

Spring Week Begins Monday

Six days of Spring Week activities will begin at 5 p.m. Monday when preliminaries for the He-Man contest are held on the large field east of Nittany dormitories.

Sixty-two men have been entered in the He-Man contest, Joseph Barnett, chairman, said yesterday. Eight contestants will be chosen to enter the final competition Tuesday. Push-ups, a standing broad-jump, 100-yard dash, shot put, and soccer kick are events planned for the preliminaries.

Coronation at 8 p.m.

Jim Park, Mr. America of 1952 and Mr. World of 1953, will be one of the judges in the finals. Harold B. White, assistant professor of physical education, and John R. Leighton, associate professor of physical education will also judge the finals. Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, and the Barbell Club will assist with preliminary judging.

Following the He-Man preliminaries, the coronation of Miss Penn State will begin at 8 p.m. in Recreation Hall.

Tuesday's activities will include the Mad Hatter's parade at 12:15 p.m. and the carnival parade at 6:15 p.m., followed by He-Man finals on the practice field of Beaver Field, and the Mad Hatter's contest final judging.

Sammy Kaye to Play

Spring Carnival booths may be constructed after 1 p.m. Wednesday in preparation for the carnival, which will be held from 6-11 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, on the parking lot behind Sigma Chi. Fifty booths are entered in the carnival.

Sammy Kaye and his orchestra will play for the Senior Ball Friday from 9 p.m. to 1. Picnics and houseparties Saturday will conclude the week's events.

Silent Traveler's Identity Remains Campus Mystery

The "Mysterious Traveler," campus curiosity, has been drawing and returning stares for two days in his meandering around the pathways of Penn State.

Clad in tattered boots, raincoat and weatherbeaten hat, with a feather and bright scarf for festive touches, the traveler has become a conversation piece.

Is he a publicity stunt for Spring Week? He'll never tell. The vocabulary of our visitor is limited to "uh huh" and "uh uh." He answers with the latter when questioned about his role.

Evidently rides are hard to find 'cause the man's still with us despite some attempts he's made to thumb-it. A suitcase prominently labled with his title seems to be little help. He's got a fishing license but no rod or reel in sight. Is the guy another absentminded prof?

Navy Man to Speak

Rear Admiral Calvin W. Bolster, chief of the office of research for the Navy Department, will speak at the engineering 3 lecture at 4:10 p.m. Monday, in 110 Sparks.

Flight Training Program Is On Increase

Lt. Col. Jack W. Dieterle, professor of air science and tactics, recently announced there has been a substantial increase in the number of graduating Air Force ROTC cadets who have applied for flight training.

Dieterle said one reason for the increased interest in the program is the reduction of the active duty period from four to three years. The three years includes 13 months spent in flying training.

Last year less than 800 of the 6500 cadet graduates who received degrees at colleges and universities applied for training. This year approximately 2000 out of 6800 Air Force ROTC cadets have applied.
