FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 54, No. 11

STATE COLLEGE, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 1, 1953

FIVE CENTS

Senate Group Airs Drinking

Baseball, TV Style

THE INITIAL contest between the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers in 1953 World Series play captured the attention of these students in the West Dorm lounge yesterday. The Bronx Bombers took the measure of their cross-town foes, 9-5.

Yanks Win Opener, Blast Dodgers, 9-5

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—The proud New York Yankees battered Brooklyn's ace 20-game winner and three relief pitchers to beat the power-happy Dodgers at their own game, 9-5, in the opening game of their bid for a record fifth straight world baseball championship.

Johnny Sain, a National League star with Boston in the '48 series, choked off the Brooks after Allie Reynolds crumpled under a blistering early pace.

Think It's Warm? It Isn't Unusual Says Weatherman

Contrary to the opinions of many sweltering students, yesterday's heat wasn't unusual for the area at this time of the year.

Today's forecast is fair and not so hot even though the temperature is expected to reach 88 degrees. September and October are the months when Centre County usually enjoys its finest weather, the Meteorology department reported yesterday.

Increasing cloudiness and possible scattered showers is the tentative weather report for Saturday.

Business School Petitions Available

Petitioning for nominations for the School of Business Student Council will continue today and tomorrow in 106 Sparks.

Freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors enrolled in the school may petition for seats on the council. Upperclassmen must have a 1.2 All-College average.

Elections will be held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Women's Debate Squad Issues Candidate Call

Upperclasswomen interested in trying out for the women's debate team will meet at 7 tonight in 2 Sparks.

Clayton F. Schug, debate coach, will outline the debate topic for the year and explain tryout procedure. Candidates will be required to give a five-minute trial speech Oct. 7.

Brunner Charges Social Groups With Violations of Regulations

The drinking situation and compliance with drinking regulations by College social organizations were discussed yesterday as part of a consideration of student problems by the Senate committee on student affairs.

Dr. Henry S. Brunner, professor of agricultural education and chairman of the committee, said much of the problem arose from the fact that College social groups were not observing rule W-D of the Regulations for Undergraduates. He said he feels the Interfraternity Council has not fulfilled its responsibility in enforcing the rule.

Fraternity Completes Projects

Seven Lambda Chi Alpha pledges last night painted the State College welfare offices, 330 W. Beaver avenue, in the second fraternity-community project of the semester.

The offices will be shared by the Red Cross, Cancer Society, Community Nursing Service and other State College welfare agencies.

Last Saturday 13 pledges from Sigma Nu painted rooms in the men's living units at the Centre County Home in Bellefonte.

Arrangements for these projects were made by the State College Chamber of Commerce, coordinating body for the fraternity-community projects; and the public relations committee of Interfraternity Council headed by John Flanagan of Sigma Chi.

Community projects among fraternities reach a climax each year during Greek Week.

Last semester 15 large scale community projects were completed during Greek Week by Penn State fraternities and sororities. The projects included everything from cleaning State College playgrounds to cutting wood at the Tussey Ridge girl scout camp.

Asphalt Sidewalks Replace Dirt Paths

Over 1400 feet of new sidewalks have replaced the sometimes dusty, sometimes muddy paths between Home Economics South and College avenue, and Willard Hall and the Mall.

The asphalt-type sidewalks were completed in July. The walks, about 700 feet in length and seven feet wide, replace the old paths worn by students between campus and the borough.

Regulation W-4 reads: "Alcoholic beverages shall not be served at any social function in which minors or women students are participating. If a violation of this rule is reported the organization concerned shall be notified immediately by the chairman of the Senate committee on student welfare that its social privileges will be suspended until the case can be heard by the committee and proper action taken."

The meeting, Brunner said, was nothing more than an informal discussion of the situation and no action is planned as a direct result of the meeting.

Thomas Schott, Interfraternity Council president, attended the meeting as a representative of fraternity men. He explained the current situation in fraternities and the present method of policing social affairs.

College Feels Pressure

All-College President Richard Lemyre, a member of the student affairs committee, said the committee thought more restrictions were needed. The problems, he said, were how to go about it and how far to go.

Lemyre said the College has felt pressure from many quarters and named in particular alumni, townspeople, and students and faculty and administration members who frown on the use of alcoholic beverages.

A spokesman for the committee said there were three possible measures discussed at the meeting. The one extreme would be completely eliminating drinking from social functions and the other would be continuing under the present rules with more rigid enforcement and stronger penalties, he said.

State Could Prosecute

The middle-of-the-road policy suggested would be strict enforcement of the state law. This would prohibit anyone under 21 years of age from being served alcoholic beverages at social functions.

Lemyre said the state could prosecute groups serving alcoholic beverages in violation of state laws. This would result in fines and possible jail sentences.

Ag Students' Howdy Night Set Tonight

Over 1000 Agriculture students and faculty members—newcomers and oldtimers—are expected to attend the "Howdy Night" program at 7 tonight in Hort Woods.

On hand to welcome them will be President Milton S. Eisenhower, Thomas Inter, president of Agricultural Student Council; Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the Agriculture school; Associate Dean Russell B. Dickerson; Dean of Men Frank J. Simes, and Pearl O. Weston, dean of women.

Approximately 2000 hot dogs, 70 gallons of cider, and 40 gallons of coffee will be served.

The customs regulation specifying no conversations between freshmen men and women has been lifted for the event. Fresh must wear dress customs, however.

Glenn Wiggins, eighth semester forestry major, will serve as master of ceremonies.

In case of rain, the program will be held in the Stock Pavilion.

Chairman is Temple Reynolds. Committee chairmen are Clark Sell, food; Robert Dahle, publicity; Charles Emig, arrangements, and David Leathem, program.

Assistant Professor of Forestry David Worley is serving as faculty adviser for the event.

Agricultural Council is sponsoring the mixer, first Ag Hill activity of the year.

Situation Eases In Infirmary

Over-crowded conditions at the Infirmary are easing and fewer cases are expected in the near future according to Dr. Herbert Glenn, director of the College Health Service.

Last week's rise in cases was not due to any one particular illness but a variety of ailments from colds to broken bones.

Each year about two weeks after registration there is an increase in patients, Dr. Glenn explained.

Dorm Rioters Held for Discipline

Two students were apprehended last night while attempting to instigate a demonstration in the West Dorm courtyard and will be subject to disciplinary action.

Dean of Men Frank J. Simes said the men were caught urging West Dorm residents out for a demonstration. There were very few out, he said, but added that many were in their windows and some were setting off fire-crackers.

Four students were apprehended during Monday night's rally and have been turned over to Tribunal for disciplining, he said.

Cabinet to Discuss Proposed Holiday

A proposed recommendation for a one-day holiday for the 1954 Spring Week carnival and encampment resolutions of the All-College elections committee will be major issues at tonight's All-College Cabinet meeting.

The possible discontinuance of the football flashcard section will also be discussed, and the National Student Association will be further explained to Cabinet.

George Richards, Spring Week chairman, said he will ask cabinet to approve a recommendation to the Senate committee on calendar that May 12 be declared a student holiday.

In planning the carnival for the afternoon and evening of one day, Richards said he believed the strain on students encountered in last spring's two-day carnival would be lessened and the difficulty of keeping booths set up overnight will be eliminated.

Richards will also present the financial report for the 1953 Spring Week.

Encampment resolutions providing for registration for political party clique membership and allowing campaigning on campus will be presented by Edwin Kohn, elections committee chairman.

The resolutions would go into effect Nov. 12 for freshmen and sophomore class elections, Kohn said. Voting machines will not be used in the fall elections, but centralized voting will be continued.

Cabinet will consider a proposal by Head Cheerleader Bruce Wagner to discontinue the flashcard plan, because it has been deemed unfeasible, All-College President Richard Lemyre said.

Edward Haag, in his report on N.S.A., will give job descriptions for leading personnel in the organization and explain the tie-in between cabinet and N.S.A.

John Garber will report on Memorial Day, and a Junior Class Week progress report by Joseph Barnett will be heard.

The constitutional amendment for the establishment of a student traffic court will be read for the second time. The proposal will be voted upon next Thursday.

If it is possible to have the procedure for the reorganization of Cabinet Projects Council approved, a committee will be appointed to draw up a new constitution for the organization, Lemyre said.

A chairman for the student leadership committee under cabinet will be appointed.
