Freshman Council will have as its members presidents and vice presidents of freshman living units. Sophomore senator will preside over the council.

Point System

Anna Mae Webb was named chairman of the All-College Sing being planned for the second year by WSGA. Polly Moore was named WSGA elections chairman with Charlotte Klippel and Jane Curran as assistants. Iris Rodgin will be chairman of a committee to investigate the possibility of holding a marriage conference at the College.

A motion was approved that a committee be named to investigate the pros and cons of the point system discussed at the WSGA retreat last spring. Nancy D. White, WSDA president, said he has received 19 replies to the 98 letters she sent to other colleges concerning the point system.

Of these, she said five reported they have successful point systems now in effect, four have abandoned unsuccessful attempts, and ten have never employed a point system for women's activities.

Counselees Invited

In essence, the point system would attach a point value to each woman's activity and limit the number of activity points a coed could accumulate during her college career. The purpose of the system would be to distribute activity leadership more evenly among women. If approved, the system would go into effect several years from now.

It was suggested freshman counselees bring counselees to Senate meetings. The plan is still under discussion. A mass Senate meeting similar to one conducted last year by All-College Cabinet was also suggested.

Miss White announced freshman women can obtain application forms for WSGA freshman senator at the Dean of Women's office.

PSCA to Inaugurate 3 Lecture Series

Penn State Christian Association will inaugurate a series of three weekly non-credit courses in religion when Rabbi Benjamin Kahn, director of the Hillel Foundation, lectures on "What the Jews Believe" at 4 p.m. Monday in 304 Old Main.

The hour classes will be held weekly throughout the semester and will be conducted by Rabbi Kahn, the Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, College chaplain, and Mary Jane Wyland of the Christian Association.

The lecture discussions on aspects of the Jewish religion, such as the idea of God, torah, Messiah, holidays and ceremonies and their origins and developments in Biblical times will be discussed in the course. Rabbi Kahn will also relate their influence on Christianity and areas of similarity and differences between the religions.

Harshbarger will open his classes on "An Introduction to the New Testament" at 4 p.m. Tuesday in 304 Old Main. A study of the New Testament's influence upon the world, an examination of the four gospels, letters of Paul, the early Church, and language, text and Canon will be included in the lecture-discussions.

Miss Wyland will coordinate the third non-credit course on "The Student and Religious Education." The class is designed to prepare the student for church school teaching. It will present a view of new curricula, methods, literature, films and other materials in use in the modern Sunday School. Also included in the weekly Thursday afternoon class will be discussions on "What to Teach and How to Teach It."

Students interested in enrolling in the free, non-credit courses may sign up now in 304 Old Main. No prerequisites, grades or finals will be included in the classes.

Sororities Hold Formal Coffee Hours Tonight

Women's dormitories will be scenes of seemingly pre-big-dance activity tonight as sorority women and rushees don formal wear for coffee hours—the final phase of rushing before bids are distributed.

Sorority sisters will call for rushees and escort them to the coffee hours which, for the most part, will be held at the homes of town alumnae.

Each sorority may hold two coffee hours—the first from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and the second from 8:30 to 10 p.m. Rushees will pick up invitations this morning at the Panhellenic post office in Atherton Hall.

They will write a formal reply to each invitation, accepting two, and delivered them to the post office by 1 p.m.

Rushees may sign preferential cards tonight when they return to dormitories or tomorrow morning in the Dean of Women's office. Bids will be distributed late tomorrow afternoon and ribboning will take place at 7 p.m. tomorrow night.
