

4 Eng Faculty Changes Listed

Four faculty changes in the School of Engineering have been announced by President Milton S. Eisenhower.

Dr. Joseph Marin, former professor of engineering mechanics, has been appointed department head. Marin, who spent last year studying and teaching at the Norwegian Institute of Technology on a Fulbright scholarship, has been on the College faculty since 1942.

After serving as instructor in civil engineering at Rutgers University from 1930 to 1934, he was promoted to assistant professor of engineering materials, a position he held five years. During the two years preceding his coming to the College, he was associate professor of civil engineering at Illinois Institute of Technology.

Has Done Research Work
Marin is replacing Dr. John A. Sauer, who has been named head of the Department of Physics in the School of Chemistry and Physics. He has done research work for Westinghouse Electric; National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, Wright Field; and the Office of Naval Research. He also has been a consultant for Curtiss-Wright and other companies.

He has earned degrees from the University of British Columbia and the University of Michigan, and did graduate work at the University of Illinois. A member of the Society for Experimental Stress Analysis, American Society for Engineering Education, American Society of Mechanical Engineering, American Society for Testing Materials, and the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences. Dr. Marin is also a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi and Chi Epsilon. He has written more than 40 papers and several books, including "Working Stresses" and "Mechanical Properties of Materials and Design."

Other Appointments

Arthur T. Thompson, former associate professor of engineering research at the College, has been named assistant director in charge of operations, Ordnance Research Laboratory.

Also announced were the appointments of Dr. William E. Ranz, who studied fluid dynamics last year at Cambridge University under the National Science Foundation, and William H. Washington Jr., research engineer from Georgia Institute of Technology, as associate professors of engineering research.

Thompson has been on the College faculty since 1946, when he accepted a research assistantship. He became an assistant professor in 1947 and an associate professor in 1950. He was in the service from 1942 to 1945.

Was Assistant Professor

He holds a B.A. degree from Colby College, B.S. and M.S. degrees from the College, and a M.S. degree from Harvard University. He has done graduate work at Syracuse University.

Ranz was assistant professor of engineering research at the University of Illinois before he went abroad to study. He was a research associate at Illinois until September, 1951.

After graduating with a degree in chemical engineering from the University of Cincinnati in 1947, Ranz completed work for his master's degree and Ph.D. in chemical engineering at the University of Wisconsin.

Was Plant Engineer

Washington, who has been a research engineer at Georgia Tech since 1952, formerly worked as a plant engineer in the lumite division of the Chicopee Manufacturing Corp., Cornelia, Ga.

In 1946 he was a student assistant engineer on the Deering-Miliken Research Trust. He holds bachelor's degrees from Clemson Agricultural and Mechanical College in mechanical and electrical engineering and a master's in industrial management from Georgia Tech.

Student Placed On Probation

The fourth student who attempted to register out of sequence during the registration period was placed under office probation of the Dean of Men's office, Frank J. Simes, dean of men, reported.

The student forged a note admitting him to Recreation Hall, Simes said. Office probation is a warning that any further difficulty regarding the student on

Institutional Engineers Open Conference Today

The annual conference for Institutional Engineers opens today at the College and will continue through Friday.

William L. Muschlitz, assistant engineer in charge of power plant service, explained the attendance, predicted to exceed 100 persons, will include maintenance and construction engineers and building and ground superintendents from more than 60 state institutions.

probation would result in a more serious disciplinary action.

The first three cases also resulted in office probation.

Registration Opens For Night Classes

Registration for evening business classes will continue from 7 to 9 p.m. today and tomorrow in 8 Sparks.

The non-credit courses include shorthand, typing, elementary accounting and speech.

Classes meeting Tuesday and Friday nights will start Tuesday. Miss Mary Stella, instructor in business education, will teach shorthand and typing; John P. Deveraux, assistant professor of accounting, accounting; and Edward J. Lennon Jr., instructor in speech, speech.

Cleaning Agency Opens Tomorrow

Student Dry Cleaning Agency will open units tomorrow in women's dormitories, Hamilton Hall and Pollock Union Building.

The student-operated agency allows students to leave and pick-up laundry at units near their dormitories.

Students may designate their choice of six cooperating dry cleaning enterprises and two laundries.

The agency will operate 7:30 to 8:15 a.m., noon to 1 p.m., and 4 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday; 10:30 a.m. to noon and 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, and 5:30 to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Co-managers are E. Nicholas Baldwin and J. Brooke Althouse.

The second week of customs got off to a slow start Monday as frosh traveled the campus seemingly unnoticed by upperclassmen.

Compared to last week's fre-quest singing and cheering along the Mall and in front of the Carnegie bulletin board, the campus yesterday was quiet.

The second joint customs day yesterday lacked the enthusiasm shown by both frosh and upperclassmen on the first joint customs day enforcement on Thursday.

"Not only yesterday's enforcement, but customs in general is slackening," Miss Shusman said. She said customs board would like to see student spirit revived.
