

Perkins States Goal of FMA

Better food at the most reasonable price is the immediate goal of the Fraternity Marketing Association, Harold W. Perkins, assistant to the Dean of Men, told a meeting of fraternity cooks, caterers and FMA representatives at the Allencrest Tea Room Wednesday night.

The purpose of the meeting was to inform prospective members of the association of the past history and future plans of the group. Perkins urged non-member fraternities to compare FMA prices with those they are now paying.

Twenty-six fraternities are now members of the association.

Julius Shapiro, FMA treasurer, reported the association did a business volume of $16,000 last year. He also reported $3,550 worth of business had been transacted during September of this year.

Starlings --

Controversy in Sound Field
If the sounds were ultrasonic sounds that humans couldn't hear, a device could be set up that would repel the insects when they heard the sound, Mrs. Frings said. This work is still in its infancy, Mrs. Frings said, but there is a big controversy in the field and she wants to pin it down.

Mrs. Frings had over 15,000 references on the subject which date back to the late 17th and early 18th centuries. Each article she receives is either a reprint, a photostat, or microfilmed copy. Articles on the subject are scattered in almost 370 journals in all languages, which she and Dr. Frings translate and reproduce.

Couple Given Pasteur Medal
Dr. and Mrs. Frings were invited to France this spring by the Ministry of Agriculture, the Air Force and the University of Paris.

Grad Course in Journ Approved by College

A program of graduate study leading to a M.A. degree in journalism has been approved by the College. Candidates for the advanced degree will be enrolled within the next year.

They spent three months in Europe presenting a series of lectures and papers on their work, and visited 26 laboratories in France, Holland and Germany.

When the couple visited the Pasteur Institute, they were presented with a silver medal in recognition of their work towards the advancement of science.

Cabinet --

(Continued from page one) community government is practiced on the campus. Community government, as defined in a resolution Smoot read from the National Students' Congress last summer, is "cooperation and better understanding among student governments, administrations, and facilities in the area of campus affairs through encouraging joint policy-making by three elements of the educational community."

The United States consumed 476 million tons of bituminous coal in 1951, nearly 100 million tons more than in 1939.
