

Young to Talk At Career Day

Dr. Philip Young, chairman of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C., will discuss "Career Opportunities in the Civil Service" at the Career Day program of the School of Business at 7:30 tonight in 121 Sparks.

President Milton S. Eisenhower will introduce Dr. Young. Ossian R. McKenzie, dean of the school, will serve as chairman.

The afternoon program will begin at 3 p.m. when business leaders and students will explore the opportunities for service in the major fields of commerce, labor, industry, trade and government.

Dr. Young, who served as dean of the Graduate School of Business at Columbia University from 1948 to 1953, will be one of 12 business leaders who will participate in the program, sponsored by the student council and student organizations of the school.

Dr. Young has served as business economist and analyst with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Until his appointment by President Dwight D. Eisenhower at Columbia in 1948, he worked as vice president of Astraco, Inc., and treasurer for Van Lear Woodward Co., both of New York.

H. Thomas Hallowell Jr., president of Standard Pressed Steel Co., Jenkintown, will be dinner speaker at the management conference tonight at the Nittany Lion Inn. He will discuss "Our Economy as it Affects Manufacturing Planning."

Dr. Eisenhower and three industrial leaders will speak during the afternoon sessions beginning at noon.

Chem Lab Will Open Next Month

The offices of the dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, the head of the Department of Chemistry, the director of the Chemical Laboratories, and the pre-medical adviser will be moved next month into Whitmore Laboratory, George S. Haller, dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, said yesterday.

The top floor of the new laboratory will house a school library and reading room. The main part of the school library is now housed in Pond Laboratory and a smaller part is located in Osmond Laboratory.

The library will also be moved into Whitmore Lab next month. It will contain provisions for technical journals, textbooks, reference books and microfilm readers.

The freshmen laboratories, which will occupy the ground floor, will be ready by the fall semester next year. Some graduate laboratories are expected to be in use by September, 1954.

The only classroom space to be used next semester will be a few of the smaller-type rooms for advanced graduate classes. A possibility exists, according to Raymond V. Watkins, scheduling officer, that some larger rooms may be utilized for conferences later in the semester. The bulk of the classroom space will not be used until the fall semester next year, Watkins said.

The laboratory, when the equipment is installed, will provide facilities for upperclass laboratories for organic and physical chemistry and radio chemistry and microchemistry laboratories.

Three Frosh Win Ed Council Seats

Due to a tie, three freshmen, instead of the scheduled two, have been elected to Education Student Council.

JoAnne Fulton and Natalie Moskowitz, first semester education majors, and Robert Weil, first semester industrial arts major, won council seats. Ninety-two freshmen voted in the election.

Staff Members, Ex-Pros Seek Borough Posts

Seven members and two former members of the College staff are candidates for borough offices in the Tuesday elections.

Both candidates for burgess, which is comparable to mayor in a larger city, are instructors. They are David R. Mackey, assistant professor of speech and general manager of campus radio station WDFM, and Leon D. Skinner, assistant professor of English composition.

For councilmen, five of the six men running are staff members. They include Dr. Roy D. Anthony, professor emeritus of pomology, Franklin L. Bentley, former professor of animal husbandry, William Garner, of the federal pasture laboratories, Charles F. LeeDecker, Jr., assistant executive secretary of the Institute of Local Government and instructor of political science, and Dr. Warren W. Miller, associate professor of chemistry.

Anthony retired with emeritus rank in 1949. Bentley retired from the faculty in June. While at the College he also served on the Senate athletic committee for 13 years, holding the chairmanship when he left.

Two staff members are in the race for election as school directors. They are Ralph W. McComb, College librarian and archivist, and Dr. Howard O. Triebold, professor of agricultural and biological chemistry.

In the race for burgess Mackey is running on the Democratic ticket and Skinner, on the Republican.

None of the positions for which any of the faculty members are running are full time jobs. They will be able to continue in their present capacities.

Lion Party Names Platform Chairmen

Robert Spadaro, first semester pre-law major, and Maurine Leonard, first semester arts and letters major, have been named co-chairmen of the Lion Party platform committee by Benjamin Sinclair, clique chairman.

The platform committee will meet at 7 tonight in 101 Willard, Spadaro announced yesterday. Anyone interested in submitting ideas for planks may attend the meeting, he said.

Rose Mazza and Albert Jordan have been named assistant publicity directors. LeeAnn Leaphart was named distribution chairman and Joseph Galen, design chairman.

John Hyslop and David Friedenberg yesterday were appointed publicity coordinators.

Model UN Council To Begin Activities

The Model United Nations Security Council sessions, a project to develop interest in the work of the UN and prepare College students in Pennsylvania for possible participation in government affairs, begins tonight with registration and a closed dinner at the Corner Room.

At the dinner following registration at 5 p.m., 35 delegates from 11 Pennsylvania colleges will hear Dr. Robert T. Oliver, head of the Department of Speech, and Dr. Channing Liem, head of the Department of Political Science at the Pennsylvania College for Women.

Dr. Oliver served on the faculty of the University of Korea and is a former manager of the Washington bureau of the Korean Pacific Press. He has been called to Korea four times to advise Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea. Dr. Liem is a native of Korea.

Howard Hosmer, seventh semester arts and letters major, will act as Secretary-General for the model council and lead the discussion on "The Korean Question." Leon Williams, fifth semester arts and letters major, is the assistant secretary-general.

The Penn State delegation, representing Pakistan, will include Leonard Goodman, fifth semester, Thomas Morgan, seventh semester, Robert Dennis, seventh semester, and Leslie Handler, seventh semester, all arts and letters majors, and Leo Golden, third semester commerce major.

Justin Lipman, fifth semester arts and letters major, is in charge of registration, and Marion Venzlauskas, a graduate student in Liberal Arts, is the hostess.

Rapporteurs for the sessions are Doris Humphrey and Linda Holmes, both fifth semester arts and letters majors. Barbara Estep, fifth semester arts and letters major; Janet Melzer, seventh semester physical education major; Alice Murray, seventh semester education major; Rosemarie Yannik, fifth semester journalism major; and Frances Crawford, seventh semester education major, are the typists.

Stuart to Address Young Republicans

H. L. Stuart, Centre County Republican chairman, will address the Penn State chapter of the Young Republican Club at 7:30 tonight in the State College Hotel.

He will discuss politics and advise club members on campaign activities.

Spring Carnival Holiday Vetoed By Ag Council

The proposal for a one-day Spring Carnival holiday was unanimously defeated Tuesday night by the Agricultural Student Council.

The proposal, tabled Oct. 15 by All-College Cabinet, recommends that Easter vacation end a day earlier to provide for the class holiday during Spring Week.

George Williams, editor of the Ag Hill Breeze, announced that the publication's name has been changed to The Breeze, following council approval.

President Thomas Inter appointed Daryl Heasley, fifth semester agricultural education major, and John Hershey, fifth semester poultry husbandry major, to the Cabinet Secretariat which will replace Cabinet Projects Council.

Franklin Myers, seventh semester agricultural education major, was appointed chairman of the committee to investigate the scheduling of bluebooks so they will not conflict with meetings of agricultural groups.

James Hay, fifth semester agronomy major, was named chairman for the annual Ag Hill coffee hour.

Emcee Auditions Set for Ag Party

Auditions for the master of ceremonies at the Ag Hill Party will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in 109 Agriculture. Judges will be various members of the program committee and advisers.

The master of ceremonies will introduce speakers Nov. 14 at the Ag Hill Party. The program will include supper, group singing led by a music professor, bingo, introductions, scholarship awards and square dancing.
