

Trackmen Meet Two Foes Today

Today's triangular cross-country meet at the Naval Academy between Georgetown, Navy and the Lions will go a long way toward answering some vital questions.

In the first place, it will provide a good yardstick for measuring how good this year's harrier team really is. All three entries have strong teams and the winning combination will have to show good balance.

Secondly, it will determine how well Red Hollen has recovered from his injury in the Cornell meet. Hollen, one of the finest hill-and-dalers in the east, hurt his foot while covering the hardened ground on the golf course layout.

Second Meet for Lions

A third question which may be answered concerns the sophomores on the present Nittany team. This will be the first away meet for the Lions and should give the sophs a chance to show their true abilities. Doug Moorhead, Ted Garrett, Jim McKelvey and Ed Steel are the second-year men who will be competing against the Middies and the Hoyas. In the Cornell meet Moorhead tied for first with Hollen and Lamont Smith. Garrett finished sixth, while Steel and McKelvey placed 13th and 14th respectively.

This is the second meet of the campaign for the Blue and White who beat the Big Red of Cornell, 19-39. It is also the first of three straight away meets before the IC4A and NCAA championships.

Gehrdes is Navy Coach

Three Midshipman, Charley Cook, John Hurt and Norm Harper have all turned in good performances this season. Cook placed fifth in a quadrangular meet with St. John's, Manhattan and Syracuse as he paced the Middies to second place. Hurt finished tenth in the same meet. Harper has been inconsistent so far. In the quadrangular meet he could do no better than 21st; however, he placed first in a dual meet with Manhattan.

Jim Gehrdes, ex-Nittany hurdling star, who is now cross-country coach at Annapolis will be out to show his former teacher, Lion Coach Chick Werner, that he learned his lessons well. Werner, on the other hand, will be out to demonstrate that he has not lost his touch for developing outstanding teams.

Big Game Ahead

Tremendous interest is building in the forthcoming clash of Penn State and West Virginia at State College Oct. 31.

Keith Vesling, baseball captain, and Jack Sherry, basketball captain, both play on the Penn State football team.

Out On a Limb

Fighting desperately to move back into first place in the Daily Collegian football prediction contest, head Football Coach Rip Engle has named Earl Bruce to represent the coaches in this week's contest. The coaches dropped three games off the pace last Saturday, when Al Michaels selected only eight winners from the 15-game list.

Sam Procopio, Collegian Sports Editor will be Bruce's main objective this week. Procopio is sporting a .776 percentage to hold the first place position, and Assistant Sports Editor Dick McDowell is in the number two spot with a .750 mark.

The coaches are tied for third with staff writer Herm Weiskopf. Both hold .716 marks.

Probably the most controversial game on today's selection sheet is the Pitt-Northwestern battle. The four contestants have split decisions on the outcome. Procopio and Bruce favor Northwestern, and McDowell and Weiskopf are picking the Panthers.

IM Pool, Court Action to Open

Two more Intramural sports will hit the calendar next week. Swimming competition will begin at 5:15 p.m. Monday at Glennland Pool. The basketball program will open Wednesday.

A basketball schedule is being prepared and will be sent to each squad's captain.

According to the swimming schedule issued by the Intramural office, it will be necessary for each team to send one member to the pool early with the correct lineups so that the meets may begin promptly.

In an IM tennis singles match, Zucker, Phi Sigma Delta, overcame Adler, Beta Sigma Rho, 6-8, 6-3, 6-3, to advance to the finals of flight four.

Irish-Ga. Tech To Meet Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—College football's longest living unbeaten streak and the No. 1 national ranking are the pawns when Notre Dame and Georgia Tech collide tomorrow in the game of the day.

The pressure-packed conflict at South Bend, Ind., pitting two prime contenders for championship honors, overshadows an attractive mid-season schedule which includes such rivalries as California-Southern California at Berkeley, Baylor-Texas A&M at College Station, Michigan-Minnesota at Minneapolis and Navy-Penn at Philadelphia.

The unbeaten skein belongs to Georgia Tech, which hasn't suffered a setback since late November, 1950.

The No. 1 ranking is held by the Fighting Irish, who have

'Unsung Hero'

Penn State's Rip Engle nominates center Don Balthaser, of Reading, as the "unsung hero" of his 1953 football squad.

Last Two on Road

Penn State, at home four straight weeks, will close out its 1953 football campaign on the road against Rutgers and Pitt.

Promising Sophomore

Otto Kneidinger, sophomore tackle of Bellwood, is rated the most promising lineman on Penn State's 1953 football squad.

Penn State's football team played before more than 130,000 persons in its first four games of 1953.

swept past three opponents and who rule seven-point favorites to maintain their position over a speedy Tech squad rated fourth in the Associated Press poll.
