

Hosterman Concentrates On Building Defense

Soccer Coach Ken Hosterman will be concentrating this coming week on improving his team's positional play in hopes of building a stronger defense. Although the Lions netted a victory over the Maryland Terps last Saturday, 4-3, copping their second win of the season, their lax defensive play permitted the Marylanders three tallies.

In the past, Penn State's soccer defense has been almost as re-known as its offensive scoring punch. During the 1950, '51, and '52 seasons the Nittanians out-manuevered their opponents, and netted a total of 110 markers. Last season's offensive tally sheet showed the most effective scoring with a total of 41 goals posted by the Nittany booters.

Combined scores from the '51 and '50 seasons showed the State booters had racked their opponents for 69 goals in just 18 games. An over-all reading for the three seasons exemplifies how potent the Nittanians were once they had their offensive play in high gear. In 27 games the Lions scored 110 times, averaging better than four goals per contest.

Perhaps being over-shadowed by such a display of scoring, has been the defensive prowess of State's booters. During the '50, '51, '52 campaigns the Lions shut out 20 opponents. On the other hand, State has suffered only one shutout in the past three seasons.

While the Lion booters were pounding their opponents with a barrage of goal-piercing kicks, they didn't neglect their defensive duties. The opposition only scored 24 goals against the Nittany squads of 1950, '51 and '52.

The three points which the Maryland eleven scored against the Lions last Saturday was something that not every team can claim who has tangled with a Penn State club.

Army has been the only team during the past three seasons that has tagged the Lions for four goals. Gettysburg, Navy and Penn have chalked up two against the Lions during three seasons, while the Bucknell Bisons have succeeded two times in netting two markers against the Nittanians.

The factor of halfback and line players not holding their positions during a defensive maneuver, results in a heavier load for the fullbacks and goalie to carry. "During the first half," remarked Hosterman, "I thought we had a seven-man line instead of the regular five-man forward wall. We will be concerned this week with getting our positional play up to par."

In the second half the Lions came back to dominate the field play against the Terp squad.

"Our favorable playing transition from the first to the second half, proves the boys have it, if they want to have it," Hosterman continued. "If the men would play their positions as they did in the second half, and would not get bogged down in beating their opponents to the ball, things would run much smoother," Hosterman said.

Interceptions proved very costly to the Bulldogs last night when they dropped a 13-0 decision to the Terrors in the first intramural touch-football game played at Beaver Field. Both scores came in the second half as Meyers Cuddy of the Terrors registered both touchdowns.

A razzle-dazzle pass play involving four players helped Delta Chi defeat Phi Epsilon Pi, 12-0, in the second game. The Raiders bowed to Dorm 36 in the third game, 1-0. The fourth shutout of the night saw Delta Upsilon blanking Phi Mu Delta, 18-0.

The first Terror score came when Cuddy snagged a Gordon Baumgardner pass and scampered fifteen yards to paydirt. Bill Moyer intercepted another Bulldog aerial and tossed to Cuddy for the final tally.

On two occasions early in the first half the Terrors penetrated deep into enemy territory only to be stopped when the Raiders' defense would tighten. These drives were spearheaded by the passing of Lou Schneider, who used "Butch" Lentz as his favorite target. Schneider also sparked on defense as he knocked down several long Bulldog passes.

Delta Chi threatened early in the game when Ed Hill fell on a Phi Ep's fumble on the latter's one-yard line. The Phi Ep's averted a score, however, when Chuck Bell intercepted an end-zone pass for an automatic touchback. The first score saw Cerase, Dangerfield, Muse, and Reardon handling the pigskin in that order. The play, consisting of short tosses, covered fifteen yards. A Cerase to Reardon aerial completed the scoring.

Dorm 36 thwarted a Raider drive within its own five-yard line, then went on to win in overtime, as the sixth and final overtime play found them deeply entrenched in Raider territory.

Irish to Keep Bowl Tilt Ban

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP)—The president of Notre Dame said today there was "no possibility" the Fighting Irish will lift their ban on post-season football games.

Commenting on reports the Irish athletic department would recommend acceptance of a possible bid to the Sugar Bowl game, Rev. T. M. Hesburgh, school president said:

"There is really nothing to it. We feel pretty strongly against post-season games. There is no possibility that we will participate in such games."

Edward "Moose" Krause, Irish athletic director, said in an interview yesterday at Chicago he would urge the school's athletic board to accept any bid the Irish might receive from the Sugar Bowl sponsors.
