSSF
Letters have been sent to 1400 parochial and high schools in the state, the open house publicity committee reported. Another letter will be sent to each school principal requesting publicity on open house.

Council voted to contribute $5 to the Penn State Student Scholarship Fund.

A committee was named to study the establishment of scholarships to be awarded to engineering majors as an incentive for better scholarship and as recognition of achievement.

Under the fee consolidation plan suggested by council, extra-curricular fees which do not affect all students would be collected privately by the extra-curricula groups.

Council will next meet at 7 p.m. April 14 in 107 Main Engineering.

'Farmer' Features Benson Message

A personal message from U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will be featured in the Penn State Farmer, which goes on sale today.

In his message to the Farmer, Secretary Benson clarifies his position on such issues as parity prices, farm payments, and consumer price levels as they affect northeastern United States.

A constitution for the new Business school council will be presented to All-College Cabinet tonight, according to John Laubach, All-College president.

The constitution will be presented by Douglas Schoerke of the Inter-school Council Board. The board was given the job of writing a constitution for the council which will be formed when the Business school begins operation, Laubach said.

The Inter-school Council Board will not present a report on the proposed fee consolidation plan until probably the first cabinet meeting after the Easter recess, Lincoln Warrell, chairman, said last night.

Appointments

Adjournment

The fee proposal, suggested by Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, was referred to the board last week and was expected to be brought before cabinet tonight. The proposal suggested to cabinet asks that a standard student fee, applicable to all schools, be established to facilitate collecting fees at registration.

Cabinet will also hear reports tonight on a student exchange plan with New York University by Richard Stanley, sponsorship of Indian national students at the College for a year by James Plyler, and a report on the judicial investigation by Walter Sachs.

Laubach said that cabinet will discuss finances for the annual report. Appointments to next year's Campus Chest committee and the student encampment committee will be made.

Schott, Kohn Win Top 2 IFC Offices

3d Post Taken By McChesney On 2d Ballot

By MARSHALL O. DONLEY
Thomas Schott, of Phi Gamma Delta, was elected Interfraternity Council president last night by a majority of 32 votes from the 49 fraternities present at the IFC meeting. The new vice president, Edwin Kohn, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, also received 32 votes.

Alan McChesney, of Phi Kappa Sigma, became the new IFC secretary-treasurer on the second ballot, receiving 26 votes.

Each fraternity is allotted one vote in IFC elections. Voting is done by secret ballot. Sigma Phi Alpha was not present for the voting.

Newly elected president Schott said he was "looking forward to working with the fraternities and the administration for a better Penn State." Outgoing IFC president Arthur Rosfeld described Schott, Kohn, and McChesney as "three fine men" for the job.

Defeated Candidates
The new officers will be installed at the IFC-Panhellenic Council Banquet to be held during Greek Week.

Defeated candidates for the three IFC offices are Richard Gibbs of Chi Phi, candidate for president; Bruce Nichols of Delta Tau Delta and John Flanagan of Sigma Chi, candidates for vice president; and George Richards of Sigma Nu, Richard Altman of Beta Sigma Rho, and Merice Nelles of Alpha Tau Omega, candidates for secretary-treasurer.

Chaplain Meeting
The outgoing officers of IFC are Rosfeld of Phi Delta Theta, president; William Hirsch of Tau Kappa Epsilon, vice president; and Thomas Fleming of Pi Kappa Alpha, secretary-treasurer.

Boyd Wolff, an eighth semester dairy husbandry major, was named Mr. Agriculture of Penn State at the first Ag Hill Achievement Day in Schwab Auditorium last night.

The winners of the first Paul R. Guldin Agriculture Speaking Contest, Edgar Fennel and Lawrence Hart, were presented prizes of $50 and a gold medal and $25 and a silver medal.

Recognition was given to outstanding leaders in agriculture activities. Recipients of the Skinner, Sears Roebuck and Agricultural Limestone Division of the Pennsylvania Stone Producers' (Continued on page eight)

Hogeland, Israel Elected To Top Leonides Offices

Hilda Hogeland, sixth semester home economics major, was elected president of Leonides, independent women's organization, yesterday.

Phyllis Griffith was the other presidential candidate.

Ruth Israel defeated Sarah Devita to become the new vice president. She and Miss Hogeland will represent the Council at the National Independent Students Association Convention at Purdue University April 22-25.

Recording secretary is Shirley Pritchard, who won over Doris Longwill and Myrtle Thomas. Jeanne Maxwell defeated Sherry Kofmann and Theresa Hess to become corresponding secretary. Susan Crumley is treasurer as the result of her win over Althea Rector.

Approximately 15 per cent of the independent women voted, according to Eleanor Yoyvodich, elections chairman. McAllister Hall led the other dormitories with an almost 100 per cent vote. Vivian Peterson, outgoing president, will install the new officer at 6:30, tonight in the main study-lounge of Simmons Hall. The installation is open to all independent women, Miss Peterson announced.

Ethel Wilson, Luella Heineman, Barbara Easter, Eleanor Robb, Carolyn Malsch, and Barbara Reynolds served on the elections committee.

History Prof To Lecture In LA Series

The third in a series of four Liberal Arts Lectures will be given tonight when Dr. R. F. Arragon, professor of history at Reed College, Oregon, speaks at 8 p.m. in 121 Sparks.

Dr. Arragon has chosen the topic "Total Vision in the Humanities" to carry out the general theme of the lectures, which deal with the problems of integration and mutual understanding between the various fields of science and learning.

The Saturday Evening Post recently carried an article describing Dr. Arragon's experiments in bringing together the themes and skills of the various humanistic studies such as literature, history and art.

Dr. Arragon was graduated from Northwestern University and received his doctorate at Harvard. At present he is on leave of absence from Reed College to serve as visiting professor at Haverford College.

He is the author of "Transition from the Ancient and Medieval World" and "Technique of Group Discussions."

The lecture is open to the public.

Junior Class to Meet

The Junior Class will meet at 7:30 tonight in the TUB. A report on Junior Class Week will be made, and records for the class gift to the College will be presented.

Speedy Action On Chesterman Bills Expected

The state Senate yesterday gave first reading to 16 bills covering a number of the suggestions of the Chesterman committee, the group which has said its recommendations will save the Commonwealth $1 billion by 1960.

Speedy action is expected on the bills.

Among the bills introduced were three affecting state teachers colleges and one concerning subsidies for all schools in the state. A 17th Chesterman bill, dealing with state-owned hospitals, was introduced to the Senate yesterday.

One bill would give the Department of Public Instruction general direction and control over the 14 state teachers colleges. Another would abolish the boards of trustees of the colleges and replace them with advisory boards composed of nine persons.

Another of the bills would compel all graduates of state teachers colleges to spend two of the five years immediately following their graduation in Pennsylvania schools or, if they did not, to reimburse the state for tuition.

The subsidy bill would revise the school subsidy laws and revamp educational departmental procedure to bring about more than $9 million in economies every two years.
