

Lions, Badgers Clash Today

By SAM PROCOPIO

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 26—Unlike the past three years, Penn State opens its 67th intercollegiate football season without a breather as it skirmishes the Badgers of Wisconsin here at 1:30 p.m. (CST). The battle is the first between the schools.

More than 47,000 spectators are expected to fill Camp Randall stadium to observe the two teams play their opening 1953 games under the newly accepted one-platoon rule.

Coach Rip Engle's football 11 goes into the game a seven point underdog. But in some circles here there is some belief that Penn State's near all-veteran lineup and a record passing combination in Co-captain Tony Rados and Jesse Arnelle, will probably make the game a "toss-up" before game time.

In 1948 the well-rated Wisconsin team finished in the Big Ten cellar (then Big Nine) with only one victory as compared with five defeats. The dismal record chased Harry Stuhldreher out of the coaching job he had held for 13 seasons and brought on Ivy Williamson, former Michigan all-American.

TONY RADOS (left) and Don Malinak, Lion co-captains, flank Rip Engle as they talk over prospects for a Nittany victory this afternoon. The Lions face Wisconsin in the season opener at Madison, Wis. This is Engle's fourth season at Penn State. Rados is Engle's choice at quarterback, while Malinak teams up with Jesse Arnelle at terminal-positions.

Williamson, previously an assistant coach at Yale and head coach at Lafayette, installed his own peculiar version of the split "T." In Williamson's version of the "T" the fullback is the key performer.

He must be a triple-threat man who can run, pass, and kick. This season, however, Williamson has changed to the modified T-formation.

Despite the change he still depends upon his fullback to carry out most of the rushing burden. Alan Ameche, a selected all-American, is Wisconsin's main hope.

Penn State's fullback position which has been in doubt all season is described by Engle as "the worst I've faced in four years."

"When Pete Shopa and Matt Yañosich left for the service, we lost the only experienced men we had for the position," Engle said. "And I was counting on them heavily for the 1953 season. Now, I must look to sophomores for this manpower."

Cabinet Extends Membership In National Student Association

All-College Cabinet Thursday night passed a recommendation of the encampment's student leadership workshop that the College continue its membership in the National Student Association for another year.

The recommendation was passed by a vote of 13-4 with four abstentions, after cabinet had rejected a motion to table the recommendation for additional study. Robert Smoot, campus coordinator for NSA, said postponing action would eliminate any chance to have the national subcommittee on student leadership located at the College. Cabinet later passed the workshop's recommendation for the location of the subcommittee here.

Opposition to the College's participation in NSA was led by Robert Homan, sophomore class president, who suggested dropping out of the organization for one year to test its effect on the student government system.

David Jones, chairman of the Board of Publications, said student government was not supporting NSA to its fullest extent. "Why should an organization sit back and wait for another organization to bring it the profits?" Jones asked.

"If we have really tried NSA, why don't we know what it is?" he asked.

Smoot added that although many schools in the eastern United States have inferior student government organizations, many mid-western and western schools have comparable or further advanced student governments with which an exchange of ideas would be helpful. Smoot said that ideas could be exchanged with other schools by questionnaire, regional convention workshop discussions, and National Student Congress discussions.

Cabinet also passed a recommendation that it review its policies regarding the number of delegates being sent to regional and national conventions and the manner in which expenses are to be paid. Smoot had explained at the encampment that the one delegate sent to conventions, as is now cabinet's policy, could not cover as many workshops and gain as many ideas as could several persons in several workshops.

Cabinet also passed a resolution establishing a committee to

Final Figure Estimated To Exceed 1952 Total

With 11,364 students registered at the College as of noon Thursday, enrollment for the fall semester is expected to exceed the final figure of 11,539 of a year ago, C. O. Williams, dean of admissions and registrar, has announced.

The 1952 registration marked the third largest enrollment at the College in its history. In 1951 the fall semester enrollment reached a total of 11,553, while the largest enrollment took place in 1949, with 14,732 students registering on campus alone.

140 Register Late

A total of 8335 men and 2889 women were enrolled on campus prior to noon Sept. 19, Williams said. In addition to the incomplete campus total, 1172 students also are enrolled at off-campus points. Registered at centers are 1074 students, 650 of them freshmen, 480 men and 170 women. The Mont Alto branch of the Penn State Forestry School reported an enrollment of 98.

Since noon on Sept. 19, when a total of 11,224 students had enrolled at the College, 140 students registered. Compared with the usual figure of as many as 1000 students enrolling during late registration in previous years, this figure is exceedingly small, Williams said. Student teachers and teachers in service enrolling for Saturday classes still must register.

2825 Frosh Enroll

Juniors and seniors numbering a total of 4472 registered Sept. 16, with 3190 and 2745 students registering consecutively on the following two days. The system of registration used this fall caused some trouble for the two upper classes, Williams stated. However, he added, the system resulted in a student directory now available to faculty, offices, and campus organizations, and also provided the faculty with immediate schedules of registered students.

According to figures given Sept. 19, freshman enrollment reached 2825, of which 760 are women and 2065 are men, making a ratio of 2.71 men to 1.00 women in the freshman class.

Transfers from the centers totaled 150 women and 350 men, Williams said.

Harshbarger To Present Chapel Talk

The Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, College chaplain, will discuss "None Other Gods," first in a series of chapel sermons on essential beliefs, at 11 a.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

Harshbarger recently returned from traveling in Europe as director of National Student Council YMCA and YWCA European seminar. He is executive secretary of Penn State Christian Association. During his tour of Europe he visited Great Britain, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, and Yugoslavia.

His previous work with the YMCA came during World War II when he served five years with the World's YMCA service to enemy prisoners of war. Before that, Harshbarger was pastor of the Salem Community Church, Wichita, Kan.; the Lordship Community Church, Stratford, Conn.; and Church of the Brethren, Amble.

A member of the General Committee of World University Service, NSCY Student Committee and NSCY National Program Commission, he has been at the College since 1949.

As part of the service, Chapel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, will sing "Psalm 97" (Schutz) and "The Lord is a Mighty God" (Mendelssohn).

George E. Ciega, Chapel organist, will play as prelude "Third Variation from Sonata VI," as offertory "Andante" and as postlude "Fugue in D minor," (Mendelssohn).

Hatmen Raid WD; Violations Charged to 15

Approximately 15 freshman men were charged with customs violations at noon yesterday after a raid on West Dorm dining halls by Androcles, junior men's hat society.

Men living in Hamilton, McKee and the Tri-Dorms were checked for customs observance. The majority of violations consisted of lack of dress customs. One student was charged with men.

Names of violators will be reported to Freshman Customs Board.

Charges were also turned into the Student Union desk yesterday against 20 freshmen found talking to upperclassmen, not having their Student Handbooks filled out, and not knowing locations of campus buildings.

Freshman Customs Board has extended hours until 10:30 tonight for freshman women wishing to attend church mixers. Women must show name tags from the mixers to their hostesses upon signing into the dorms.

Collegian Issues Call For Photography Staff

Candidates for the photography staff of the Daily Collegian will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in 9 Carnegie.

Experience is desired, but not required, Bruce Schroeder, photography editor, said.

Pollock Women To Be Moved To New Dorms

Women students living in Pollock Dormitory 10 will be assigned rooms in regular women's dormitories starting next week, Mrs. Cordelia L. Hibbs, assistant to the dean of women, announced yesterday.

Because fewer women dropped out of the College than had been anticipated, 58 new students, mostly transfers, had been given rooms in Pollock Circle, normally a man's dormitory area.

As vacancies become available, the women will be assigned to rooms in Atherton, Simmons and McElwain Halls. Freshman women living in Pollock will be given rooms in MacAllister and Thompson Halls, and Woman's Building.

Women students presently living in dormitory lounges will be assigned permanent rooms.

Vacancies become available in the dormitories as students withdraw from the College. More will be available when eight-week students leave for student teaching assignments.

Androcles to Show Wisconsin Movies

Movies of the Penn State-Wisconsin football game will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab Auditorium.

No admission will be charged. The films will be sponsored by Androcles, junior men's hat society. A member of the football coaching staff will comment on the films.
