Seniors to Honor 11 Titlists June 8

By BAYLEE FRIEDMAN

Graduating seniors are voting, as they pick up 1953 LaVies at the Student Union desk, for Spoon Man, Bow Girl and nine other titlists to be honored June 8 at Class Night.

Eleven outstanding seniors who inherit these labels will be carrying on a College tradition.

Class Night began in 1874 with awards based on scholarship and activities.

Moslak Given Merit Award By Ed Council

Terese Moslak, eighth semester education major, received the Education Student Council outstanding senior merit award at the council meeting Tuesday night.

The award, presented after the nominee's character, scholarship, leadership and activities have been considered by the council, is a cup engraved with the name of the winner. The receiver's name will also be engraved on a bronze plaque in Burrowes Building.

The award is presented each year to an outstanding senior in education nominated by the faculty members and students of the school.

Miss Moslak is listed in "Who's in the News at Penn State" and "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Other seniors in the School of Education who were nominated were Mary Cherney, Leon Davidson, Donna-Rae Estabrook, Richard Hamilton, Ruth Pearce, Betty Richardson and Marian Whiteley.

The council approved a contact program whereby student volunteers in the School of Education will receive during the summer names of new students entering the College in September. Acting as advisers, these student volunteers will correspond with the new students to provide them with information concerning curriculum and the College. More volunteers are needed according to Harry Shank, president of the council.

Evaluation blanks have been distributed in classes according to Dorothy Swanson, chairman of the faculty evaluation committee.

LA LaVie Deadline

Today is the last day for seniors in liberal arts to get LaVies at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Seniors in agriculture may pick up copies tomorrow and Saturday morning.

New Ticket Policy Set for Penn Game

Because the Penn State-University of Pennsylvania football game will be played Oct. 3, within eight days after classes start next semester, a ticket plan has been set up by Harold R. Gilbert, assistant director of athletics, to allow students to order tickets before returning to campus in the fall.

The plan will enable students to order tickets early, and be guaranteed a good seat,

Positions To Be Filled By Cabinet

Appointments to seven committees will be made at 8 o'clock tonight when All-College Cabinet meets for the final time this year, Richard Lemyre, All-College president, has announced.

Chairman and business manager for 1954 Spring Week will be appointed. Tribunal board will also be named. Thomas Farrell was appointed Tribunal chairman at the last cabinet meeting.

Elections committee chairman and members will be named. The nomination of Richard Grossman as elections chairman was rejected at the last cabinet meeting.

Other committee appointments will include Junior Prom, Cam-according to Gilbert. Under the system, application blanks for tickets will be available May 28 at the Athletic Association ticket office in Old Main.

Applications will be accepted from June 1 to Sept. 15. They must be accompanied by check, cash, money order, or postal order. Each student may apply for a maximum of two tickets.

Ticket orders will be filled in the order they are received. Reserved seats in side-line sections will cost $3.90, tax included. End zone seats sell for $2.60, tax included.

Students desiring tickets be mailed to them must include an additional 25 cents with applications.

Students who wish to sit in groups must submit applications together. No application to sit in a specific group will be honored after the applications from the original group have been received.

The plan applies only to present freshman, sophomore and junior class members and seventh semester seniors. Graduating seniors will be able to secure tickets through an application form mailed to all alumni. Incoming freshmen will be able to get tickets during Orientation Week.

Under a policy set by the Athletic Advisory Board, seats in the first ten rows of the Penn State section will be reserved for students. Remaining tickets allocated for Penn State fans will be sold to alumni.

Approximately 12,000 tickets for the game in Franklin Field, Philadelphia, will be allocated the College. About one half of these will be sold to alumni, and the other half will go to students.

Housing Lists Ready in August

An approved list of town houses renting rooms to students should be completed by the first week in August, Dean of Men Frank J. Simes, reported.

Response has been very favorable to the plan, he said, with many householders even requested they be included in the program.

Two staff members of the Dean of Men's office will conduct the program with two other College employees to be named, he added.

Lighting, floor space, bathroom facilities and general environmental conditions will be included as standards in the program.

3 Students Lose Car Privileges

The privilege of having an automobile on campus has been withdrawn for one year from three students involved May 11 in the Nittany-Pollock fracas, Dean of Men Frank J. Simes, reported.

Students were charged with reckless driving and contributing to the general confusion. Withdrawal of the privilege will include the barring of the cars from the campus, including parking in the Nittany-Pollock area, Dean Simes said.

Another violation by the three men, he added, would result in action by the disciplinary committee of the College. The present ruling was handed down by the Dean of Men's office only.

License numbers of seven cars were received by the Dean of Men's office after the disturbance. A water fight in the West Dorm courtyard occurred about the same time.

In another action of the office of the Dean of Men involving the fracas, two students were placed on office probation for an indefinite period.

An office probation involves a warning after which a more serious penalty would be meted out if the students were involved in any more difficulties.

In commenting on the penalty, Dean Simes said that the College will deal severely with persons who become involved in group demonstrations that result in irresponsible acts and bring discredit to the College.

Wagner Selected Head Cheerleader

Bruce Wagner, sixth semester arts and letters major, was chosen head cheerleader last night for next year. Fury Feraco, sixth semester commerce major, was selected to assist him.

New male cheerleaders will be Harry Albert, Ronald Lynch, Tony Kline, and Bruce Knauss, alternate. Four women were also chosen from the candidates. They are Joan Myers, Patricia Dickinson, Joan Carter, and Ruth Summer-ville, alternate. The new cheerleaders are all freshmen.

Candidates were judged by Ernest B. McCoy, director of athletics; Hummel Fishburn, professor of music; Eugene Wettstone, associate professor of physical education; Harold R. Gilbert, assistant director of athletics; and Alan McChesney, former head cheerleader.

158 Students Take Draft Test Today

One hundred and fifty-eight students are scheduled to take the Selective Service Test today in 10 Sparks.

Students will report at 8 a.m. for the four-hour test. From 8 to 9 a.m. directions for the test will be given.

Students taking the test are required to bring admittance cards. No one will be allowed to leave before all tests have been collected.

McCarthy Hits Trade With Red China

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Senate investigators heard with indignation today that Britain and other allies of the U.S. have "tremendously" stepped up trading with Red China. They called on President Eisenhower to state clearly this country's attitude toward such trade.

Chairman McCarthy (R.-Wis.) and other members of the investigations subcommittee spoke out after hearing a committee staff member testify that:

—China Exports Rise

At least 100 British and 62 other Western-flag ships were trading with the Chinese Communists in the first three months of this year—although many of the countries involved are fighting the Chinese Reds in Korea.

Two British-owned ships were used to transport Communist troops along the Chinese coast and later were hired to transport goods for this country's Mutual Security Administration.

Britain exports to Red China jumped from $345,000 in the first two months of 1952 to $5.75 million in the first two months of this year—an increase of about 1700 per cent.

This testimony came from Assistant Counsel Robert F. Kennedy (D.-Mass.). The witness said much of his information came from the U.S. Office of Naval Intelligence.

—British Aid Denounced

McCarthy and some of his fellow investigators hit the ceiling. The Wisconsin lawmakers said such "aid to Red China more than offsets any military contribution the British have made" in the Korean War.

"It is unheard of in the history of the world," McCarthy declared, "for a country to be transporting the troops that are killing its own soldiers."

Senator Symington (D.-Mo.) said he was exercised, too, about an apparent difference of opinion between Secretary of Defense Wilson and the State Department over American policy toward Western trade with the Chinese Reds.

—Strategic Trade Items

He proposed McCarthy write Eisenhower and ask for a "clearing up" of the matter—and also what Symington called an "obvious subterfuge" by which this government keeps secret the nature of some trade items it regards as strategic but its allies do not consider strategic.

"That is an excellent suggestion," McCarthy said, adding he would write the letter today.
