Prexy Releases Changes In State Oath Procedure

Party Campaigns Begin Today

Lion and State political parties will begin "stumping" today in an effort to get out the student vote for the April 22 and 23 All-College elections.

The legal campaigning period prescribed by the All-College elections committee begins at 8 a.m. today and will end at 8 a.m. April 22, the first day of voting.

Campus politicians will seek All-College, junior, and senior class positions.

Warm-ups for concentrated activity by both parties will be held today. State Party will hold a mixer at 9 tonight at Sigma Chi. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided. The mixer will be open to all students.

Publicity Begins Monday

Lion Party will sponsor a jazz concert featuring "Dixie" jazz music from 2 to 4 p.m. today in Schwab Auditorium. Tickets costing 50 cents each are available at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Members of Phi Mu Alpha, music honorary, will play in the band.

Publicity posters and party platforms will probably be distributed at the beginning of the week, according to Lion Party Chairman Richard Kirschner and State Party Chairman Myron Enelow. Both chairmen said they hoped for a large turnout in the elections.

Candidates to Visit Dorms

Kirschner said he expected a very large turnout because voting machines will be used in the balloting. Voting for all candidates will be done on voting machines for the first time since 1948. Kirschner urged students to get to know candidates before voting.

Men seeking All-College posts will visit students living in Nittany tomorrow and Monday nights. Junior and senior candidates will visit Pollock Circle Monday night. Some fraternities will be visited by State Party candidates Monday, Enelow said.

All Students May Vote

Women candidates will visit women living in Thompson, McAllister, Atherton, and Simmons dormitories tomorrow and Monday nights. The women will probably visit fraternities at mealtime Monday.

All regular students at the College may vote for All-College officers. Only fifth and sixth semester students may vote for senior class officers, and only third and fourth semester students may vote for junior class officers. Before voting, student matriculation cards will be checked.

Shearer, Venzlauskas Win White Fellowship

John W. White fellowships will be awarded to Jack Shearer and Marlon Venzlauskas, and 12 students will receive medals at the Honors Day ceremony at 7:30 p.m. April 27 in Schwab Auditorium. Shearer will receive $600 and Miss Venzlauskas $500 toward graduate study.

Shearer is a physics major and will graduate in June. Miss Venzlauskas graduated in January in political science and is now a part-time assistant in the department.

These fellowships are awarded to students who, in the opinion of the committee, the President, and the College Senate, will do exceptionally well in graduate work. They are for graduate work at this or another institution.

George Alleman has been awarded the John W. White medal for outstanding scholarship. Alleman

Miss Penn State Photos Due Today

The deadline for submitting photographs of candidates for the Miss Penn State title is noon today at the Student Union desk in Old Main, according to Nancy D. White, coronation chairman.

The photographs must be 5 by 7 inches and must have the candidate's name, curriculum, sponsor, age, College address, and home town on the back. Candidates must be undergraduates of the College and may be entered by any group on campus, but not by individuals.

The eight finalists will compete at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the State College High School for two cups to be awarded the fraternity and sorority victors. The doors will close at 7:50 p.m.

Last year Alpha Chi Omega and Tau Kappa Epsilon, both finalists tomorrow, won top honors. Tau Kappa Epsilon won the fraternity cup two years ago also. Delta Gamma, one of this year's finalists, won the sorority cup two and three years ago.

Work Projects Today

IFC-Panhel Sing judges are Eugene Fulmer, secretary of the State College Chamber of Commerce; Frank Gullo, director of the Penn State Glee Club, and Herbert Beatty of the Music department.

The sing preliminaries preceded the beginning of Greek Week, which starts today with a parade at 1 p.m. from Simmons Hall to the borough fire hall. About 1000 Greeks will take part in the parade, after which they will participate in work projects in the borough and surrounding area.

Projects planned include cleaning up and repairing local playgrounds and recreational areas, working at the Girl Scout camp at Tussey Ridge, and recording traffic signs in the borough. The theme of the week is "The Greeks and the Community."

A Blue Band concert, open to the public, will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday as part of Greek Week activities.

Amendments Make Policy More Liberal

A number of liberalizing changes in the College procedures used in certifying employees as loyal have been released by President Milton S. Eisenhower. Employees must be certified as non-subversive under Section 13 of the Pennsylvania Loyalty Act.

Specific amendments allow a department head to certify an employee as loyal even though he does not sign a loyalty oath or fill out a loyalty questionnaire. The amended procedures read:

"If an applicant for employment feels that because of religious or other conscientious objections he cannot comply with the above methods of certification, the certifying officer may, if he chooses, certify such applicant on the basis of an investigation . . ."

Another major change in the procedures redefines the Loyalty Review Board—it is now composed of seven men on one panel. Previously the board was made up of two panels of five persons each. One panel handled cases involving academic personnel and the other non-academic personnel.

The new seven-man board will handle both academic and non-academic personnel. The new board is made up of persons who were previously on the two panels, that is, the new board is a composite of the older double panel board.

The changes were announced in a letter addressed to members of the faculty and staff and signed by President Milton S. Eisenhower. The letter reads, in part:

"On March 27, 1953, the Board of Trustees approved amendments to the procedures employed by The Pennsylvania State College in complying with the provisions of Section 13 of the Pennsylvania Loyalty Act . . ."

"I attach herewith a copy of the amended sections of the procedures."

Section 13 of the loyalty act requires the certifying of state employees by the president of the various colleges and universities. The loyalty act became law in Pennsylvania March 1, 1952. The College's only case involving use (Continued on page eight)
