Constitution --

the question of holding a constitutional convention is "yes." Perhaps I am too pessimistic as to the results. We do need some constitutional changes. Let's gamble on the complete revision method. If it fails, we can still fall back on the regular system of amendments.

Comedy to Highlight Players' Production

By EDMUND REISS

High English comedy will be featured when Players present their rendition of "Hay Fever" at 8 p.m. Thursday in Schwab Auditorium. The Noel Coward play will run for three nights.

The story, which concerns a typical weekend in the life of an eccentric English family, is similar to Kaufman and Hart's "You Can't Take It With You" in that the relatives are extremely bohemian.

David, played by Kaye Vinson, is the introvert, novelist-father who invites a "winsome young thing" to the family's country estate for a weekend to study her for a future novel. His wife, Judith, portrayed by Alice Mears, is a retired actress who still lives in a dream of past grandeur and is at any time likely to turn into one of her former stage roles.

Since the family is composed of individualists, she too invites a friend for the weekend, a young man many times her junior who obviously idolizes her as a dramatic actress.

The children of these rather out-of-the-ordinary parents are Simon, played by Leonard Richards Jr., and Sorel, Nancy Dee Coulter. They are practically resurrections of the father and mother except that Simon is an artist and Sorel, a student.

They are unusual in their tastes also since Simon invites for the weekend an older woman with whom he is hopelessly infatuated. Not to be outdone, his sister invites an elderly gentleman-traveler.

These guests soon find they have gotten into more than they bargained for when their hosts begin to propose marriage. The various situations are such that only a playwright of Coward's merit could present them.

His characters can not be forgotten easily for they are such distinct personalities that they will be remembered, laughed at and sympathized with so long as comedy is present in the theater.

The guests are Velma Kaiser, Ruth Fitz, Leonard Tarnowsky and Ron Taylor. Ann Frank plays the maid.

Tickets for the show cost 60 cents for Thursday and $1 for Friday and Saturday and will go on sale Monday at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Chem Library To Be Moved

Chem-Phys Student Council has decided to make arrangements to transport the Chem-Phys library from Pond Laboratory to the new Whitmore Laboratory in about two weeks.

The council also voted to join with the faculty in an effort to combine Chem-Phys Open House with the Science Fair in the spring.

A bottled coke-vending machine, sponsored by the Chem-Phys school, will be installed at the third floor stairwell in Pond Laboratory.

The mixer publicity committee will meet today in Osmond Laboratory to make posters for the student-faculty mixer Nov. 11 at the Eutaw House.

Yeaton Announces Player Show Cast

The cast for Players' production of "Juno and the Paycock" by Sean O'Casey has been announced by Kelly Yeaton, associate professor of dramatics.

Jeannie Risler will appear in the leading role. The supporting cast will include Samuel Schoneley, John Yeatman, Albert Kalson, Mary Loubris, John Krug, Deborah Peek, Diane Hamel, Harry Carroll, Velma Kaiser, Richard Weber, John Henderson, Thomas Bellin, Joseph Marko and Dominic Landro.

The show will be open Dec. 11 at Center Stage for a six-week run.

Circle K to Organize, Name Officers Monday

Circle K, a society for former high school Key Club members, will organize at 7 p.m. Monday in 105 Willard.

Officers will be elected and a constitution approved. Former Key Clubbers interested in joining the group may attend, according to John Lyon, temporary chairman.

WRA Riflery

Women students interested in beginner's instruction in riflery may sign up before 5 p.m. Monday in 101 White Hall, according to Mildred McCowan, WRA club chairman.

The case of the Unapproachable Alumnus

OR... How do you get that gift horse to open his mouth?

Once there was a Wealthy Alumnus who was also a Soft Touch. Tie an Old School Tie around your neck and he'd give you his shirt to go with it.

One day he realized that this habit of always saying "Yes" to the Big Question was costing him a Pretty Penny. So he became a Hard Man to Get To. Letters, phone calls and personal visits all encountered a secretary with a face like a flint and a 4-word vocabulary. ("He's out of town.")

This was Rough on the Old School, but nobody had a solution—until the football coach, a Brain in his own right, came up with a Magnificent but Simple Idea. He dashed down to the Western Union office and dispatched a Telegram saturated with Old School Spirit and dedicated to the theme that unless some Noble Soul came through pronto, the eleven would be playing barefoot and jersey-less.

The ice jam was broken. A Fat Check arrived the next day. Today things are back on a Normal Financial Basis.

There's nothing more practical than using Telegrams to Hurdle Barriers and get to the Guy. (or the Gal) you want to talk to. When you want something . . . Cash from Home, a Date with a Dreamboat, an Interview with the Man who does the Hiring . . . it pays to Make your Bid via Western Union.
