

Chapel Construction Expected To Begin by Centennial Year

The expectation that ground will be broken for the first unit of the student chapel by Centennial Year in 1955, was expressed yesterday by the Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, College chaplain, in revealing tentative plans for the structure.

He said if another $50,000 can be obtained, there will be no reason for not starting the small meditation chapel, which will be the first of three units. This plus the $90,000 already in the fund, will make up the bulk of the $200,000 estimated cost of the small chapel.

The other two units, Harshbarger revealed, will be an administration building costing about $250,000 and a main chapel and bell tower costing about $1.5 million.

Four possible locations have been discussed, he said. They include Holmes Field, south of the new Student Union Building and north of Elm Cottage; bordering College avenue, south of Holmes Field and east of Home Ec South; Ag Hill, between the Pattee Library and Horticulture building; and on the present site of the Armory.

Harshbarger said the principle that must be considered in locating the chapel is putting it in the center of student traffic so as to be a part of student life. For this reason, he favors Holmes Field because of its proximity to the new Student Union Building.

Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, has revealed, however, that the Board of Trustees has already voiced their disapproval of the site on Holmes Field. Their reason being, he said, that the structure would make the field completely useless for girls' athletics and would spoil the view of the Student Union.

Complete plans are now being drawn by Harbeson, Hough, Livingston and Larson, of Philadelphia, the official College architects and the designers of the Student Union.

Tentative plans to be followed by the architects in designing the three-unit chapel start with the small meditation chapel, Harshbarger's release stated. This section will seat approximately 125 and be for private meditation, small services of worship, weddings, funerals and baptisms.

The large chapel will have a capacity of about 2000 to provide for corporate worship, Sunday Chapel and other public religious occasions. Space will be provided for about 100 in the choir loft in the rear, and downstairs will be a lounge, kitchen, several discussion and seminar rooms, an assembly room and a choir rehearsal and robing room.

On the ground floor of the administration building will be a large reception room, offices for the chaplain and counselors of the major faiths, a business office and mimeograph facilities. In the basement provisions will be made for at least two seminar or discussion rooms, a small assembly room, a library and a small kitchen.

1953 Yearbook Awarded Honors

The 1953 LaVie has been award-ed first class honors in yearbook judging by the Associated Col-legiate Press.

The book, edited by Douglas Schoerke, received 3260 points, 240 points short of the total need-ed for an all-American rating. Only three other books in LaVie's classification received top honors.

The art work, which followed a modern theme, was particu-larly commended by the judges. They awarded extra points for type styling throughout the book and for the method of handling details such as senior activities, lists of names and sports sum-maries.

Seven previous LaVies, includ-ing the 1952 book, have received first class honors. The 1951 LaVie won all-American honors.

Traffic Court Tries 13 Cases

Thirteen violators of the 35 which were scheduled to appear were tried by the traffic court last night.

The 22 who failed to appear will be referred to the Dean of Men's office by the group.

Of the 13 who appeared, four violators were fined by the court. Two students were assessed $5 for twice violating the traffic code. The other two violators paid $1 each for first offenses. The vi-olations were parking in the wrong areas and driving on cam-pus during class hours.

Nine cases were excused be-cause the defendants presented valid arguments. Two students' cases were thrown out by the group because of permanent phys-ical disabilities. Another was cleared because of his graduate student status, over which the court has no authority.

The procedure of the court con-cerning violations is to notify the violator by postcard, stating the nature and the time of the viola-tion and also the date which he is to appear. A student may appeal his case before the court or plead guilty and pay his fine at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Art Prof to Show Works at Library

Prints and drawings by Mary Filer, assistant professor of art education, will be on exhibition until Nov. 26 at the library.

The exhibition includes linole-um prints, etchings, monotypes, pen drawings on classical and Biblical themes, portraits, inter-iors and landscapes, many paint-ed in the Centre County area.

Miss Filer will be present from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday in the lobby of the library. She is a well known Canadian artist, lecturer on art and child art teacher.

Tribunal Proposes Penalties for Three

By DON SHOEMAKER

Tribunal last night recommended penalties for three students who were convicted of disorderly conduct charges by borough offi-cials last week.

Two students who were convicted of disorderly conduct charges in Bellefonte, Oct. 23, following a high school football game there, were placed on Tribunal proba-tion.

Under tribunal probation, the students must report to Tribunal once a month for the remainder of the semester.

The other student, a third se-mester hotel administration ma-jor, who pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct before a local justice of the peace, was issued a Tribunal warning. A re-cord of the charge will be kept in Tribunal minutes, for refer-ence in case the student appears again before the group.

The Dean of Men's office asked Tribunal to recommend penalties for these students on grounds of "inappropriate behavior."

In other action Tribunal com-muted the sentence of a freshman who was accused of being one of the instigators of the West Dorm riot on Sept. 28.

Originally, the group recom-mended that the student be re-moved from the West Dorms and moved to Pollock Circle and that he be placed on Tribunal proba-tion. In last night's action, Tri-bunal decided to allow the student to stay in the West Dorms, al-though he will still remain on probation.
