

Collegian Published By All-Student Staff

To inform students of campus news and activities and to give practical experience to journalism majors, the Daily Collegian is published by an all-student staff Tuesday through Saturday mornings.

The Collegian is distributed at the Student Union desk in Old Main and in living units.

The editorial staff, composed of senior, junior, sophomore, and candidate boards, gathers and reports campus news. National and international news is obtained from the Associated Press wire services.

Business Staff

The Daily Collegian tries to give as complete and unbiased coverage as possible. The paper is one of few college papers free from censorship and control by the administration. Members of the junior and senior editorial boards may not belong to either campus political party.

The business staff handles advertising, promotion, and circulation phases of production. The arrangement of boards is similar to the editorial staff.

Newspaper policy is determined by senior editorial board members, who receive monetary compensation for their work. Senior boarders give assignments and determine what goes into the paper.

Candidates to Be Called

Members of the junior editorial board alternately act as night editors, copy editors, and wire editors and write major news stories. Sophomore and candidate boarders act as headline writers, proof readers, and minor news writers.

A call for candidates will be made soon. Candidates need not be journalism majors. Classes will be held weekly to teach Collegian policy and style and the rudiments of news writing.

Candidates will begin working on the paper 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Promotions will be made on the basis of interest, effort, and ability.

Classes Held Weekly

Collegian is financed by a $1.10 student assessment and local, national, and classified advertising.

Candidates for business staff will be called for shortly. Classes to train candidates will be held weekly. Promotions are made on the same basis as the editorial staff.

Barons Hold Dorm Socials

The Barons, Nittany-Pollock social organization, was organized in 1950 to promote recreation for residents of the East Dorms. The group sponsors social functions, promotes coordination, and manages joint activities for the dormitory area.

Students living in the East Dorms may become members of Barons. Active members who have moved from the area may continue to participate in the organization.

Election of officers is held during the first three meetings of the spring semester. At that time the executive committee, composed of officers, senior advisers, chief resident adviser, and squire chairman, is formed. The Barons meet at least twice a month.

Among the programs held by Barons is the Splinterville Review, an annual talent show. Lounge parties are planned with the cooperation of independent women. In conjunction with the Nittany and Pollock Councils, Barons organize area-sponsored activities for Spring Week.

Naval Reserve Unit To Offer Radio Courses

The Naval Reserve electronics unit will hold volunteer, non-paying training sessions in radio, communications, Morse code, and theory and kit construction this semester.

Veterans, inactive reservists and non-ROTC members are eligible for the courses. Meetings will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. every Monday in Engineering E.

1887, the Collegian progressed from a monthly literary publication to a four-page daily in 1941, and to an eight-page daily in 1950.

ISCB Coordinates 9 School Councils

Interschool Council Board, a coordinating body for school councils, is composed of nine school council presidents, including the president of the new Business school.

ISCB meets at least twice a month to discuss problems of each school and hear reports of council projects.

Last semester ISCB presented a consolidated fee plan to the student body. This plan, now in effect, provides a uniform 25-cent fee for students to finance school council projects.

Under the sponsorship of ISCB combined open houses were held last year in all schools except the Schools of Agriculture and the Liberal Arts. Information concerning the open house program was sent to neighboring high schools.

This was the first time a combined program was held.

Surgical instruments recovered from Pompeii include spatulas, lancets, tongs, scissors, midwifery instruments and others of outstanding excellence.

Inkling to Go on Sale

Copies of Inkling, campus literary magazine, will go on sale tomorrow on the Mall.

The magazine contains essays, poetry, and short stories written by students.

Spangler Re-named

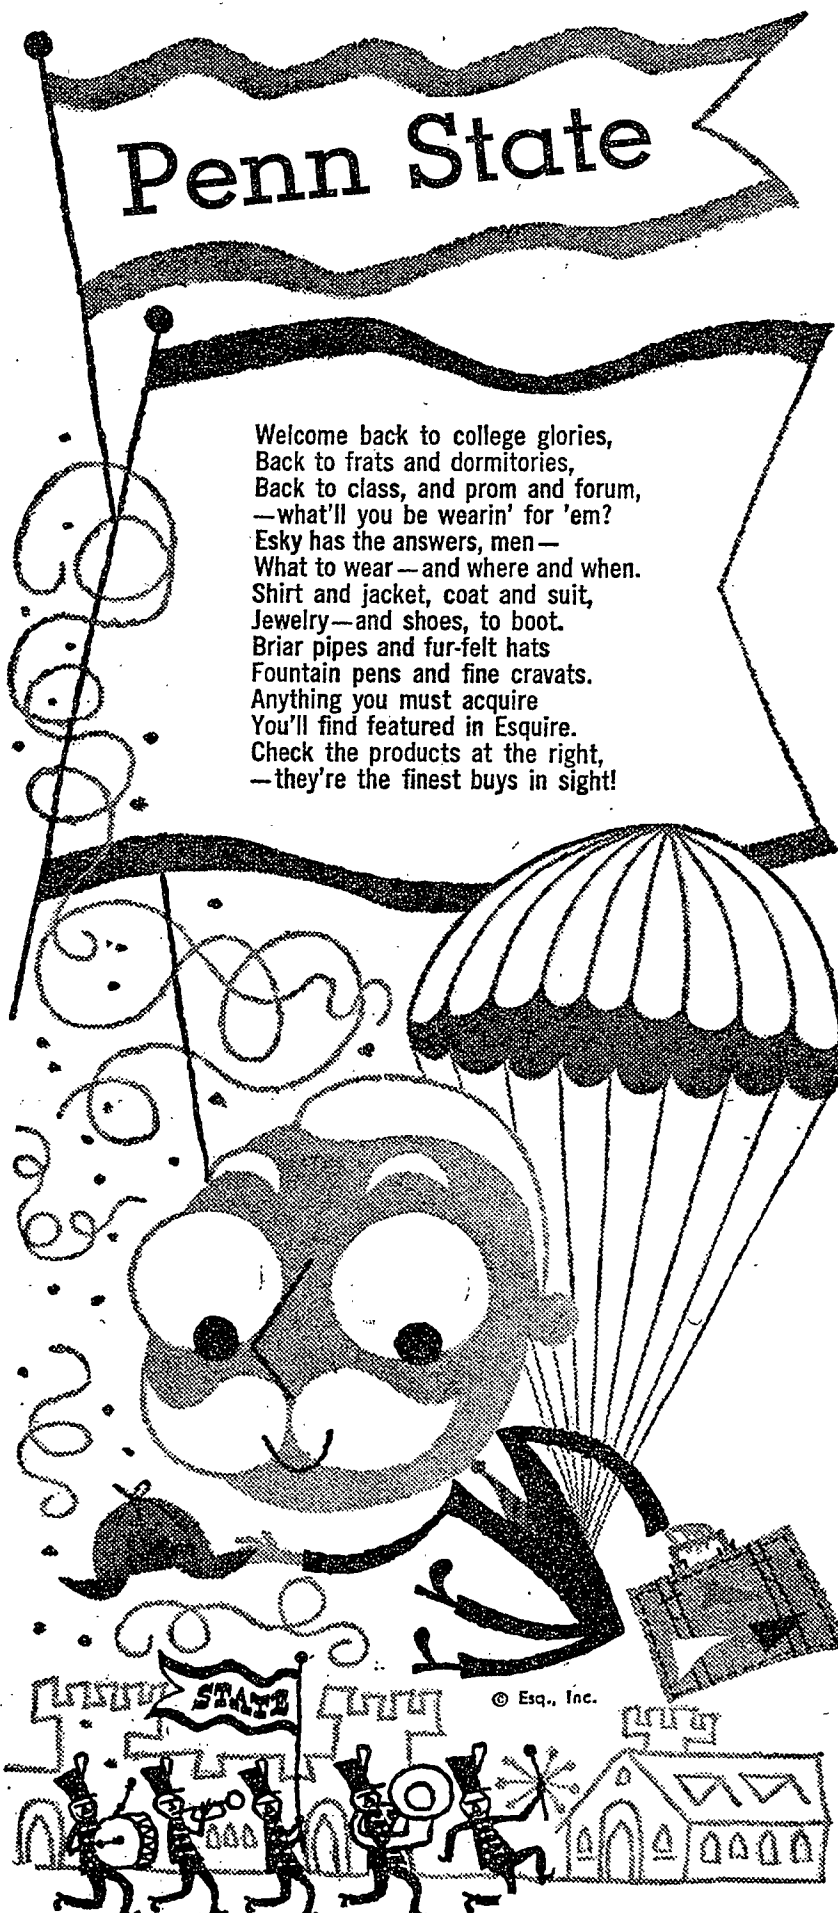

John M. Spangler, named last year as general chairman of the Alumni Fund, has been re-elected to the post.

Spangler has stated he will request school chairmen and other members of the council who served last year to continue their positions.
