FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 53, No. 137

STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1953

Senate Approves State Ownership Of Tideland Oil

Passes Bill 56-35,
Refuses Changes

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—The Senate ended its longest debate in 15 years today by passing the Eisenhower-backed bill to establish state ownership of the oil riches lying under coastal waters. The roll call vote was 56 to 35.

Before approving the bitterly-fought legislation, the Senate rejected a dozen last-ditch amendments aimed at cancelling or limiting what the opposition called a gigantic "giveaway" of federal property worth billions.

The bill now goes to the House, which passed its own version of the legislation five weeks ago. A conference committee may have to be appointed later to iron out differences in the measures.

Administration leaders commended the vote as "just and equitable" recognition of 150-year-old claims the states have made to valuable submerged lands lying off their coastlines.

But senators who fought the bill through 27 days of acrimonious debate in what Majority Leader Taft of Ohio called "an honest to God filibuster" said the battle would be carried on in the courts and into the election campaign of 1954.

Taft reported that through last Friday, opponents of the bill had spoken 970,872 words against it, while proponents had defended it with 270,542 words.

"The percentage of relevancy was high as compared with other filibusters," Taft said.

As the long debate drew to a close, Sen. Humphrey (R-Minn.) told his colleagues:

"There will be a day of reckoning when the American people realize we have only legalized the scandal of Teapot Dome on the floor of Congress."

Humphrey declared it was "nothing short of preposterous to say a particular state has ownership or control of the bottom of the ocean."

The bill would recognize state ownership of all submerged coastal lands within historic state boundaries. These lines are not set out in the legislation, but they have been taken to mean three miles out for all states except Texas and Florida, which claim territory extending ten and one-half miles into the Gulf of Mexico.

Tribunal Gets $17 in Fines

Seventeen dollars in fines were collected last night as Tribunal heard a like number of cases involving parking violations and reckless driving.

Four students received three dollar fines for second offenses involving parking violations. Two more students were given suspended fines for third offenses and a warning from Tribunal that the next offense meant action by the Office of the Dean of Men.

One of the first offenders was charged with going through three stop signs within 20 minutes and driving and parking his motorcycle on College lawn.

Charges of reckless driving were brought against a student by a professor. The case was postponed until the next meeting of Tribunal when both sides of the case will be heard. Seven cases were also dismissed by Tribunal.

Mad Hatters Day

Registration for entries in the Mad Hatters Day Parade to be held next Tuesday will be held today and tomorrow at a booth on the Mall near the armory.

Picture of Health

THOMAS ZEIGLER gets his identification card from Thomas Humphrey, operator of the mobile X-ray unit which offers free chest X-rays to all College students, employees, and townspeople. Over 300 were examined yesterday. The unit, brought here by the College Health Service in cooperation with the Tuberculosis Control division of the Pennsylvania Department of Health, will remain through Thursday.

Ugly Man Balloting Will Begin Today

Voting begins today for the Ugly Man penny-a-vote popularity contest, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. The voting station set up on the Mall near Carnegie will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today, tomorrow, and Friday.

Proceeds of the contest will be given to Campus Chest.

No entries were received in Alpha Phi Omega's Ugly Man identification contest which ended yesterday.

Students entering the contest were to identify the 57 pictures on display in the Western Union office window by writing the names of "ugly men" on a slip of paper and attaching a dime to the entry.

Proceeds from this auxiliary contest were to go to Campus Chest.

Each contestant in the Ugly Man contest will have a quart bottle for his penny votes at the station. Pictures of the contestants in their costumes, previously displayed downtown, will be placed in the booth. There is no limit on the number of times a student may vote.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega will run the booth.

Sponsor Gets Trophy

Winner of the Ugly Man title, the contestant who receives the most penny votes, will receive a silver ugly man key which may be worn on a chain or tie clasp.

A gold trophy inscribed with the name of the winning Ugly Man contestant, this year, and the organization's name will be given to the group sponsoring the contestant receiving the most penny votes.

Individual contestants are responsible for their costumes—a variety of grotesque masks, goopy faces, and old clothes—and for their publicity campaigns, according to Hampton Huff, contest chairman.

IFC Will Discuss Organization Plans

Interfraternity Council will meet at 7:30 tonight in 219 Electrical Engineering to discuss organizational plans for next year. Remaining members of the IFC Board of Control will be announced at the meeting, according to Thomas Schott, president. Schott has asked newly elected IFC and sophomore representatives to attend the meeting to get acquainted with the operation of the council.

300 X-Rayed By Mobile Unit On First Day

More than 300 persons were X-rayed yesterday at the mobile chest X-ray unit set up on Pollock road in front of the College Infirmary.

The unit will be open today and tomorrow from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Undergraduates of the College, College employees, or town residents may receive free X-ray service.

The mobile X-ray unit has been brought to the campus by the College Health Service in cooperation with the tuberculosis control division of the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of College Health Service, said Monday the unit was brought to campus chiefly for the benefit of graduating seniors.

He explained many other large colleges and universities offer X-ray service to graduating seniors, but this is the first time it has been offered at the College. He said many graduating seniors will be required to have chest X-rays when they seek jobs after graduation and this will give them an opportunity to get one free.

Dr. Glenn explained that although the unit was brought to campus chiefly for the seniors' benefit, any interested undergraduates, College employees, or town residents, may have an X-ray taken free.

The entire process takes only a few minutes. Students should have ample time between classes to have an X-ray taken, Glenn said.

Frizzell Contest Ends Tomorrow

The final round of the John Henry Frizzell extempore speaking contest will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 121 Sparks.

Contestants in the finals are Barbara Hinger, Susan Holtzinger, Richard Kirschner, Lois Lehman, Margaret Troutman, and Guyla Woodward. These six entrants are winners of Monday's semi-finals.

First prize will be the John Henry Frizzell award in extempore speaking and the Pennsylvania State College prize of $50. The Forensic Council prize of $25 and a Frizzell award are second prizes.

Cheerleader Tryouts Set for Tonight

Tryouts for freshman men and women who wish to become cheerleaders will be held at 6:30 tonight and tomorrow in front of Old Main. General practice sessions will be held next week before the final judging scheduled to take place in two weeks. Head Cheerleader Alan McChesney has announced.

Those trying out must have a 1.0 All-College average and be either a first or second semester standing.

'Merry Wives' to Open Tomorrow in Schwab

By EDMUND REISS

The final Players show, due at Schwab Auditorium tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday, will be a rendition of the Shakespearian comedy, "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

This show, directed by Dr. Walter H. Walters, assistant professor of drama, is the first Shakespeare play done here since "Romeo and Juliet" was performed three years ago.

Earliest known mention of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" was the entry of the play in the Stationers' Register for Jan. 18, 1601. It had probably first been performed in the later months of 1599.

A tradition dating from the 18th century stated that Shakespeare wrote "Merry Wives" at the express command of Queen Elizabeth. The story is recorded she was so well pleased with the roguish character of Falstaff in "Henry IV" she ordered Shakespeare to continue the character for one more play and to show him in love.

The logical order for "Merry Wives" is for it to follow "Henry IV" and to precede "Henry V," for in the latter Falstaff dies and Pistol, a follower of Falstaff, marries Mistress Quickly, a servant. The most probable source for its main plot is "The Tale of the Two Lovers of Pisa" in Tarleton's

Craft Exhibits To Be Shown In Rec Conclave

An exhibit in ceramics, leather and metal craft will be on display today through Friday in Recreation Hall at the sixth annual Pennsylvania Recreation Conference. The exhibit is sponsored by the State College Recreation Board.

An additional feature of the conference is the camp site built in Hort Woods by the recreation 430 class. A special camp skills demonstration will be conducted at the camp site at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow by David Dunbar, assistant camping director of the national Boy Scouts of America.

State Recreation Reserves

Recreation directors, staff members, and camp directors will register at 10 a.m. today in the Nittany Lion Inn Lobby. Registrants have the choice of an angling trip, golf tournament, or tour of the College campus.

Possibilities of greater utilization of state resources for recreation, and the possible exchange of ideas on methods and materials for recreation, arts and crafts, music, folk dancing, and camping will be discussed.

Crawford to Speak

One of the main topics for discussion will be the need for a State Recreation Commission, as proposed in Senate Bill 491. Leo Weinrott, State Recreation Council vice-chairman, will give the governor's report on recreation.

Robert Crawford, deputy commissioner and superintendent of recreation in Philadelphia, will speak on "Professional Maturity." Willis Edmund, director of recreation, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Akron, O., will discuss "Cooperation Between Industrial and Public Recreation Agencies."
