

Blood Pledging Deadline Extended Until Tuesday

Deadline for turning in pledge cards and minor release forms for the Oct. 13-15 campus blood drive has been extended until Tuesday, Marie Wagner, student Red Cross committee chairman, has announced.

Cards must be turned in to 112 Old Main by Thursday to allow for scheduling, Miss Wagner said. Donors will be informed of appointments by mail.

Forms are available at the Student Union desk in Old Main and in the lobby of the West Dorm lounge.

The Johnstown Red Cross Bloodmobile, which will set up facilities in Temporary Union Building, will be prepared to handle 500 donations.

Students between the ages of 18 and 21 are required to have release forms signed by parents. When filling out pledge cards, students should list at least two times when they will be able to donate. This is necessary to prevent scheduling too many donors for the same time.

Donors receive an examination before giving blood and are given refreshments following the donation. The entire process takes approximately one hour for each donor, but a two hour period should be scheduled.

Students will not be excused from classes the day they donate blood.

Women wishing to work at the canteen serving refreshments, or as hostesses greeting donors, may sign up with Betty Buchanan in 231 McElwain.

Donors are asked not to sign for the morning of Oct. 14 because the TUB has been reserved by another group.

Blood may be given from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 13 and 15 and from 1 to 5 p.m. Oct. 14.

Anderson Gets Zoology Post

Dr. Bertil G. Anderson, former professor of botany at West Virginia University, has been named head of the Department of Zoology and Entomology.

Dr. Anderson filled the vacancy created by the retirement of Dr. Edward H. Dusham in August, 1951. Dr. Pennoyer F. English, professor of wildlife management, served as acting department head until Anderson's appointment.

After receiving his undergraduate degree from Augustana College and Theological Seminary, Rock Island, Ill., Anderson did graduate work at the State University of Iowa. He served on the West Virginia faculty since 1942.

O. Edward Pollack
Assistant to Dean of Men

Simes Lists Duties of New Dean

Social event chaperones, finances, and rushing practices will be among the problems considered by O. Edward Pollack, new assistant dean of men in charge of fraternity affairs, according to Frank J. Simes, dean of men.

Pollack, in line with recent changes in the Dean of Men's offices, will act as the major liaison between Interfraternity Council, individual fraternities, and the Dean of Men's office, Simes said.

Pollack came to the College from Ohio State University where he served as assistant dean of men. He completed his undergraduate work at the University of Virginia, received his MA degree in industrial relations at Ohio State, and is working for his doctorate in advanced education at the College.

Forms Available For Scholarships

A scholarship and loan information center has been established in the Executive Accountant's office, 110 Old Main. Applications are now available for students desiring scholarships.

The chairman suggests students take the application forms home at Thanksgiving to talk over the financial statement with their parents, and to obtain parents' signatures required on the form. Applications must be returned by Dec. 1.

Hort Woods Hop

Ag Student Council To Sponsor Mixer

New students in the School of Agriculture will be greeted and feted at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Hort Woods at Agricultural Student Council's "Howdy Night," faculty-upperclassman-freshman mixer.

President Milton S. Eisenhower, Pearl O. Weston, dean of women; Frank J. Simes, dean of men; Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the Agriculture school; Associate-dean Russell B. Dickerson, and Thomas Inter, president of Ag Council, will be on hand to welcome the more than 1000 students expected to attend.

Freshmen must wear customs to the event, but the rule specifying no conversations between male and female frosh has been dropped for the mixer.

Glenn Wiggins, eighth semester forestry major, will serve as emcee.

Hummel Fishburn, professor of music and music education, and Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, are expected to be on hand to lead group singing.

Hot dogs, coffee and cider will be served.

Ag Council is sponsor of the program, first Ag Hill activity of the year.

Temple Reynolds is chairman for the event. Committee chairmen are Clark Sell, fogd; David Leatham, program; Charles Emig, arrangements; and Robert Dahle, publicity.

David Worley, assistant professor of forestry, is faculty adviser for the program.

In case of rain, the program will be held in the Stock Pavilion.

Tribunal Fines 19 Violators $1

Nineteen students were found guilty of first offense traffic violations and were fined one dollar by Tribunal at its meeting last night.

The majority of those fined were found guilty of either parking in an area not designated to them or for driving on campus during class hours.

Twenty-six students were scheduled to appear before the Tribunal last night. Besides the 19 fined, three others received warnings, one received a suspended fine, and five failed to appear.

Thomas Farrell, chairman of Tribunal, warns students that a strict traffic policy will be maintained. He added that students should not drive on Pollock Road between 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday or before noon Saturday, or park in any area other than the one to which they have been assigned.

Debate Squad Sets Meeting With Frosh

First semester freshman women interested in joining the women's debate squad will meet at 7 o'clock in 2 Sparks.

Clayton F. Schug, coach, will explain the workings of the squad and will present an outline on the national debate topic for the year, Resolved: That the United States Federal government should adopt a policy of free trade.

Freshmen can join the squad by signing up, with no previous experience necessary. No tryouts are held for freshmen women. The first regular meeting of the freshmen will be Wednesday.

All upperclasswomen interested in debate will report at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 2 Sparks to have the tryout procedure explained to them. Tryouts, during which candidates will give five minute speeches, will be held Oct. 8.

Men Debaters Meet Tonight

Undergraduate men interested in joining the men's debate squad will have a preliminary meeting at 7 tonight in 316 Sparks, Thomas Farrell, men's debate manager, has announced.

Both freshmen and upperclassmen are eligible to try out for the squad. No previous experience is necessary.

During tryouts next week, candidates must deliver a five-minute speech on either side of the national debate topic, Resolved: That the United States Federal government should adopt a policy of free trade.

College credit is given for debate, according to Joseph F. O'Brien, men's debate coach.

Orientation Report Deadline Is Friday

A report of the work of Orientation Week counselors is due in the Dean of Men's office by Friday afternoon, Michael Jordan, head of the counseling program, has announced.

The report should review the activities of the two meetings and give suggestions to improve next year's program, Jordan said. He added that the reports must be in before subsistence will be paid to the counselors.

Henderson to Open Laundry Conference

Dr. Grace Henderson, dean of the School of Home Economics, today will welcome laundry managers from 59 state-owned institutions at the opening of the 16th annual laundry conference at the College.

SS Test Forms Now Available

Students who wish to take the Selective Service Qualification test Nov. 19 should apply immediately, the Dean of Men's office has announced. Applications are available in 109 Old Main.

Applications must be post-marked no later than midnight Nov. 2. To be eligible to take the test, an applicant must be a selective service registrant who intends to request occupational deferment as a student, and must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course leading to a degree. The applicant must not have taken the test previously.

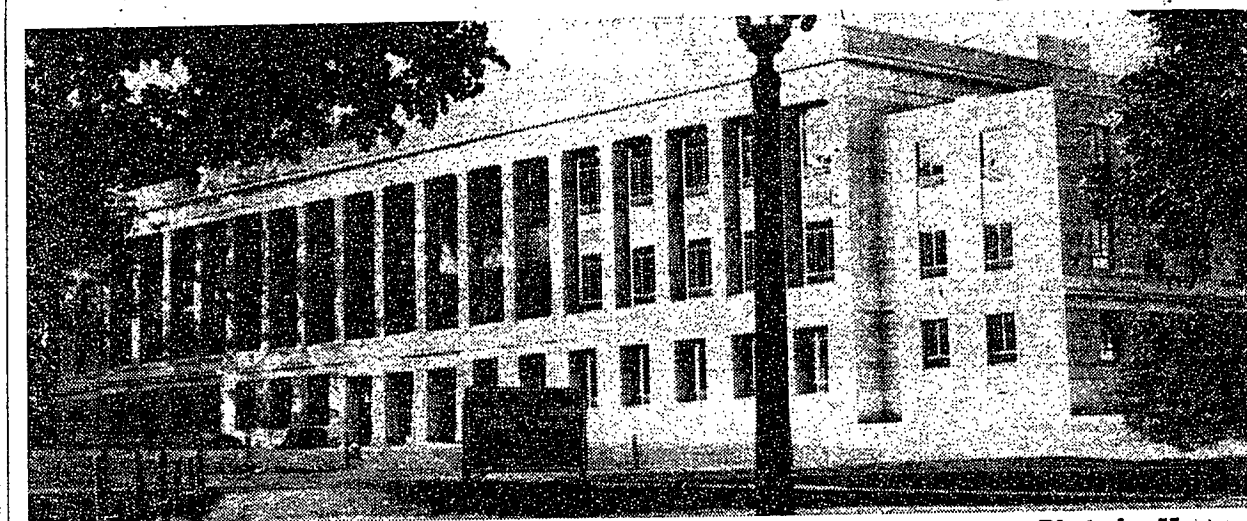

Men enrolled in the Reserve Officer's Training program are advised to take the test, as ROTC membership does not necessarily guarantee deferment, according to the Dean of Men's office.

The new chemistry building east of Pond Laboratory is nearing completion and has been named Whitmore Laboratory, honoring the late Dean Frank C. Whitmore.

An official dedication for the laboratory has not yet been set, according to Walter C. Wiegand, director of the College Physical Plant.

The laboratory has already undergone its first pre-final check on examination by the General State Authority inspectors and will be opened as soon as the final okay is received. The laboratory, when completed, will provide laboratory and classroom facilities for 360 undergraduate students per week. The building is 100 feet by 220 feet.

Dean Whitmore was appointed dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics in 1929 and served until his death in June, 1947. Previous to his appointment, he headed the Department of Chemistry at Northwestern University.

Dean Whitmore completed his undergraduate and graduate study at Harvard University and taught at Williams College, Rice Institute, and the University of Minnesota.

In 1945 Dean Whitmore was awarded the Willard Gibbs medal, the highest chemical honor in the country. He received the William N. Nichols medal for outstanding chemical research in 1938.

Dean Whitmore was one of 29 American scientists named to the National Academy of Sciences, and in 1938 he served as president of the American Chemical Society.
