

Junior Prom Queen Voting Starts Today

Juniors may vote for Junior Prom Queen from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and tomorrow at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Matriculation cards must be presented at the voting station, Patricia Ellis, coronation chairman, has announced.

Faith Gallagher, Katherine Reynolds, Gail Smith, Suzanne Strom and Nancy Van Triés are finalists for the title. They were chosen from 50 applicants after personal interviews with a selections board of 15 outstanding juniors.

500 Entertained At Fraternity Open Houses

Over 500 men visited fraternity houses Sunday during fall semester open house, according to Bruce Coble, chairman of the Interfraternity Council rushing committee.

The open house program was sponsored by IFC as part of its fall rushing program.

During the afternoon independent men were given an opportunity to observe facilities for study and recreation available in various fraternities. Members of each fraternity were on hand to answer questions and guide visitors through the houses.

The final phase of the IFC fall rushing program will get underway sometime within the next two weeks with the distribution of the "Penn State Fraternity Magazine." The magazine explains fraternity life and includes pictures and information on each fraternity.

Procedures for rushing and a copy of the IFC rushing and pledging code are included in the magazine.

2 Eng Students Given Awards

Two fifth semester students were presented with $75 scholarships in architectural engineering at the recent annual meeting of the central Pennsylvania chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Robert Passmore and David Shoop won the scholarships for having the highest composite grades at the end of their sophomore years.

Usually the chapter presents a $100 award each year to the student having the highest composite grades. Milton S. Osborne, head of the Department of Architecture and president of the central Pennsylvania chapter, said Passmore and Shoop's grades were such that it was decided the award should be divided this year.

Mrs. Osborne contributed $50 to the fund, making it possible for each of the students to receive a $75 scholarship.

Dr. Eric A. Walker, dean of the School of Engineering, discussed "The Engineer Looks at the Architect," at the meeting.

Criminologist to Speak

Dr. Mary L. Willard, professor of chemistry, will discuss "Scientific Criminology" at the Clover Club at 7 tonight in 111 Plant Industries.

Miss Gallagher, sponsored by Delta Gamma, appeared in the Thespian shows, "Roberta" and "Let's Face It." She has worked on the publicity staffs of Inking, Sophomore Week and Junior Week. During her freshman year she was president of her dormitory unit and a member of Players' advertising crew. A sociology major from Athens, Miss Gallagher reigned as "Miss Athens of 1951."

Miss Reynolds, secretary-treasurer of the junior class, was sponsored by Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is a member of the Liberal Arts Student Council and Chimes, junior women's hat society. She is also treasurer of Kappa Kappa Gamma and a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's scholastic society. Miss Reynolds is a fine arts major from Media.

Miss Smith, a journalism major from Pittsburgh, is a member of the advertising staff of the Daily Collegian. She served as pledge mistress of Chi Omega, her sponsoring group. A member of the Riding Club, Miss Smith is also on the College riding team.

Miss Strom is activities chairman for Kappa Alpha Theta. She worked on the makeup crew for the Thespian show, "Let's Face It." As a freshman she was a finalist for the Harvest Ball and last year for the Dairy Queen title. A home economics major from Wilmington, Del., Miss Strom was sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta.

Miss Van Tries, a journalism major from State College, is a member of the Froth advertising staff, the LaVie art staff and is on the Daily Collegian's advertising staff. Froth girl-of-the-month last year, she is also a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Miss Van Tries, sponsored by Delta Tau Delta, was a Campus Chest solicitor and works in the reserve book room of Pattee Library.

'Pillars' Tryouts Set for Tonight

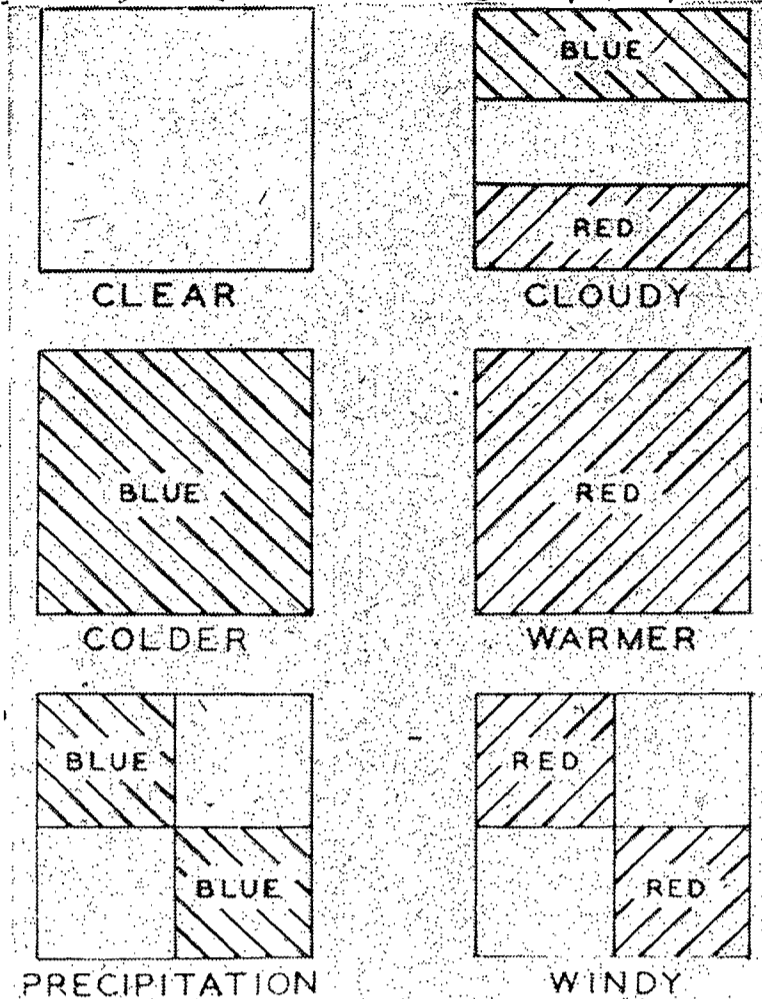

Tryouts for 19 male speaking parts in "Pillars in the Night," a war play, by William Coleman, will be open to men students, staff members and townspeople from 7 to 9 p.m. today and tomorrow in the Little Theater, basement of Old Main.

The play, never before produced, will be presented Dec. 16, 17, and 18 under the direction of Warren Smith.

Eng LaVie Photos

Engineering students may report until Thursday to the Penn State Photo Shop to have LaVie pictures taken.

Weather Flag Code

FLAGS SHOWING the predominant characteristics of a 12-hour weather forecast will be flown from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day until June on the south roof of the Mineral Industries Building by the Penn State student branch of the American Meteorological Society. Drafts for the flags were drawn by David Jones, graduate assistant in the Meteorology department.

Memorial Fund Scholarship Established

An Alumni Memorial Scholarship fund has been established at the College in honor of Penn State alumni who gave their lives defending their country, President Milton S. Eisenhower has announced.

President Eisenhower explained this would provide a means whereby annual Alumni Fund gifts of all sizes for scholarships may be properly administered.

The fund will provide academic scholarships without restriction as to class of school, except in cases where the school has been designated by the donor. The awards will also be available to high school seniors accepted for admission to the College.

A committee composed of the director of student affairs, dean of admissions, dean of men, dean of women, and the executive secretary of the Alumni Association will administer the fund.

Scholarship, need, qualities of leadership, activities and citizenship will be considered for awarding of scholarships to students.

Science Group Lists Awards

The National Science Foundation has announced 750 fellowship awards for seniors and graduate and post-doctoral students in the sciences for 1954-1955.

The awards, ranging from annual stipends of $1400 to $3400, will be based on academic records, recommendations and an examination designed to test scientific aptitude and achievement. The examination will be administered at centers throughout the United States on Jan. 30, 1954.

Chest Drive --

Proceeds will go to Campus Chest. The total will be announced after bills are paid.

Fifty per cent of the students contributed $5300 in the solicitation drive conducted last week, Myron Enelow, solicitations chairman, announced.

He said this was not the complete total as 33 solicitors have not yet returned their money. Enelow asked that the money be returned immediately so final tabulations can be made.

Money may be returned from 2 to 5 p.m. today through Friday in 204 Old Main and from 7 to 10 p.m. today and tomorrow at the Student Union desk in Old Main and Thursday in 204 Old Main.

Panel of 5 to Discuss Aims of Ag Economics

A panel discussion "What Are the Aims and Objectives of the Agriculture Economics Curriculum" will be presented tonight at Alpha Zeta.

The undergraduate viewpoint will be discussed by Philip Bohr and Ted DuBois. Wendell McMillan will present the graduate side, and Dr. Clare W. Pierce and Dr. Ralph Baker will speak for the faculty.

Belles Lettres Club Will Hear Daugherty

Belles-Lettres Club will hear Paul R. Daugherty, professor of romance languages, at 7 tonight in the northeast lounge of Atherton Hall.

Daugherty will speak on "The Mexican Folk Tale in Translation." The meeting will be open to the public.

Raiders Hit Landmarks With Paint

Three Penn State landmarks received unscheduled paintings over the weekend.

The Nittany Lion Shrine was hardest hit. The lion was unceremoniously doused with paint twice, once on Saturday and again Sunday morning.

Other landmarks painted are the Old Willow and the main campus gateway. The Willow was painted with blue water-base paint. The Campus Patrol discovered the vandalism Sunday morning.

Both bases of the campus gateway received almost identical blue "WVUs." The gateway was found painted Saturday morning.

The last swing shift of 60 freshman men assigned to guard the Lion Saturday morning had been reduced to a handful of men when the first painting occurred. Two men, in a car with West Virginia license plates, swung by and threw out a can of yellow paint.

A West Virginia license number was reported to the Campus Patrol Saturday as being that of the car that carried the paint. The number is being checked through West Virginia state authorities, Capt. Philip A. Mark of the Campus Patrol said yesterday.

The Lion's blue dabbing was discovered about 8:15 a.m. Sunday by the Campus Patrol.

"Hay Fever" Audience Will See 'Typical' Noel Coward Comedy

By EDMUND REISS

When Players present "Hay Fever" at 8 p.m. Thursday in Schwab Auditorium, theatergoers will see one of Noel Coward's most typical plays.

Coward has delighted audiences in both hemispheres as an actor, playwright, musical composer and theatrical producer. He was born in 1899 in Teddington, England, and made his first appearance on the stage at the age of 12. Since then he has appeared in many shows both in England and abroad.

He wrote his first play when he was 21, "I'll Leave It to You," produced in 1920. This was soon followed by "The Young Idea" in 1921 and "London Calling" in 1923.

Coward has written over 30 plays of which probably the most outstanding was "Blithe Spirit," produced in 1941. This show played almost 2000 consecutive performances to make it unique in having the longest run for a non-musical play on record in England.

Other superior productions included "The Vortex," 1924; "Hay Fever," 1925; "Sirocco," 1927; "Privates Lives," 1930, and "This Happy Breed," 1942.

Coward has also written several one-act plays and films. In 1937 "Present Indicative," his autobiography, was published, and in 1939 he wrote his first novel, "To Step Aside."

Coward's name has long been associated with aristocratic drawing-room comedy. He has become famed as the man who continually places his characters in seemingly dead-end situations and then amazes everyone by having them escape with the greatest of ease. His figures are not supernatural beings or even "typical" Englishmen. Rather each is a delightful blend of several characteristics with humorous ones almost always prevailing.

One of Coward's technical excellences is his employment of props. Everything he mentions has a definite bearing on the relationships between the various scenes, even in the case of drinking a cup of coffee.

Coward is also the author of several musicals, including "The Year of Grace," 1928; "Words and Music," 1932; "Conversation Piece," 1934; "Operette," 1938, and "Set to Music," 1938.

Tickets for "Hay Fever" cost $1.60 for Thursday and $1 for Friday and Saturday. They are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main.
