

Moore on the Move

LENNY MOORE, State's offensive and defensive star, is off on one of his fine runs. Here the speedy halfback gets loose at his own 26-yard line on a twisting run and goes out of bounds at State's 39. He had gone about 15 yards further before he stepped out of bounds.

Favored Penn Nips State, 13-7

Following his beautiful broken-field run, Garrity place-kicked the ball through the uprights for a 7-0 Penn State lead.

Penn's outstanding tailback, Walt Hynoski, used his pitching arm for the Quaker's TD early in the second quarter. He had completed a 28-yard pass to quarterback Ed Sumiak, who was stopped by Rados and Sam Green, when the first quarter ended. On the first play from scrimmage in the second period, halfback Gary Scott, almost hit paydirt on a reverse. He was stopped, however, by Buddy Rowell.

Hynoski on the next play found Scott in the open and completed a pass to the 12 where Scott picked up his blocking and tallied for Penn. The key block was made by Jim Castle who took out Rowell on the five. Bob Lebegood's point after touchdown was good.

State Fumbles
The score remained tied until the final period.
Penn took advantage of State's fumble to score a winning margin. It came when Rados' hand-off to Moore was dropped and was recovered by Carl Sammarco on the Lions' 34-yard line.
Hynoski's pass completion was to no avail when his teammates were called off-side. But then Scott gained six on a reverse from tailback, the play which practically downed Penn State. Hynoski sliced the center of the line for three. A pass to Lavin was good for eight more yards. Joe Cimacosky brought the ball to the 25 yard line.

Rados Passes
Hynoski faded back, but in trying to pass State's giant end, Jesse Arnelle, blocked the ball. But on the next play Scott got behind Younker in the end zone and snatched Hynoski's throw for a touchdown. Lebegood's placement was wide, but Penn led 13-7.
State with its passing ace, Rados, tried desperately to get back into the game, and the opportunity arrived when Garrity took Stan Chaplin's fumble in the air on the goal line and brought it to State's seven. Moore managed to get two yards through the center of the line. A Rados-Don Eyer combination was good for 11. Rados couldn't get a pass away and lost five yards. His next pass was broken up.
On the following play, however, Rados hit Garrity on a screen pass and with some nifty blocking, the end advanced the ball 36 yards. Another Rados to Eyer pass gave State ten yards and a first down. It was here that the game ended.

Earl Sande Races Again, Finishes 3rd
NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—Earl Sande, "The Handy Guy," returned to the saddle for the first time since 1932 today at Belmont Park and finished third aboard Honest Bread as the crowd gave him a tremendous ovation.
The idol of the Roaring Twenties, who has won most of the important stakes races in this country including three Kentucky Derbies, will be 55 years old on Nov. 13.
In riding Honest Bread, Sande showed much of the skill that made him the country's leading jockey during the 1920's and the Belmont crowd of 18,228 cheered him from the time he appeared in the post parade until after he weighed out in the winner's circle.

Future Foe Grid Bits

While the Nittany gridders were being set back by Penn's Quakers over the weekend, 13-7, State's future foes won two, tied three, and lost one.

Their next two opponents, Boston University's Terriers and the Orangemen from Syracuse, battled to a 14-14 deadlock at Braves Field, Boston. The Terriers advanced the pigskin a total of 103 yards in the first half, while holding the Orange to a meager five yards.

It was this strong ground offense and a powerful defensive forward wall that enabled the lads from the Bean City to surprise the East in holding Syracuse to a deadlock. However, it was a severe loss to the Terriers, as their outstanding guard, John Pappas, lost his life only a few hours after the game as a result of a severe brain injury suffered in the skirmish.

Texas Christian, booked as the Lion opponent for State's Homecoming Day, Oct. 24, continued its '53 grid campaign with a loss at the hands of the Arkansas Razorbacks. The count at the final whistle was Arkansas 13, TCU 6.

West Virginia, State's Oct. 31 rival, took the measure of outclassed Waynesburg, 47-19. The Mountaineers, who romped over Pitt's Panthers last week, had little trouble in chalking up their second victory of the still young season.

Fordham's Rams startled many grid fans with a 21-7 nod over Detroit. It was the Ram's mighty air arm that spelled defeat for the lads of the lakeshore city. However, the Maroon will have to concentrate on improving their weak running game if it is to continue in the victory column. Coach Ed Danowski's gridders poached up only 45 markers on the ground, while the Titans gained an impressive 203 yards along the terra firma.

Rutgers opened their pigskin campaign with a win over Virginia Tech, 20-13. The Scarlet-clad Queensmen will no doubt have much more difficulty in playing the role of victors next Saturday when they meet the yet-to-be-defeated Princeton Tigers. The Orange and Black squeaked out a narrow 20-19 margin over Columbia last week-end.

Highly impressive among Saturday's results was the deadlock between Pitt and Oklahoma. The Panther line showed sterling defensive play in limiting the Sooners to only six first downs, all of them coming in the first half. It was a fine comeback for Coach Red Dawson's boys after its loss to West Virginia. In battling the mid-west eleven to the 7-7 stalemate, the Panthers lifted their rating as a powerful Eastern grid combination.

Androcles to Show Penn Game Movies

Movies of the University of Pennsylvania-Penn State football game will be shown at 7:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium. The films, made by Ray Conger, associate professor of physical education, are sponsored by Androcles, junior men's hat society.

Sever Toretti, a member of the football coaching staff, will comment on the films.

LA Grad Students

Graduate students in the Liberal Arts school will meet at 7:30 tonight in 121 Sparks to elect two representatives to the Graduate School Student Council.

Jinx No Longer

Sam's Song

By SAM PROCOPIO
Collegian Sports Editor

"Now we can face the world."

That's how Bob Paul, director of sports information at the University of Pennsylvania, summed up Penn's 13 to 7 win over the Nittany Lions last Saturday.

He can face the world now, but he wasn't sure until the referee stopped the gridiron affair to end the game.

Now, we can go on record as saying Penn State was a sound, impressive team against the Quakers. With no alibis in mind, Coach Rip Engle was running against the law of averages and it can be certain the game was dedicated to George Munger. They wanted to give Munger his first win in his last season as coach. And they did.

For Munger it would have been an honor to have received the football which finally broke a jinx which started as far back as 1937. Instead, Penn's captain George Bosseler and the Penn State co-captains Tony Rados and Don Malinak have agreed to present the football used in Saturday's game to President Dwight D. Eisenhower at his birthday party in Hershey, Pa., Oct. 13.

This will be a gift to the President of the United States from the "leaders of two of the Keystone State's leading colleges."

If we had to pick Penn State's football player of the week, it would be rather difficult.

Lenny Moore once again exhibited excellent play both offensively and defensively. It was interesting to note that on every kick the first man down the field was Moore. On three occasions we remember the Quaker safetyman failed to advance the ball one yard.

Take a look at what Leo Riordan, Inquirer executive sports editor, has to say about the talented halfback.

"In Leonard Moore it (Penn State) has a menace. Somehow Penn's defense contained him as Wisconsin's had the week before (although he returned a punt 65 yards for a TD only to have a penalty cancel it). Moore is overdue and future opponents will get it."

Rados can be congratulated for his fine passing. Although his ten completions in 28 attempts doesn't appear very impressive on paper, it would be worth remembering that several passes should have been caught. And would have made a difference in the ball game too. He also did some good defensive work.

No one can overlook end Jim Garrity. His performance was even better than it was at Wisconsin. He only received four passes for 82 yards. One for a touchdown.

At the fullback slot Bill Straub gained the necessary yardage whenever called upon. In fact, in nine carries he netted 46 yards and was never in the minus department.

Sam Green and Rosy Grier were standouts in the line defensively.

It was a fine showing—a showing of things to come. As Chet Smith, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Press, said: "Fumbles ruin them (Penn State)."

World Series Records Set

It seemed everybody broke some kind of a record. The clubs got 120 hits, a new high, and 17 home runs to erase another old standard.

Brooklyn, which never has won a Series, now has lost seven straight although their Series batting mark of .301 was among the best of all time.

It was the seventh straight American League series victory, making the standings read 33-17 in favor of the American. The National hasn't won since the St. Louis Cards whipped the Boston Red Sox in 1946.

The six-game hit mark broken by Martin was held jointly by Dave Robertson of the 1917 New York Giants and Monte Irvin of the '51 miracle Giants. But the all-time high for any length series is 12, held jointly by Joe Jackson, Buck Herzog, Sam Rice and another fellow named Martin—Pepper Martin.
