

ROTC Changes Are Announced

All men graduating in February who are enrolled in the advanced Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program will be commissioned, Lt. Col. J. W. Dieterle, professor of air science and tactics, announced yesterday.

Dieterle, speaking before seniors enrolled in the Air Force program, explained this is not a change from previously announced Air Force policy.

Movies of Penn State football games, sponsored by Androcles, junior men's hat society, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. the Tuesday following each game in Schwab Auditorium, John Carpenter, president, has announced.

The films will be shown by Ray M. Conger, associate professor of physical education. Members of the football coaching staff will comment on the movies.

Ag Leaders Will Meet Tomorrow

By MIKE FEINSILBER

Approximately 50 officers of Ag Hill organizations are expected to attend a meeting tomorrow night where an Agricultural Student Council Leadership Training Night will be inaugurated.

The program was announced by council president, Thomas Inter.

Aimed at promoting student activities on Ag Hill, the program will get underway at 5 p.m. tomorrow with an address by vice-dean of the Agriculture school, Russell B. Dickerson. He will discuss "How to Properly Conduct Meetings."

Set Reservations

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, will address the officers on "The Place and Function of Student Clubs" at a dinner at 7 p.m. at the Allencrest Tea Room.

Officers of Ag Hill groups may make reservations today for attendance at workshops and dinner in the offices of their advisers, Inter said. All Agricultural groups are invited to participate, he added.

Prior to the dinner, officers will meet in individual workshop sessions at 5:45 p.m.

Joseph F. O'Brien, professor of speech, will meet with presidents and vice-presidents of organizations in 109 Agriculture. Secretaries of the groups will hear William R. Davey, instructor of dairy husbandry, in 103 Agriculture.

Will Hear Panel

Dr. David R. McClay, associate professor of agricultural education, and Samuel I. Aufer, administrative assistant to the Dean of the Ag school, will meet with treasurers in 105 Agriculture.

The after-dinner program will feature a panel discussion by student leaders in Agriculture who attended the recent student encampment at Mount Alto.

Paul H. Margolf, professor of poultry husbandry, will discuss suggestions for advisers of activities; Dickerson will hold a discussion on "Committees Needed and How They Should Function"; and Dr. Roy P. Pennington, assistant professor of soil technology, will discuss "Preparing a Program of Work" as part of the concluding session.

The program is the first of its type, Inter reported.

Poultry Club

The Poultry Club will hold a meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Home Economics Living Center. The meeting will acquaint new members with programs of past years and projects for the coming year.

Men graduating in June will be divided into two classes, Dieterle said. One class will be made up of those receiving ROTC commissions and the other will contain those who will receive "certificates of completion."

Eligible For Draft

All men enrolled for flight training and some men in technical skills will be in the first class while all others will be placed in the second.

Dieterle said men receiving "certificates of completion" will be eligible for draft, but after serving their term of active duty, will be eligible for the Air Force reserve.

Dieterle reminded the group they may still enroll for flight training up until 90 days before the date of their graduation.

Reasons for the changes may be laid to Congressional cuts in Air Force funds, Dieterle said. These cuts have forced the Air Force to reduce its proposed strength from 143 wings to 120.

No Changes Planned

Pentagon officials earlier this month announced that budget cuts have made it necessary to tighten requirements for ROTC commissions. There is always a demand for pilots, Pentagon officials said, and added that the need for engineers and other technical specialists will permit some graduates to continue through AFROTC work without signing the flight training agreement.

There are no plans at the present time to change regulations for the other three years of AFROTC training.

The Pentagon expects to begin calling into active service in October all of the 9600 AFROTC students who graduated from college last June.

APhiO to Hold Mixer Oct. 5

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will hold a get-acquainted mixer Oct. 5 for undergraduate male students who wish to join the group.

To be eligible for membership, an applicant must be at least in his second semester, have a 1.0 All-College average, and have been a boy scout or cub scout.

First semester freshmen interested in joining the fraternity may attend the mixer. However, they are not eligible for membership.

Prexy Announces Staff Appointments

New appointments to the College administrative staff have been named by President Milton S. Eisenhower.

C. S. Wyand, former assistant to the Prexy, is now executive assistant. This title is a new one, created to define the enlarged scope of Wyand's responsibilities. His job is to handle problems of general administration and expediate matters requiring Dr. Eisenhower's personal attention.

Wyand was graduated from the College in 1929, and did post-graduate work at Columbia University. After several years business experience in New York City, he returned to campus to teach economics, and attained the rank of professor. In 1946 he became administrative assistant to Dr. Ralph Dorn Hetzel, then president of the College.

O. Edward Pollock, former assistant dean of men at Ohio State University, has been named new assistant to the dean of men. He received his B.A. degree in psychology from the University of Virginia and his M.A. degree with a major in industrial relations at Ohio State.

Otto E. Mueller, former director of the housing bureau at the University of Wisconsin, has been named director of housing at the College. Dr. Eisenhower said Mueller will be responsible for the operation of student residence halls on campus, family residence units, and other housing quarters operated by the College. Mueller was graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a degree in political science.

Jane E. Griswold has been appointed supervisor of women's dining halls, according to Mildred A. Baker, director of College Food Service.

Miss Griswold replaces Hermina Zippel, former director of dining halls, who resigned to take a position at Montana State University. Miss Baker explained under a reorganization plan of the department, the positions of supervisor of women's dining halls and supervisor of men's dining halls have been created to replace

Men's Debate Squad Will Meet Tonight

Members of the men's varsity debate squad will meet at 7 tonight in 316 Sparks.

A preliminary meeting for undergraduate men interested in joining the squad will be held 7 p.m., Sept. 30, according to Thomas Farrell, men's debate manager. Tryouts will begin Oct. 7.

Both freshmen and upperclassmen are eligible to try out for the squad, and no previous debate experience is necessary. Candidates must deliver a five-minute speech on either side of the national debate topic, Resolved: That the United States should adopt a policy of free trade.

In addition to being an activity, College credits are received for debate, according to Prof. Joseph F. O'Brien, men's debate coach.

The squad will begin the 1953-54 season with the annual University of Vermont Invitational Tournament in Burlington, in which Penn State tied for fourth place last year.

The Modified Cross-Examination Tournament at the University of Pittsburgh, in which the men ranked first last year, and the annual Novice Debate Tournament at Temple University are also scheduled for the fall semester.

Two special feature debaters for the fall semester are the 20th annual international debate between members of the College squad and the combined British universities team and the annual Cross-Examination Debate, in which members of the squad meet a women's team from Mount Mercy College.

Today's Equinox Is No Paradox

Today is about as equal a day as you'll find any day.

The length of the day will be equal to the length of the night.

Therefore, today is an equinox. Consequently, it's the first day of fall. This happened at 3:07 this morning.

Now, summer suntans, will fade, football coaches and leaves will start quivering, and people will stop asking "Hot enough for you?"

There will be a brief wintery pause, until somebody spots a robin.

Then it'll be spring. It's all very seasonal.

VA Representative To Address Vets

A Veterans Administration representative will address the Veterans Club at 7:15 p.m. Sept. 30 in 110 Electrical Engineering.

The VA representative will give information on getting checks and VA office procedures.

Guest speakers will aid the club in founding a tutoring system for veterans.

Information for veterans may be obtained at the Veterans Administration office, basement of Willard Hall.

Weisman Pays Tribute To Rise of Skyscraper

Winston Weisman, visiting lecturer in architecture, has written an article commemorating the 80th birthday of the skyscraper.

His article, "The Rise and Rise of the Skyscraper," illustrated by 11 photographs, appeared in Sunday's New York Times magazine section.

the position of supervisor of dining halls.

Grace M. Boyd has been appointed supervisor of test kitchen and Louise Schermerhorn as assistant manager of Foods Building in charge of food production.

Home Ec Groups To Hold Mixer

A mixer for freshmen and new students in the School of Home Economics will be held from 7 to 9 tonight in Temporary Union Building.

Dress customs for freshmen will be in effect for the mixer, but dating customs have been lifted, the Joint Freshman Customs Board revealed Monday night.

Jane Mason, president of the Home Economics Student Council, is in charge of arrangements for the mixer. Nancy Gemmill is publicity chairman. Dancing and games will be supervised by Chauncy Lang.

The mixer is sponsored by Home Ec Student Council, Greeters Club, Home Ec Club and other Home Ec honoraries.

GOP's to Hold Mixer

Young Republican Club will hold a mixer at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the State College Hotel. Students have been invited to attend by Benjamin Sinclair, president.
