Blood Goal Falls Short By 125 Pints

Pledges for the campus blood drive Tuesday through Thursday came within 125 pints of reaching the 500-pint goal set for the drive as of 5 p.m. yesterday, Jack Huber, liaison representative for the State College Red Cross unit, has announced. Pledges now total 375 pints, he said.

The deadline for turning in pledge cards and minor release forms for the drive is Monday, and slips will be accepted on that day only if the donors wish to give blood Thursday. Students who wish to donate Tuesday or Wednesday should hand in slips by noon today at 112 Old Main, Huber said.

Pledge cards and release forms are still available at the Student Union desk in Old Main, the lobby of the West Dorm lounge, and from resident counselors in dormitory areas. Students between the ages of 18 and 21 who wish to give blood must have release forms signed by parents. Donors will be informed of appointments by mail.

A few openings for blood donations are still available for Tuesday and Wednesday, Huber said, although most of the time left free for donors is on Thursday. Students should list at least two times when they will be able to give blood to prevent scheduling too many donors at the same time.

Canteen workers are still needed to work with the Red Cross unit, Huber said.

Business Council To Meet Monday

The School of Business Student Council will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in 107 Willard, Philip Greenberg, president, has announced.

The council will discuss plans for Career Day, Oct. 29, a school mixer, the possibilities of a school newsletter, and the appropriation of council funds.

Dr. Joseph F. Bradley, associate professor of finance, has been named council adviser.

UN Guarantees India Protection From ROKs

PANMUNJOM, Saturday, Oct. 10—The UN Command assured India yesterday that the Allies would quell any attempt by South Korea to fight Indian troops guarding balky prisoners of war in the demilitarized zone.

The UN Command also sought to allay Indian fears of trouble from the prisoners themselves by sending the captives a warning that the Allies would not condone any mass breakouts.

In Washington, the State department said the U.S. government has strongly cautioned South Korea against carrying out threats to attack Indian troops.

"We intend to carry out our responsibilities under the armistice agreement, including maintenance of security in the area," a statement read.

The situation has been tense in the neutral zone where 5000 Indian troops guard 22,500 Chinese

Skyscraper Romance

NANCY MAY and Ken Williams Jr. peer across the New York City skyline from their perch on top of the Empire State Building. They meet there in the Players production of "The Moon Is Blue" which opened last night at Center Stage to a full house.

Audience Delighted By 'Moon Is Blue'

By EDMUND REISS

"The Moon Is Blue" looked out upon a delighted audience last night at Center Stage as Players presented its rendition of F. Hugh Herbert's spicy comedy.

To a full house the actors most charmingly submitted their little bits of witticism, but neither the laugh-provoking lines of Mr. Herbert nor the fine acting of Nancy May was enough to counterbalance the obvious faults of the production.

The most apparent shortcoming of the show was the ignorance of the actors to the words they were to spout forth, but this situation probably will be overcome by more practice with director Robert D. Reifsnider. Perhaps with its next show it might be a good idea for Players to hold a few more rehearsals for it is not yet professional.

May Is Superb

Ken Williams Jr. and Howard Warren both unfortunately display an inability to pick up their cues. This resulted in an immense letdown in mood whenever the two were on stage alone. Happily though, there was always the hope that Nancy May would return from the wings to again put life into the production and save the audience from uncomfortable boredom.

Miss May was superb in her performance as the chaste, candid adventuress who amazes and delights everyone. With a sparkling demonstration of spirit and vitality and by lending some of her vivacity to the other characters, she succeeded in uplifting the whole vein of the play.

The most comfortable moments came when she and Howard Warren appeared alone. Only then did the small talk seem free and easy.

Makeup, Wardrobe No Asset

Although Warren, as the immoral, middle-aged libertine, had several faults, he, nevertheless presented a picture of the utmost amiability, and it is not at all difficult to understand why Miss May says she likes him.

His makeup and wardrobe especially, certainly didn't treat him as being anywhere near middle-age, and his southern accent, although in general handled very well, occasionally drifted into one with a 'Brooklynese' flavor.

As the play progressed in time, so did Warren in character, and it is a shame he has never before appeared with Players. He seems

Complaint Sent to Prexy By Bellevue Manager

A letter from Bennett E. Tousley, vice president and general manager of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia, criticizing the conduct of students in his hotel after the Pennsylvania football game, was released yesterday from the President's office by Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs.

"As far as I am concerned," Tousley stated, "these athletic contests between Pennsylvania and Penn State ought to be canceled if they are going to produce as an aftermath such riotous scenes as were witnessed here last Saturday."

Approximately 1700 students from the College stayed in the Bellevue-Stratford.

Students Suspected of Attack

"The evening was as bad as it was in 1952, with total disregard for hotel property and the safety of the people patronizing the hotel, or for that matter, those on the street," Tousley charged. "Bottles were thrown out the windows into the court, and unfortunately on to Broad street, as well, several of them narrowly missing people. Furniture was thrown out of the windows, many of the rooms were left in a filthy condition, and there was damage to furniture and equipment."

Bell-hop Attacked

Tousley said he was not in a position to say if the attackers of David McKee, 30, Bellevue-Stratford bellhop, were students. "But because of known actions of other Penn State students, naturally it is suspected that those who attacked McKee were from the College," he said.

McKee, whom Tousley described as "one of the nicest boys we have here," was taken to Jefferson Hospital after being attacked early Sunday morning while using a house telephone. Tousley said doctors believe McKee has a ruptured kidney and liver.

The men who attacked McKee were described as about 25 years old. McKee told hotel authorities he could identify his assailants if he saw them again.

Two Clique Officers Elected by State Party

Two all-College clique officers were elected at a State Party organizational meeting Thursday night. John Lyon was chosen vice clique chairman, and Rae Delle Donne was elected party secretary.

A formal clique meeting will be held 7 p.m. tomorrow in 10 Sparks. Freshman and sophomore class clique officers will be elected, and appointments will be made, according to Kenneth White, clique chairman.

LA Lectures Open Tuesday With Euwema

Dr. Ben Euwema, dean of the School of the Liberal Arts, will open the annual LA Lecture series with an address, "The Objectives of the School of the Liberal Arts," at 8 p.m. Tuesday in 121 Sparks.

Euwema has been dean of the LA school since 1946 when he joined the faculty at the College. He had earlier served on the faculty of Michigan State College, Kent State, Westminster College and the University of Chicago.

A graduate of Calvin College, he received his M.A. degree in philosophy and English at the University of Michigan and his Ph.D. in English from the University of Chicago.

The LA dean is author of "The Social and Ethical Theories of George Eliot" and "A Year's Work in Composition."

Euwema was elected head of the Division of Arts and Science of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities at a meeting in Chicago in 1946. He was also named to the executive committee and senate of the association for 1947.

Political Science Prof Will Address ICG

Dr. Ruth Silva, assistant professor of political science, will speak at an Intercollegiate Conference on Government meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Atherton lounge.

Members will discuss democracy in government and the effect of liberalism and conservatism in the political parties of the United States.

Lion Party to Elect

The chairman, vice chairman and secretary of the Lion Party clique will be elected 7 p.m. tomorrow in 121 Sparks. Benjamin Sinclair, temporary clique chairman, has announced.

Dean of Men, DIR Back Tutoring Plan

A tutoring service for freshmen will be established in the Office of the Dean of Men in conjunction with the Division of Intermediate Registration and the dormitory counselors of the College.

The move was announced by the Dean of Men's office in response to what was termed a "tremendous demand" among the students for the establishment of the service.

Students desiring tutors should contact local dormitory counselors who will obtain the counselor through the Dean of Men's office. James Dean, assistant dean of men in charge of independent affairs, heads the service in the office.

The counselors in charge of the program in the dormitory areas include Morrison Brown, whose address is 606 Hamilton Hall in the West Dormitories; Jesse Gordon, Nittany 35-11, in charge of the Nittany area; and Clarence Neth, Pollock 1-1, in charge of the Pollock area.

Freshmen may be referred to the tutoring service by DIR, and be assigned a tutor through this office.

Upperclassmen interested in participating in the program should contact the counselor in charge of the program in his dormitory area. Upperclassmen living in the town area may apply directly through the Dean of Men's office, 109 Old Main.

The tutoring jobs will be paid positions. The rate will vary with the experience of the tutor in his subject. The rates will be set by the counselors in charge of the dormitory areas, in cooperation with Scott Gehman, in charge of the program in DIR.

Graduate students may also apply, and are especially urged to do so, Dean reported. Upperclassmen living in the town area are also especially wanted, he said.

Tutors in every subject are wanted, he said. A good All-College average and competence in the subject are requisites, Dean said, but each applicant will be judged on his personal merits.

Student Directory

The Student Directory will go sale for 50 cents about Nov. 1, Public Information announced yesterday. The directory will include each student's name, home and College addresses, semester, curriculum and telephone number.
