Van Fleet to Speak On Korea, Far East

Editorial on page four
Gen. James Van Fleet, soldier-statesman, will open the 1953-54 Community Forum series tomorrow night with a discussion on Korea and problems of the Far East. Van Fleet will speak at 8 p.m. in Schwab Auditorium.

The former 8th Army commander is expected to air his views on how the United Nations forces could have been victorious in Korea without having to call a truce, Dr. Kent Forster, associate professor of history and chairman of the forum program committee, said.

Dr. Forster said he believes Van Fleet will again criticize the Eisenhower administration for intervening in military affairs in Korea.

A program sponsored by the forum committee to honor Van Fleet will be announced in Schwab following the general's speech. The affair will be open only to those who attend the forum.

Van Fleet will be introduced to the forum audience by Dr. Robert Oliver, head of the department of speech, who has recently replaced President Milton S. Eisenhower as chairman of the American Korean Foundation.

Van Fleet is expected to arrive a few hours prior to his speech. He will stay overnight at the Nittany Lion Inn.

The former 8th Army commander returned to the United States Sept. 15 after making a month's tour of Korea, England, and India.

Tickets for Van Fleet's speech will be available at the Student Union desk in Old Main from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and Wednesday before the speech. The ticket price for the single event is $2. Forum season tickets cost $4.80, including tax.

Other speakers for the season are Charles Laughton, eminent dramatist under the management of Paul Gregory, Nov. 19; Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, Feb. 11; and Chester Bowles, former ambassador to India, at a date to be announced later.

IFC Lawn Display Winners to Get Trophy, Points

The winning fraternity in the Interfraternity Council Homecoming lawn display contest Oct. 23-24 will be awarded a trophy and 15 points towards the outstanding fraternity award, Thomas Schott, IFC president, announced Friday.

The theme of the contest will be "Greeks in the Community." The purpose of the theme is to exemplify the services of the Penn State fraternity system to State College and surrounding communities.

Second place winner will receive 12 points toward the outstanding fraternity trophy and the third place winner will receive ten points. Three fraternities will receive honorable mention awards of eight points.

Schott has announced the following rules for the contest:

1. No displays may cost more than $25.
2. Judging will take place from 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 23.
3. Displays must be kept intact until 6 p.m. Oct. 24.
4. Displays will be judged on the basis of originality, craftsmanship, and adherence to theme.
5. Displays will be disqualified for failure to adhere to contest rules, or at the discretion of judges.

Tito Urgently Asks Power Conference

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 12 (AP)—Yugoslavia called urgently today for direct talks with the United States, Britain and Italy on the Balkan powder-keg issue of Trieste and notified the United Nations a threat to peace exists in that strategic North Adriatic peninsula.

These rapid-fire moves took place in the capital today as angry Belgrade mobs—whipped up by the storm of official Yugoslav protests over the American-British decision to turn their zone of Trieste over to Italy—slugged the director of the U.S. Information Service and burned British library papers and pictures in the street.

MOSCOW, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Soviet Union took a hand in the newest dispute over Trieste tonight, accusing the United States and Britain of committing a "grave violation" of the Italian Peace Treaty by their decision to turn over administration of their Trieste zone of Italy.

President Tito's tough, independent Communist government warned in notes to the three Western states that carrying out the decision to hand U.S.-British-occupied Zone A—including the vital seaport city of Trieste—to the Italians was "likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security."

In Moscow, Russia accused the United States and Britain of a "grave violation" of the Italian Peace Treaty in their decision to turn Zone A over to Italy. The accusation was made in notes delivered to the American and British Embassies. They charged that the United States and Britain had consistently violated arrangements regarding Trieste in the United Nations Security Council.

Tito already has pushed heavy troop reinforcements into Yugoslav Zone B of the free territory and threatened to march them on into Zone A "the moment Italian troops enter."

He said the entry of Italian forces into Trieste was considered by this country as "an act of aggression" which he was prepared to meet with military force.

A Yugoslav note addressed to UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld repeated this stand and asked that the 59 other members of the world organization be notified of the Yugoslav stand on the Trieste issue. The note was a formality through which the Security Council could be called upon to take up the question if it felt international peace was threatened.

Ike to Get Football As Birthday Present

The football used in the Penn State-University of Pennsylvania game will be presented to President Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight in Hershey at his 63rd birthday celebration.

The decision to present the football was made by Penn's Captain George Bosseler and Penn State's Co-captains Tony Rados and Don Malinak before the game Oct. 3.

A committee arranging the celebration will present the gift in the names of the two schools.

The Penn State Marching Blue Band will participate in the celebration at the Hershey Stadium and Arena.

Fred Waring, orchestra leader and trustee of the College, invited the band to participate, Dr. Hummel Fishburn, professor of music and music education, explained. Waring is in charge of the musical program for the celebration.

The Blue Band will form en masse with four other bands to play the "Star Spangled Banner" when the President arrives. Each band will then perform individual routines.

Important events in the President's life will be commemorated by the Blue Band.

Following an outdoor program, the bands will play inside for those attending the $100-a-plate birthday dinner.

Other bands participating are the Archer Eppler Drum Corps of Philadelphia, the Valley Forge Military Academy Band, the William Penn High School band of York, and the Temple University band.

Fred Waring's Orchestra and Glee Club will present a program following the dinner.

As part of the celebration the Eisenhower exchange fellowships will be presented. The fund is to provide 100 fellowships for men and women of all nationalities, so they may try to improve undeveloped fields in their homelands.

Ag LaVie Proofs

Agriculture seniors must return LaVie proofs to the Penn State Photo Shop by Saturday.

Construction Is Planned On Campus

Plans for the construction of a classroom building and wings for the College infirmary are pending approval of the General State Authority, Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, has announced.

The classroom building is to be built on the present site of Maple cottage, between Osmond Laboratory and the infirmary, Kenworthy said. The site of the building was set by the Board of Trustees executive committee.

Two wings are planned for the infirmary and will be built to either side of the present building, he said. He revealed the plans also make provisions for an ambulance and maintenance space for the vehicle.

Complete plans have been prepared and construction is expected to start immediately after GSA approval has been received, he said. Further plans for the buildings can not be revealed until the approval comes from the GSA, he added.

Plans for use of the classroom buildings have not definitely been made, but President Milton S. Eisenhower, in speaking to a faculty meeting yesterday, said it would probably be used by all schools. He did mention the probability, however, of locating some offices of the new School of Business there.

Walter H. Wiegand, director of the College physical plant, said GSA approval should soon be forthcoming. He stated the organization has recently increased its borrowing capacity and should easily be able to finance the projects.

GSA is a corporation set up by the State of Pennsylvania as a borrowing agent.

Nittany Council Prepares Slate

Nittany Council heard nominations for council officers last night at its first meeting of the semester. The nominations for president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, will continue next week.

A request will be made in all the dorms for student tutors for D.I.R. students and those below in their grades, it was announced. Those beyond their first semester and graduate students are eligible to be tutors.

The function of Barons, independent men's social organization in the Nittany-Pollock area, was explained. A meeting for those interested in Barons will be held 7 p.m. Thursday in Dorm 20.

Engineer October Issue

The October issue of the Penn State Engineer, on sale today, opens the thirty-fifth year of the Engineer's publication.

Included in this month's issue are articles on the United States Bureau of Reclamation and manufacture of seamless tubular pipe, as well as regular features and pictures of the Engineer girl-of-the-Month.

Says School Must Meet Obligations

By JACK REID

President Milton S. Eisenhower told faculty members yesterday that student conduct at the University of Pennsylvania-Penn State football game was evidence to some degree that the College was not meeting its educational responsibility.

Speaking on faculty and College affairs before a faculty meeting in Schwab Auditorium yesterday afternoon, Eisenhower stated: "Behavior such as this, while being primarily a reflection on the students themselves and on their pre-college training, is to some degree at least evidence that the Pennsylvania State College is not meeting its educational responsibility in full measure."

"By no means am I suggesting," Eisenhower continued, "that faculty and administration can or should accept responsibility for all the individual and group actions of students, wherever they may be. What I am suggesting," he said, "is that the behavior of any appreciable number of students has a relation to our educational program."

Appeals Before Game

Commenting upon conduct at last year's game, Eisenhower said, "At Pittsburgh and Philadelphia last year, following football victories, a small minority of Penn State students behaved in ways that did not reflect credit on themselves, their families, their fellow students, or on this great institution. There was some disturbance and property damage in the hotels where this minority of students stayed."

Eisenhower then commented on this year's conduct:

"The director of student affairs, the dean of men, the dean of women, and student leaders urged students, prior to the recent game with the University of Pennsylvania, not to engage again in such conduct. Appeals were made through the Collegian and through student organizations."

"But following the game with the University, a minority of students

Lion Party Names Sinclair Chairman

Benjamin Sinclair, fifth semester arts and letters major, was elected clique chairman by the Lion Party as Lion and State Parties held their first clique meetings of the semester Sunday night.

Sinclair was elected over Donald Herbein, seventh semester arts and letters major. Lewis Goslin, seventh semester geochemistry and geophysics major, was elected vice clique chairman and Virginia Moore, seventh semester home economics major, was reelected clique secretary.

Sinclair had served as Lion Party temporary clique chairman, and ran for junior class vice president as the State party candidate last spring.

Seven sophomores were nominated in the Lion Party for steering committee representatives. Five will be elected. Those nominated are Henry Cox, Ann Hosfeld, Rudolph Lutter, Ronald McMillan, Judith Sedor, Ronald Signorino and Harris Sklar.

Theodore Fredrick, Edward Hunt and Burton Jones were nominated for freshman Lion representative posts. Freshman and sophomore clique officers in the State Party were not announced by Kenneth White, clique chairman.

Constitutions of both parties were approved at the clique meetings. After approval, the constitutions were given to Edwin Kohn, chairman of the All-College election committee.

Myron Enelow, seventh semester arts and letters major, was appointed chairman of advisers by White. Mary Lou Morre, fifth semester medical technology major, and James Wolfe, fifth semester business administration major, were appointed to head the State Party platform committee.

Sinclair yesterday named Ellsworth Smith, fifth semester agricultural economics major, financial manager; Jerry Donovan, fifth semester arts and letters major, publicity manager; and Carl Saperstein, third semester arts and letters major, and Ross Clark, fifth semester commerce major, co-campaign managers.

Students wishing to work for the State Party will be given preference in nominations, White told the clique. A high percentage of committee chairmanships will be given freshman, he said. White said everyone requesting a committee appointment has been given it. Persons appointed will be contacted within a week by the clique secretary, and will be given more specific information about their duties, he said.
