

6 Air Force Cadets Get ROTC Awards

Awards were presented to six Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps cadets for excellence in scholarship and leadership yesterday in front of Old Main.

President Milton S. Eisenhower presented medals to five of the cadets.

Robert E. Hess, sixth semester aeronautical engineering major, received the American Military Engineers award given to the ten outstanding Air Force ROTC students in the country in the engineering field. Hess was selected from cadets of 209 colleges and universities throughout the United States and its possessions for the award.

Arnold Paparazo received the outstanding senior award for excellence in scholarship and leadership.

Outstanding junior in AFOTC award went to Donald Plasterer. Outstanding sophomore award went to John Wolfinger. Wayne Diehl was given the outstanding freshman award.

Richard Uppstrum received the Air Force Association award for an outstanding student in advanced Air Force ROTC. The award was presented by Miss Josephine Groesbeck, commander of the Nittany Squadron of the Air Force Association.

Prexy to Talk On TV's Role In Education

Educational television and its relation to commercial television will be the subject of a talk by President Milton S. Eisenhower today in Bedford.

In his speech at a meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Broadcasters, he will explain the role that educational television could play in protecting and strengthening our way of life. He will also attempt to clarify the relation of educational and commercial television.

He will describe educational television as a supplement to, and not to replacement for, the classroom.

The speech will outline the setup of the four educational channels allotted to Pennsylvania and tell how the College is adapting to the television era. Work at the College he will discuss includes developing educational programs for commercial stations, offering courses in the production and use of educational television programs, and initiating research designed to lower the cost and improve the effectiveness of kinescopes and films for telecast.

He will present educational television as a public service that will share educational tasks with commercial stations. The speech will name educational television as a full-fledged collateral of commercial TV and will call for cooperation between the two.

TV Installed Friday in TUB

A television set made available through a joint Association of Independent Men project, was installed Friday in the TUB.

Pollock, Nittany and Town Councils each contributed $100 toward the project. Balance of the cost was obtained from an administration fund.

The set, available to all students, is located in a lounge of the TUB. For special telecasts, such as the Walcott-Marciano fight, it will be put in the main ballroom.

Sigma Delta Chi Establishes Award

The local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, has established an award to honor an outstanding journalist.

Franklin C. Banner, head of the Department of Journalism and chapter adviser, said the award may be presented to a student or a newspaperman off campus who has done an exceptional job.

The recipient will be named by an award committee composed of the president and vice president of the fraternity, the Journalism department head, and another department member. The committee will also determine the form of award.

The award was established with a fund of $1000 donated by the local chapter.

Faculty Club Appoints Five to Committee

Five faculty and staff members have been named to the Faculty Luncheon Club steering committee for the fall semester.

Those selected are Mildred A. Ailman, reference librarian; M. Lucille Jackson, chemistry and physics librarian; James F. Keim, associate professor of agricultural extension; Dr. Frederick R. Matson, professor of ceramics, and Frank Neusbaum, administrative head of the motion picture and recording studio.

LaVie Dedicates 1953 Publication To Music Head

The 1953 LaVie has been dedicated to Dr. Hummel Fishburn, head of the Music department, Editor Douglas Schoerke has announced.

"As a student, assistant to the dean of men, and professor and head of the Departments of Music and Music Education, Dr. Fishburn has been an active part of Penn State for more than 30 years," the dedicatory message reads.

While on campus, Dr. Fishburn has directed the Blue Band, Symphony Orchestra, and various men's and women's choral groups. He was instrumental in the establishment of Band Day as an annual event at the College.

Woodrow W. Bierly, news assistant in public information, was elected new president of the LaVie Board of Directors. Richard Crafton is vice president and Shirley Stuckey, secretary.

Art and photography of LaVie have a modern theme. Four main dividers are Toulouse-Lautrec type of artwork done by Shirley Vernon. Subdividers have a line and block effect copied from Mondrian, 19th century Dutch artist.

The cover is white imitation leather and photography is in blue-green half tones.

A special feature on Penn State's Horace Ashenfelter, winner of an Olympic gold medal and the Sullivan award, is included in the annual.

Going on the principle that students would rather look at pictures, the 1953 LaVie puts more emphasis on pictures and less on copy than have former yearbooks, according to Schoerke.

Psych Lecture To End Series

Dr. Kenneth W. Spence, head of the Department of Psychology at the University of Iowa, will give the final talk of the Distinguished Lecturer Series in Psychology at 8 p.m. Friday in 105 White Hall.

He will speak on "Motivation as a Determiner of Performance."

Dr. Spence, on leave from the university, is serving as assistant director of the Human Resources Research office. The agency, under the Department of the Army, conducts studies in problems of psychological warfare, military training and leadership.

Identified with theories which attempt to predict the course of learning in a strict, behavioristic fashion, he has been awarded the Howard Crosby Warren medal of the Society of Experimental Psychologists for work in this field.

The lecture series is being sponsored by the Department of Psychology and the Graduate School.

AIM Board to Meet

The Association of Independent Men's Board of Governors will meet at 7:30 tonight in 102 Willard.

Rigling Named Social Head For WD Area

Richard Rigling, second semester physics major, was appointed social chairman for the West Dorm area for next year, Robert Hance, retiring president of the West Dorm Council announced Monday night.

Rigling will plan the West Dorm social calendar during the summer months. He and Ross Clark, fourth semester accounting major, who was recently elected council president, will put the program into effect at the start of the fall semester.

The council announced the recently installed 21-inch television receiver in the West Dorm main lounge will be stored during the summer. Reception on the $400 console was very good, the council reported. Robert Solomon, sixth semester agronomy major, was appointed head of the committee to care for the television set. George Donovan, director of associated student activities, is also on the committee.

Garrett to Discuss Chemistry Systems

Dr. A. B. Garrett, of Ohio State University, will give two talks tomorrow and Friday in 119 Osmond. The Department of Chemistry is sponsoring the lectures.

Dr. Garrett's talk at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow will be on researches on the constitution of the grignard reagent with some observations about the friedel-crafts systems.

The subject of Dr. Garrett's talk at 2:10 p.m. Friday will be the mechanism of dissolution of metals in acid solutions over the temperature range of -65 degrees centigrade to room temperature.

Fantasy Reigns as Iseman Presents Thesis Production

By EDMUND REISS

Fantasy reigned last night as Cameron Iseman presented his thesis production of "The 13 Clocks" by James Thurber in the Little Theater, basement of Old Main.

From the time the Golux came down-stage to tell a story to the end where the good people went off to live happily ever after, the audience was hit with all kinds of comedy ranging from sparkling humor to low Abbot and Costello burlesque. Albert Kalson, as the magical golux who is continually philosophizing that time is for dragonflies and angels, was superb. It was his job to introduce the story and be a humorous guiding light for the other characters. He couldn't have done it better.

The play takes place in the romantic Middle Ages and is the story of how a disguised prince rescues a beautiful princess from the castle of a villainous duke. Throughout this simple plot appear all sorts of fantastic characters, such as an elf who is continually disappearing, a duke who is so cold that he freezes all the clocks in his castle, and a woman who cries jewels rather than tears.

The cast is constantly leaving the stage to walk through the audience although the set is one of the most colorful we have ever seen here. Iseman has made complete use of his talents in producing a show designed to entertain everyone. He has placed an intricate lighting system around the room so that the audience is always wondering what will be lit up next.

Officials Consider Deferment Changes

Defense mobilization officials are studying proposed changes to tighten up on draft deferments for college students, according to Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director.

In a statement on Monday Hershey said the change would become effective in September and would principally affect freshmen, sophomores and graduate students.

One of the changes he has recommended in negotiations with the Manpower Commission of the Office of Defense Mobilization would allow high school seniors to take the Selective Service College Qualification test. The test is now confined to college students.

If this change is approved, upcoming freshmen who make a passing grade of 70 on the test or who have a standing in the upper one-third of the male members of the freshman class would be considered for educational deferment by their local draft boards. Instead of having to go the full year, as now required, a freshman could establish his class standing after one quarter or semester.

Under the proposed change sophomores are required to make a passing grade of 72 instead of 70 on the test. To be exempt from the draft because of class standing, the sophomore must maintain an average in the upper one-third, instead of two-thirds, if the proposal is accepted.

Regulations affecting juniors and seniors would remain as they are.

Pennsylvania's lowest draft call since last September was fixed today at 2244 men for next month.

State Selective Service headquarters said that practically all of the Pennsylvanians inducted would be in the 19-year-old class.

Director Henry M. Gross said 2476 men will be examined to fill the state quota. Last September the state call was 763.

Director Henry M. Gross said 2476 men will be examined to fill the state quota. Last September the state call was 763.

Under the proposed change sophomores are required to make a passing grade of 72 instead of 70 on the test. To be exempt from the draft because of class standing, the sophomore must maintain an average in the upper one-third, instead of two-thirds, if the proposal is accepted.

Regulations affecting juniors and seniors would remain as they are.

Barons Change Elections Date

Election of officers for Barons, Nittany-Pollock social organization, was postponed until fall because only a few members were present Monday at the last meeting of the semester.

Retiring president, Alan Reeves, turned organization material to members, Arthur Edwards and Thomas Claypoole.

Claypoole suggested a picnic be sponsored by the Nittany-Pollock area at the end of orientation week next fall. Reeves agreed to write letters to all area residents at the beginning of next semester to explain the organization and purpose of the Barons.

Chapel Choir Tryouts

Baritone, bass and alto candidates for next year's Chapel Choir may make tryout appointments until Monday in 216 Carnegie. Tryouts will be held next week.

Candidates who can attend a choir camp Sept. 9-13 are needed, Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, choir director, has announced.

Young Calls FEPC Out Temporarily

HARRISBURG, May 19 (AP)—Chairman Edward M. Young (R-Mercer) of the House labor relations committee today ruled out any action on fair employment practices legislation until the tax deadlock is broken.

The administration-backed bill to ban discrimination in employment or union membership because of race, creed, color, or national origin calls for a $750,000 appropriation for administration purposes.

"With that appropriation to be considered," Young said, "it would be completely idiotic to act on FEPC until we found out where the money is coming from."

The lawmakers, who took a short recess for today's primary election, reconvene tomorrow with taxes still the prime issue.

Young, who voted against FEPC in 1951 when the bill passed the House but died in a Senate committee, said there was a possibility he may vote for the measure this year.

But he was frankly skeptical that his committee will act on the controversial issue until the legislature devises a way of plugging a $157 million gap in Gov. John S. Fine's proposed $1.4 billion budget for the commonwealth.

The governor is actively backing the FEPC bill as he did in 1951. He plans to meet with the state council for FEPC Monday to lay plans to push it through the legislature.

But on taxes, a blank page stares at the tax-hunting lawmakers.

The administration-backed bill to ban discrimination in employment or union membership because of race, creed, color, or national origin calls for a $750,000 appropriation for administration purposes.

"With that appropriation to be considered," Young said, "it would be completely idiotic to act on FEPC until we found out where the money is coming from."

The lawmakers, who took a short recess for today's primary election, reconvene tomorrow with taxes still the prime issue.

Young, who voted against FEPC in 1951 when the bill passed the House but died in a Senate committee, said there was a possibility he may vote for the measure this year.

But he was frankly skeptical that his committee will act on the controversial issue until the legislature devises a way of plugging a $157 million gap in Gov. John S. Fine's proposed $1.4 billion budget for the commonwealth.

The governor is actively backing the FEPC bill as he did in 1951. He plans to meet with the state council for FEPC Monday to lay plans to push it through the legislature.

But on taxes, a blank page stares at the tax-hunting lawmakers.

SU Construction Is on Schedule

Construction of the Student Union Building is running almost according to schedule, Walter H. Wiegand, director of the physical plant, has announced.

Recent inclement weather caused minor delays in the excavating, he said. However, workmen have been able to progress ahead of schedule on the concrete work, Wiegand said.

A jurisdictional dispute between the labor union and steel workers is now under way, and if it continues much longer it may hinder progress on the building, he said.

The Student Union Building, expected to be completed by the fall of 1954, will cost about $2,867,000.

With the exception of a few minor details, the two 22-foot pylons which will form a campus gateway at the intersection of Pollock road and U.S. Route 322 are completed, Wiegand said.

Recent inclement weather caused minor delays in the excavating, he said. However, workmen have been able to progress ahead of schedule on the concrete work, Wiegand said.

A jurisdictional dispute between the labor union and steel workers is now under way, and if it continues much longer it may hinder progress on the building, he said.

The Student Union Building, expected to be completed by the fall of 1954, will cost about $2,867,000.

With the exception of a few minor details, the two 22-foot pylons which will form a campus gateway at the intersection of Pollock road and U.S. Route 322 are completed, Wiegand said.

Reference Book Missing From College Library

An important book, Winchell's "Guide to Reference Books," has been missing from the library for some weeks, according to Mildred A. Ailman, reference librarian. This copy is valued highly because it contains records of the library's holdings not yet recorded in other copies, she said.

It is important that the book be returned promptly to one of the desks of the library, she said.

Lakonides to Sponsor Phys Ed Staff Banquet

Lakonides, women's physical education honorary, will sponsor a banquet for members and women of the physical education faculty at 6 tonight at the Allencrest Tea Room.

Newly elected officers are Alice Colbert, president; Joanna Graves, vice president; Shirley Painter, secretary and Amber Hassinger, treasurer.

Lakonides, women's physical education honorary, will sponsor a banquet for members and women of the physical education faculty at 6 tonight at the Allencrest Tea Room.

Newly elected officers are Alice Colbert, president; Joanna Graves, vice president; Shirley Painter, secretary and Amber Hassinger, treasurer.