

3 Nominated For AA Presidency

Three men have been nominated for Athletic Association president and two men for secretary-treasurer, according to Joseph Lemyre, president.

Nominated for president are Gerald Maurey, Keith Vesling, and John Sherry. Adam Kois and Hubert Klein were nominated for secretary-treasurer.

The presidential candidate receiving the second highest number of votes will win the post of vice president.

Coaches, captains, and head managers of all sports; Harold R. Gilbert, assistant director of athletics; and Lemyre selected the candidates at noon yesterday in Recreation Hall. As many as five candidates can be selected for president and three for secretary-treasurer.

The candidates will be voted upon at the spring elections, Wednesday and Thursday. However, they will not run for any political party. All male undergraduates may vote for AA officers.

The State and Lion parties will continue their campaigns into the fourth day today when candidates of both parties will appear at fraternities in the afternoon and evening.

Lion Party candidates for junior and senior class offices will campaign in the Nittany Dormitory area tonight while All-College office candidates are appearing in the Pollock Circle area.

Male junior, senior class, and All-College candidates of the State Party will continue stumping activities in McKee, Hamilton, Irvin, Watts, and Jordan halls. State Party candidates for secretary-treasurer of the junior and senior classes will appear in McElwain and Simmons halls.

'Ugly' Entries Due Tuesday

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, has set Tuesday as the deadline for entries in the Ugly Man contest.

Entries may be mailed to Hampton Huff, 137 Park avenue, or left at the Student Union desk in Old Main. A 50 cent fee is required for each entry. Candidates must be graduating seniors and must be sponsored by a group at the College.

Pictures of the contestants will be taken April 25 by representatives of Alpha Phi Omega. Candidates will be notified concerning picture schedules.

Rules of the contest have been included in letters sent to all campus organizations. Fraternity and sorority sponsors will receive 25 points toward the Spring Week trophy. The sponsor of the Ugly Man contest winner will earn 100 points.

Five Men Debaters To Be in Symposium

Five members of the men's debate squad will participate in a symposium at 7:30 tonight at the Wheeler street Parent-Teachers Association in Lewistown.

Charles Basch, David Swanson, and Lewis Martini will present seven minute speeches on the need for a federal fair employment practices law. They will be cross-examined by Nick Stameris and James Dunlap.

Cabinet to Hear ISCB Fee Consolidation Plan

Proposal Calls For 25-Cent Assessment

The Inter-school Council Board last night passed by majority vote a proposal for unification of fees to be presented at tonight's cabinet meeting.

The new proposal, introduced by Douglas Schoerke, Liberal Arts Student Council president, calls for a 25-cent assessment for each student per semester. This fee would be used to defray and expand the activities of the various student councils. The distribution of these funds would be based on the number of students in each school and given to each council accordingly.

The proposal included a stipulation that the College will set up a booth at the time of registration and collect from each agriculture student an additional 50 cents towards Penn State Farmer subscriptions. This latter fee would have to be paid by agriculture students in order to complete registration.

Schoerke announced a meeting of Open House chairmen from the various schools at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Schoerke said that publicity concerning the combined Open House has been sent to the invited high schools.

Counselor Applications Available

Men interested in being Orientation Week counselors next semester may secure and submit applications tomorrow to April 25 at the Dean of Men's office, 109 Old Main.

Assistant Dean of Men Harold W. Perkins yesterday estimated that 100 applicants will be accepted. This is the number of men who served as counselors during the fall semester last year.

Fraternity members may be interested in being counselors because fall rushing programs will be in effect during Orientation Week next semester, Michael Jordan, chairman of the Orientation Week committee, said yesterday. Counselors who are members of fraternities will be able to meet incoming upperclassmen from Penn State centers as well as students transferring to the College, he added.

Counselors will report to campus noon Sept. 15. They will counsel at two meetings, one on the night of Sept. 15, the second on the night of Sept. 16. They are free to leave campus after the meetings.

Those living in dormitories will receive room and board free of charge, and counselors living outside of College dorms will be reimbursed for living expenses. Reimbursement will probably amount to $10.

The curriculums of applicants will be the primary basis for selection of applicants, Jordan said. If enough men apply, activities and All-College averages will be taken into consideration, he added. The committee will strive to have new students who are enrolled in one particular curriculum counseled by men in that curriculum, he said.

The aim of the counseling program is to acquaint new students with the College, its regulations, social, academic, extra-curricular, and religious activities, and general atmosphere.

Sitting Pretty

THESPIAN DANCERS among the showgirls in "Roberta" are (left to right) Elinor Ehman, Celeste McDermott, Peggy Mayberry, and Ruth Rapp. The musical comedy by Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach will open a weekend run at 7:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

'Roberta' to Feature Paris Fashion Salon

During the first act of Thespians' "Roberta" the stage of Schwab will be transfixed into a Paris clothing salon complete with live mannequins, dress forms, and startling designs. The musical comedy by Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach will open at 7:30 tonight for a weekend run.

Due to the unusual length of the Thespian production curtain time has been moved up one-half hour before regular performance time.

A special matinee will be given at 2 p.m. Saturday. Tickets selling at $1 for tonight and $1.25 for tomorrow and the Saturday performances are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Costumes Made, Rented
Everything from the latest in negligees and dance gowns to a French poodle and three Charleston-dancing flappers left over from the "Roaring Twenties" will be seen in the fashion parade.

Gowns for the fashion sequence were especially designed by Donald Stohl, eighth semester arts and letters major, and manufactured by Thespian crews under the direction of Marilyn Minor and Marilyn McComb.

Other costumes to cloak the huge cast of 75 were borrowed, made or rented from New York and Philadelphia costumers.

"Roberta" opens at Alpha Beta Pi fraternity at Haverhill College in Massachusetts where Johnny Kent, played by Joe Goldstein, is a football hero. It picks up a continental flavor with a jump to Gay Paree, taking Kern's tunes and our hero with it. Johnny inherits a share in the firm of his dying Aunt Roberta and falls in love with his partner, Stephanie, played by Nancy Lou Thomas, and a tempestuous night club singer, Suzanne Kiel.

Thirteen Song Numbers
Setting for the fraternity, Roberta's office and show room and a flamboyant Cafe Russe have been designed by Richard Speiser. Traveler curtains will be used to simplify set changes and add additional color. By draping half the stage and focussing lights on the remaining half where action is going on, the next scene change can be set up and the play maintains a steady flow, according to Moylan Mills, administrative assistant.

NSA President Will Discuss Organization

A fee consolidation recommendation made by the Inter-school Council Board last night will be brought before All-College Cabinet tonight, according to Lincoln Warrell, ISCB chairman.

The new proposal introduced by Douglas Schoerke, Liberal Arts Student Council president, calls for a 25-cent assessment for each student a semester. This fee would be used to defray and expand the activities of the various student councils.

A plan suggested by the administration would provide for equal council assessments to facilitate collection of fees at registration by having a uniform student-assessed fee. Under this plan it would have been necessary to establish school council fees at 75 cents a student in each school. Only the Agriculture and Home Economics student councils have fees. The agriculture council fee is 75 cents, and the home economics council fee is 25 cents. The plan was sent to ISCB for study and recommendations.

AGENDA

- Roll call
- Minutes of the previous meeting
- Reports of officers
- Adoption of agenda
- Reports of committees:
 - 1. Freshman Customs Board
- Old business:
 - 1. Fee consolidation
- New business
- Special guests:
 - National Student Association President
- Announcements
- Adjournment

In other business scheduled for tonight, Richard J. Murphy, national president of the national student association, will discuss NSA before cabinet. The discussion session will give cabinet a chance to ask questions of Murphy about the NSA.

Murphy's appearance tonight marks the second attempt made to have him appear here. Originally scheduled to speak to cabinet on March 12, Murphy became ill and was unable to attend.

Questions which were expected to be raised previously and may be brought up tonight are whether or not the College should belong to NSA and whether the benefits derived from membership are worth the cost.

The Freshman Customs Board will present a report to cabinet recommending some changes in the customs regulations, according to James Schulte, chairman.

Seniors to Discuss Class Gift Tonight

The senior class will meet at 7 tonight in 121 Sparks to discuss the several possibilities for a class gift. Theodore Kimmel, president, has announced.

Among the suggestions for the gift are "The Lineman" statue, a record lending library, furnishings for a room in the new Student Union Building, scholarship fund, or chimes or organ for the proposed meditation chapel.

After the final suggestions have been made, they will be sifted by the gift committee and voted upon by seniors when they pick up their copies of La Vie.

Standard Fee Turned Down By MI Council

The Mineral Industries Student Council last night unanimously rejected the 25-cent consolidated fee which would be collected at registration.

The council said that the proposed increase would create an excessive amount of cash and that the school and council would have no need for such an amount. The group however did favor a 25-cent fee for the school, but thought other schools should tax students according to their needs.

The council discussed details pertaining to the open house which will be open to the public on May 1 and 2. It was revealed that souvenirs would be given to those who toured the Mineral Industries and Mineral Science buildings.

Plans were also discussed for the banquet to be held May 2 at the Nittany Lion Inn honoring Edward Steidle, dean of the School of Mineral Industries, who is retiring June 30. Tickets for the banquet are on sale and can be obtained at the dean's office in 101 Mineral Industries or from members of the student council. The price of the tickets is $3.50 per person.

Poly Sci Club to Meet

The Political Science Club will meet at 7:30 tonight in Simmons lounge.

The discussion will deal with the topic "John Q. Public and Domestic Policy." Dr. Neal Riemer, assistant professor of political science, will be moderator.
