IFC Probes Drinking Problem

Thomas Schott, Interfraternity Council president, said yesterday IFC is making a thorough study of the drinking problem at the College and will present its findings at Wednesday's meeting of the Senate committee on student affairs.

Schott reported he and William Johnson, head of the IFC Board of Control, have met with Dean of Men Frank J. Simes and his staff in an attempt to find a solution to the problem. The board of control enforces social regulations among fraternities.

The action stemmed from Wednesday's meeting of the student affairs committee where dissatisfaction with social conditions of campus organizations was voiced. The committee specifically charged social groups with failure to observe and enforce rule W-4 of the Regulations for Undergraduates.

Schott, in elaborating on the rule, said it includes all students and makes no exception if they are over the legal age of 21 as allowed by state law. If the rule is violated, the case is heard by the student affairs committee, he said.

Since the discussion of the problem has been begun by the committee, campus opinions have tended to favor a revision of rule W-4. Feelings are that if the rule is not being observed and can not be enforced, it should be abandoned or changed.

Many people, including All-College President Richard Lemyre, favor altering W-4 to make it similar to the state law regulating serving of alcoholic beverages in bars. This would allow anyone over 21 years of age to be served.

Lemyre said he thought total prohibition would only result in illegal operations and work no better than it did on a national scale. He said it could cause resumption of the dangerous drive to Bellefonte for alcoholic beverages.

First Independent Today

The first issue of the Independent newsletter will be available today in campus dormitory halls and downtown diners, according to Charles Mathias, editor.

The Independent, a bimonthly publication, is sponsored by Leonides, independent women's organization, and the Association of Independent Men.

Mantle's Hit Gives New York 2nd Win

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' 21-year-old glamor boy, powered a 375-foot home run with Hank Bauer on base in the eighth inning today for a second straight Yankee victory over Brooklyn, 4-2, before 66,786 World Series fans.

Mantle's blast, soaring through the warm sunshine far over Jackie Robinson's head into the left-field stands, broke open a brilliant pitching battle between lefthanders Eddie Lopat of the Yanks and Preacher Roe, scrawny Dodger veteran.

Outhit by the Dodgers, 9 to 5, the rallying Yanks tied the score on Billy Martin's homer in the seventh. Then Mantle's blast, following a single by Bauer, brought the Preach crashing down to his first series defeat.

Cox Gets Double
Roe, mixing his slow breaking stuff with an occasional fast ball, had a two-hitter for the first six innings. One of the hits, a second-inning double by Phil Rizzuto; most was caught by Carl Furillo. The other was a bloop single by Martin in the fourth.

Rolling along with a 2-1 lead, built by Billy Cox's double that chased home Gil Hodges and Furillo in the fourth, Roe appeared to be in complete control.

Martin led off the seventh with

Let There Be Pep . . .

Robert Carruthers (left) and Gerald Maurey go over the ten commandments for students attending the Penn Game tomorrow in Philadelphia. The pair served as masters of ceremony in a pre-game rally last night in front of Old Main. Football co-captains, Tony Rados and Don Malinak spoke to the huge throng which attended.

1500 Students Sing, Cheer at Pep Rally

By DICK McDOWELL

An estimated 1500 students gathered in front of Old Main last night in a pre-game pep rally. Following quips by masters of ceremony Gerald Maurey and Robert Carruthers, cheerleaders and members of the Penn State Blue Band led the responsive group through 15 minutes of songs and cheers.

Football co-captains Tony Rados and Don Malinak briefly addressed the group. Rados assured the fans that the Lions would be trying their hardest against Penn.

Honor Line at Penn

Hatmen attending the Penn-Penn State game will meet at 1:45 p.m. tomorrow in front of the stands in Franklin Field to form an honor line for the team.

Tribunal Will Try Two Demonstrators

Two students apprehended Wednesday night while attempting to start a demonstration in the West Dorm courtyard will appear Tuesday before Tribunal. Dean of Men Frank J. Simes reported the men were part of a small group of demonstrators, some of whom were setting off firecrackers.

"I know we let you down last week," he said. "We made a lot of mistakes and you can't make mistakes and win. I honestly believe that we will make you proud of us."

Following Rados, Malinak also seemed confident that the team would win in Philadelphia. "As Tony has already said," he told fans, "we let you down last week. This Saturday it will be just as always at Philadelphia."

The rally was climaxed with the singing of the alma mater.

Before the rally started hatmen in automobiles toured the borough and campus gathering students along the way. An automobile caravan formed and arrived at Old Main with students piled on the fenders and trailing behind on foot.

The team leaves by train for Philadelphia tonight. A second rally will be held at 9:15 tonight in front of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia.

50,000 Will Watch State Play Penn

Approximately 50,000, including 12,000 Penn Staters—students, alumni, and faculty members—are expected to be on hand at Franklin Field tomorrow to watch the Blue and White tackle the University of Pennsylvania Quakers.

Tonight, pre-game spirit will make itself felt—and heard—at two pep rallies in Philadelphia.

The weather is expected to cooperate. A fair and warm weekend was predicted yesterday.

Station WMAJ will carry a play-by-play account of the battle, starting at 1:45 p.m. tomorrow. Game time is 2 p.m.

Blue Key, junior men's hat society, will sponsor a pep rally at 9:15 tonight in front of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. The Blue Band and cheerleaders will be present.

A rally and a smoker will be held at 8 tonight in the Empire Room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The Penn State Club of Philadelphia will sponsor the event. No admission will be charged for the smoker.

Election Code Approved; Freshmen, Sophs to Vote Nov. 12 for Class Heads

By PHIL AUSTIN

Election of sophomore and freshman class officers will be held Nov. 12, All-College Cabinet voted last night.

Cabinet approved the fall semester election code, presented by Edwin Kohn, elections committee chairman.

The code, which includes outgrowths of the campus politics workshop at the Student Encampment at Mont Alto, calls for registration of clique members between Oct. 26 and 30, election of candidates from cliques at a clique meeting Nov. 1, and campaigning between 12:01 a.m. Nov. 5 and 8:30 a.m. Nov. 12. The election will be held in the second floor lounge from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. in Old Main.

According to the adopted election code, sophomore candidates must have a 1.0 All-College average. Candidates must be in their first or second semesters.

Present Matric Cards
Official college registration cards will be used for voting registration. All first, second, third and fourth semester students will be eligible to vote if they have met requirements established by cabinet. In special cases the election committee has denied certain students the right to vote because of student law or College regulation infractions.

Students must present matriculation cards at the polls before casting ballots. Any student caught voting more than once or voting for another person will be subject to severe disciplinary action by Tribunal.

An amount not exceeding $150 may be spent by each clique for publicity purposes, the code states. The fund designated for publicity purposes shall be collected by the clique and will not be allocated from any College fund. Publicity materials must be cleared from town and campus in a satisfactory manner by the time the polls close election day. Failure to do this will be considered a violation of the code.

Campaign Locations Listed
No limit was placed on the amount of political contributions, Kohn said. Previously a limit of $150 had been set by the elections code.

The code listed places in town and on the campus where campaigning could be held. In the borough, one poster may be permitted by each clique inside a store window and painted window.

Community Forum Season Ticket Sale to Begin

Approximately 1230 season tickets for the 1953-54 Community Forum series will go on sale Monday at the Student Union desk in Old Main and at Griggs Pharmacy, 120 E. College avenue, Dr. Gerald Stein, chairman of the ticket committee, has announced. Tickets will sell for $4.80, tax included.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former commander of the Eighth Army and UN field forces in Korea, has been selected first speaker and will appear in Schwab Auditorium Oct. 14.

Charles Laughton, English born actor and dramatist; Irwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor; and Chester Bowles, former ambassador to India, complete the forum lineup for this season. Laughton will be presented Nov. 19 by Paul Gregory and Canham has been scheduled for Feb. 11. The date for Bowles' appearance has not been set.

General Van Fleet's military record is one of great variety. A West Point graduate, he served with distinction during both World Wars, and gained fame as head of the U.S. Military Mission to Greece in 1948, when he was instrumental in turning back the Communist guerillas in that country.

All Sports Issue

Tomorrow's issue of the Daily Collegian will be a four-page sports edition.

Saturday Classes To Increase in '54

Under the revised class schedule plan, about one third of all three-credit, three-hour courses will meet on Saturday morning, Ray V. Watkins, College scheduling officer, has announced.

The three-credit, three-hour courses, make up over 75 per cent of the courses given by the College, he said, and prior to spring semester none as regularly given on Saturday morning. The only exceptions were sequences that were cross-scheduled.

Under the present plan in use for three years, Watkins said the only classes regularly set for Saturday mornings were labs and practice periods that ran more than one hour. This was one of the objections to the system—only some had Saturday classes.

Staggered Meetings
Watkins said the new plan has three-credit, three-hour classes in 12 sequences over the five and a half day College working week. The classes fall on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday or Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, he said.

The Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday classes meet in the morning, he said, but the other combination is staggered. Classes meeting on Monday and Friday morning meet on Wednesday afternoon and those on Monday and Friday afternoon on Wednesday morning.

The schedule, as outlined by Watkins, provides for free Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. These hours will absorb classes of more than three hours and several hour laboratory periods, he said.

Reasons for Change
The spring schedule, which Watkins said has already gone to the printers, moves Army ROTC to Thursday at four with Navy ROTC. Air Force ROTC will remain on Tuesday at four.

The reasons for the change, which was ordered by the Council of Administration, were to make more effective use of classroom and laboratory facilities and to provide more free time during the week for meetings of organizations and faculty committees. College sources also feel the
