

Grid Opener Today

The sophomore mentioned by Engle to start against the Badgers this afternoon is Bobby Allen. Bill Straub, who has been pressing him for fullback, will probably get to see some action.

A fine pair of ends will be on the receiving end of Tony Rados' passes. He will have Co-captain Don Malinak and Jesse Arnelle. Other positions in the Lions' line are Rosey Grier and Gene Danser at tackles, Schoderbek and Keith Horn at guards, and Don Balthaser at center.

Rados will be under the center, leading Engle's own version of the winged-T. At the left half-back position the Penn State coach can go three deep with little embarrassment. Buddy Rowell, however, has been nominated to start. Dick Jones and Lenny Moore will also see plenty of action. Keith Vesling will be at right halfback.

Sports Briefs

Pitt Seeks Revenge

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25 (AP)—West Virginia University and the University of Pittsburgh open the 1953 football season tomorrow with the game a make or break point for either team.

The Pitt Panthers, rated one of the top teams in the East, rule a 7-10 point favorite. It was the same story last year but the Mountaineers reached deep into a bag of tricks to whip the Panthers 16-0.

Lowell Red Dawson, starting his second season at the helm of the Panthers, moved his squad into seclusion today after a light workout.

The Mountaineers arrived shortly after noon. They worked out for a half-hour at Pitt Stadium and then returned to a downtown hotel.

Football Team Fined

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 25 (AP) Central State of Wilberforce is carrying a lot of weight for its game against Morgan State College at Baltimore tomorrow.

The team was fined $25 and costs at New Concord for overloading the rear axle of its chartered bus. It paid the fine, redistributed the weight more evenly and started rolling again toward its Maryland opponent.

1960 Winter Olympics

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 25 (AP)—Avery Brundage, American president of the International Olympic Committee, threw his support today behind Garmisch-Partenkirchen's bid for the 1960 winter games and said he was certain that the summer Olympic will also be held in Europe. The committee decision is not expected before next year.

Charles, Rocky Bout May Come in Feb.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Rocky Marciano, towering over the heavyweight field, may defend his title next against Ezzard Charles, Feb. 22 at San Francisco if the ex-champ can avenge a defeat by Harold Johnson.

Charles, bypassed to give Roland LaStarza his chance, was tentatively set for a rematch with Johnson Nov. 4 but Johnson will not be ready then due to an ear infection.

Hosterman Alters Line In Shakeup

By ROY WILLIAMS

The general shakeup among present newcomers and last year's veterans of the Lion soccer squad is still in full swing. Coach Ken Hosterman has been scrimmaging and observing the local prospects in the hope of finding a cohesive all-around 11.

Practice has been underway for nearly two weeks now, but no definite positions have been announced by Hosterman as being "nailed down" by any one man. His backfield, which is loaded with talent, still hasn't been named, despite the fact that he has ten prospects with soccer savvy and ability.

Soph Goalie Improves

Although the line positions, and the possibilities of filling the position of the goalie slot may not be as much of a problem as the necessary remodeling job on the halfback line, they could be last minute headaches. The goalie position has been competed for by three veterans. Senior Bob "Red" Harris, last year's veteran post tender, has been showing continued improvement.

Sophomore George Cenzy, one of the two goalies up from last year's freshman squad, has also sharpened his defensive skills. John Lawrence, another sophomore, was a possible prospect until a serious pre-season foot injury sidelined him for the majority of the coming season.

Eight booters, including three sophomores, have been competing for one of the five starting berths on the opening lineup with Bucknell next Saturday, at the Bison's home field. Jack Pinezich, record-breaking center forward of last year's squad, has been playing the same position.

Two juniors—Joe Majares and Charley Snyder—have been pressing for linemen openings; Dick Matacia, soph lineman, may be part of the very possible lineup juggling. Pinezich or Springer could be switched to inside left, with Packer filling in at another slot, as all three men have had considerable all-around line play experience.

Marciano, unscarred after last night's 11th round technical knockout victory over LaStarza before a crowd of 44,562 and a $435,820 house, met the press in his hotel room after a late breakfast. His immediate plans call for watching the World Series in which he is picking Brooklyn.

Possible Challengers
"We'll definitely fight next year," said Weill, who proceeded to reel off possible opponents.

"Charles, if he beats Johnson. Johnson, if he beats Charles again and wants to stick in the heavy weight class instead of the light heavies. Nino Valdes, the big Cuban who beat Charles in Miami. Dan Bucceroni and maybe LaStarza if he wants it again. And Jack Solomons London promoter wants us to fight the British guy, Don Cockell."

LaStarza won't be in action for at least six weeks because of bone chips and a calcium deposit in his left elbow. He also suffered a muscle hemorrhage in the arm while blocking one of Marciano's wild punches.

On the official gate figures, plus an estimated $100,000 income from theater-television, Marciano will get a total of $186,992.82 and LaStarza $76,997.04. The champ got 42½ per cent and the challenger 17½ per cent of the net.

Marciano 'Rus'
"I didn't even know I was down or that the fight was stopped until I heard Johnny Adie, the ring announcer," he said. "I know I got tired a little. But he has improved more than I thought."

Marciano admitted he was ring rusty after fighting only two minutes and 25 seconds in an entire year. He didn't get warmed up until the seventh when he was trailing on two of the three cards.

Frick Invites Lawyer To Sit In On Meeting

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—Atty. J. Norman Lewis said today Commissioner Ford Frick has invited him to sit in on baseball's executive council meeting Monday as the legal representative of Allie Reynolds and Ralph Kline, the major league players' representatives.

Previously Frick declined to confer with Lewis on an official and legal level.

Giambra, Portugez Set

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP) Joey Giambra stepped on the scales today and the arrow pointed to 159 pounds, indicating that the rising young middleweight would be at the heaviest weight of his career for tomorrow night's 10-round return bout with Tuzo Portugez.

The Memorial Auditorium fight, staged by the Hudson Boxing Club, will be telecast nationally ABC, 8 p.m., EST.

Barefoot Boy . . .

Sam's Song

By SAM PROCOPIO
Collegian Sports Editor

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 26—With the return of the one-platoon, football coaches will once again be on the lookout for the triple-threat man. The qualifications for this performer are being a fast, slick runner, a passing whiz, and a kicker.

Today, college mentors are finding in most candidates the first two prerequisites, but the third is lacking. Players who possessed average kicking ability were a dime a dozen at one time. Now a fine toothpick is needed for each dozen.

Here at Camp Randall stadium coaches Rip Engle and Ivy Williamson are employing kickers with no experience under pressure. And too, Engle is not alone in the search for a punter—a Ted Kemmerer. Williamson is scrutinizing his talented booters who can kick the pigskin far and true. In this case, the Badgers' coach is looking for another George O'Brien.

Like Engle who didn't find Kemmerer until Penn State had several games under its belt, Williamson tried his luck with O'Brien, a linebacker, against Iowa. Strangely enough, one of his punts sailed 95 yards from the line of scrimmage. It was the first college game in which O'Brien ever punted and the distance is recorded as an American record.

The situation occurred when Wisconsin had the ball on its own 1-yard line when O'Brien kicked. The ball was finally downed on the Iowa 3-yard line.

From that game on, O'Brien did all the kicking chores. In 17 punting endeavors, the linebacker averaged 42.1 yards.

Who will do the punting for both schools in today's game? They not only have one but four. Engle will use Co-captain Tony Rados, Don Eyer, Don Bailey and Buddy Rowell, while Williamson will have Windy Gulseth, Ron Locklin, Roger Dornburg and Bob Gingrass.

Looking at the collegiate football rosters, we see that most coaches are in the same predicament. Purdue and Dartmouth coaches are in need of kickers so badly that they are checking all barefoot boys.

The Big Ten may see Edwin (Bino) Neves, a 5 feet, 5 inch, sophomore Purdue quarterback from Honolulu punting barefooted. Thus far he has been both entertaining and startling his teammates and sideline spectators with his ability.

The Big Green of Dartmouth will have a punter who kicks in his stocking feet. He is Bill Beagle of Danville, a sophomore quarterback.

Beagle has been so impressive that he has received coach Tuss McLaughry's permission to take off his shoe when he kicks. In fact, Dartmouth has gone as far as to provide him with a zippered shoe to make things quicker.

Beagle was converted to the unorthodox style when he proved he got from 60 to 70 yards when booting without the shoe. He only gets 50 yards when dressed orthodox style.

Out On a Limb

Before heading for the hinterlands of Wisconsin, the talented Penn State coaching fraternity ventured their opinions as to the outcome of the day's top grid games.

This is in keeping with the tradition of past years in which coaches have matched with members of the Collegian sports staff in predicting the winners of each Saturday's collegiate games. This year Head Coach Rip Engle, Tor Torettil, Jim O'Hara, Joe Paterno, Al Michaels and Earl Bruce will compete against Sports Editor Sam Procopio, Assistant Sports Editor Dick McDowell and Herm Weiskopf. Engle took the lead-off position for the coaches this week.

The crystal ballers have their work cut out for them this week with an unusually large number of topflight games for so early in the season. The "game of the day" in which Notre Dame meets Oklahoma particularly has caused a difference of opinion. Writers McDowell and Weiskopf favor the Sooners, while editor Procopio and Engle are stringing along with the Irish.
