The seminar is open to all students and faculty members.

Poly Sci Club Seminar

The Political Science Club will sponsor an informal faculty-student seminar at 7:30 tonight in the small lounge of Hamilton Hall. Subject for the discussion will be, "Political Science and a Career in Teaching."

Dimensions Assigned For Booths

Dimensions for Spring Week carnival booths have been assigned to organizations who applied for booths, Joseph Harris and Richard Grossman, carnival chairmen, have announced.

Grossman explained it is impossible to allot groups the space they asked because of the large number of applications and the limited space available. Dimensions were reduced in proportion to space requested, he said.

At the carnival, set for 6-11 p. m. May 13 and 14, there will be 49 booths sponsored by organizations, four ticket booths, and a main office for the Spring Week committee. Other features of the carnival will include a "barrel of love," ferris wheel, and refreshment stand, Grossman said.

A diagram showing positions of booths will appear in the Daily Collegian at a later date. Layout and booth dimensions have been designed by Herbert Hollister.

Booth sizes are as follows: Phi Sigma Kappa, Phi Gamma Delta and Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Chi Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, West Dorm Council: 15 by 25 feet. Beta Sigma Omicron and Sigma Phi Alpha, Chi Phi and Alpha Omicron Pi: 30 by 25. Phi Mu and Phi Kappa Phi: 30 by 30. Lambda Chi Alpha: 20 by 20.

Riders to Compete In Mock Olympics

Riding teams from the College, Penn Hall Junior College, and Grier School will compete in a modified Olympic event at the fourth annual Penn State Riding Club Horse Show to be held Saturday at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. and Sunday at 1 p. m. at the College Riding Stables.

The Olympic event has three phases. The first will be held in an Olympic size schooling ring and will consist of a general obedience test to determine the horse's responses to his rider's signals.

The second phase is the cross country which is over the outside jumping course. Ring jumping makes up the third part. In an attempt to help train future Olympic participants, the three phase event tests the versatility of horse and rider.

The riding team from the College which placed second in the Cornell Invitational Riding Meet held at Ithaca, N. Y., in March has won the modified Olympic event for the past two years, with Grier School taking first the year before.

Beside the team competitions there will be classes for novice, intermediate, advanced, horsemanship jumping and advanced horsemanship equitation; children's horsemanship and children's horsemanship jumping; lead line, ponies, three gaited, open stock horse, western parade horse, Morgan exhibition, Morgan under Saddle, warmup jumpers, the Riding Club trophy, knock-down and out, pairs of jumpers, hunter hack, open hunter, hunt teams, and pleasure horses.

Jean Lathlaen, show manager, announced that 60 entries have been received.

Edward Gilkey, assistant debate coach will accompany the squad. The second annual Eastern Intercollegiate Debate Tournament, sponsored by the eastern division of the American Forensic Association, will begin today and last through Saturday at Temple University.

Eight debaters, representing the men and women's debate squads, will participate in the tourney.

Accounting Club Meeting

The Accounting Club will hold its final meeting of the spring semester at 7:30 tonight at Theta Kappa Phi, 321 Thompson street. Robert Leonard, assistant controller of Philadelphia, will be guest speaker.

Planetarium Exhibit Planned
Five high school student projects which illustrate principles of chemistry and physics will be on display in 302 Osmond as part of the Chemistry-Physics Open House.

An exhibit of the planetarium in 216 Osmond will be included in the chem-phys tours. Faculty members will serve in a reception committee in Osmond and in the laboratories to discuss curriculums. Visitors interested in a particular field may go directly to the laboratories of their choice. An illustrated booklet has been prepared with information concerning the exhibits, laboratories, department curriculums, and tour plans.

Visitors to the Physical Education Open House will be welcomed by Dean Earrest B. McCoy. Representatives of the departments will speak. A tour of White Hall will feature an aquacade, and bowling, modern dance, and rifle demonstrations. Members of varsity wrestling and boxing teams will perform for guests visiting Recreation Hall. The group will then split up to attend lacrosse, baseball, or the Blue and White football events.

Euwema To Welcome
This year the Mineral Industries Open House, in conjunction with the Petroleum and Natural Gas Laboratory, will be held tomorrow and Saturday. Guides will be stationed on each floor of Mineral Industries and Mineral Sciences Buildings to assist guests in locating exhibits.

A bulletin describing tours, displays, and curriculums will be available. A banquet to honor retiring Dean Edward Steidle will be held Saturday.

Ben Euwema, dean of the School of Liberal Arts, will welcome visitors to the open house in a short address. Brief speeches on curriculums will be given by representatives of the departments. Students and faculty members will be available for questions before and after the program.
