

'Hay Fever' Performance Given Mackey Gets Post To Aid Charity Organization As Town Burgess

Players' presentation of "Hay Fever" by Noel Coward which will open at 8 p.m. tonight in Schwab Auditorium for a three-day run will have a unique Friday night audience.

With or without knowing it, these people will have contributed to a charity. The State College Kiwanis Club has bought every seat for that night at a discount and now is selling these tickets at the regular price. The profits they make will be used for the medical and dental care of underprivileged children in the State College area.

IFC to Start Workshop Wednesday

The fourth annual Interfraternity Council workshop will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Each year IFC workshops are held to find, discuss and attempt to solve fraternity problems.

This year's program will get underway Wednesday night with exchange dinners between fraternities. Following the dinners, speakers selected from among leading townspeople and faculty members will address seven discussion groups, each dealing with a particular phase of fraternity life.

Following each talk, the meetings will be opened for discussions in an attempt to uncover and solve problems related to the subject being discussed.

The recommendations and findings of each group will be submitted to the IFC for examination and consideration. If the discussion chairman feels his subject has not been fully covered his group will meet again Thursday night.

The annual workshop banquet will be held Friday night at the Nittany Lion Inn. Guest speaker will be Lloyd S. Cochran, vice chairman of the national Interfraternity Conference and a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

Merice Nelles is chairman of this year's workshop. Discussion groups and their leaders are fraternity presidents, John Note, public and alumni relations, Robbery Biggs; social chairman, Louis Martini; rushing chairmen, John Speer, pledge masters, George Richards; and treasurers, Carl Nurik.

Med Tech Majors To Meet Tonight

Medical Technology students will meet at 7:30 tonight in 206 Patterson to discuss the establishment of a chapter of Alpha Delta Theta, national professional medical technology society.

No action will be taken unless a majority is present to vote.

The providing of care for these children is an annual affair, but this is the first time Kiwanis has come on campus to finance the operation.

"Hay Fever" first opened in June, 1925, in the Ambassador's Theatre, London. After a successful run there, the show toured the United States, opening in October, 1925, at Maxine Elliott's Theater in New York City.

While there, the play was generally acknowledged to be the most amusing light comedy of the season, mainly because of the fine, unusual characters. They faintly resemble Oscar Wilde creations advanced to a more modern date because of their aristocratic bohemianism. The family group in "Hay Fever" belongs to the upper middle class so far as its wealth is concerned, but the relatives have a tendency to lean toward the aesthetic and arty, which really causes them to be placed in an unclassifiable category.

Judith Bliss, the mother of the family, is by far the most intriguing character. A past leading lady in the theater world, she imagines herself still loved and adored by her public. She refuses to admit that the years have made her older and lives in a dream-world of past performances.

There is no real plot connected with the play. Coward has taken a certain incident and rolled merrily along, neither looking to the right nor left. There is no theme or moral to the comedy at all, and there is no definite direction to which the action advances. The only thing Coward wants is for his audience to be entertained and leave having enjoyed itself.

Tickets for the show cost 60 cents for tonight and $1 for tomorrow and Saturday. They are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Associated Press Cites Centre Daily Times

The Centre Daily Times yesterday was awarded a citation by the Associated Press for the part the paper played in covering the recent Rockview prison riots.

The Times, one of 35 papers honored by the press association for outstanding news coverage, was presented the award in absentia at the Chicago meeting of Associated Press managing editors.

ACEI to Meet

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers will meet at 7:30 tonight in 117 Osmond.

Senate Group Drops Charge Against PiKA

A recommendation made by the Interfraternity Council that Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity not be punished for the misconduct of two members was upheld yesterday by the Senate committee on student affairs, but the group warned the fraternity to be extremely careful for the remainder of the year.

The action, announced by Dr. Henry S. Brunner, chairman, was initiated by the arrest of two members in Bellefonte at 1 a.m. Oct. 2 for disorderly conduct and driving while under the influence of alcoholic beverages. Both IFC and the committee investigated the case and IFC reached the conclusion that no violation of College rules occurred and recommended that the individuals be judged alone.

The Senate committee heard the case and passed the following motion: "That it is the belief of the committee that College rules were broken and that activities in the house led to the conduct of the two members, but lacking clear evidence the recommendation of IFC is adopted. However, the chapter has brought upon itself a situation under which it will require more than normal surveillance by the office of the Dean of Men for the balance of the academic year."

Thomas Schott, IFC president, said the IFC felt any affects of a fraternity's social function early in the evening would have worn off by the time of arrest and so the only logical conclusion was that the men indulged while in Bellefonte.

'News' Editors Pick Committee

An 11-member selections committee for "Who's in the News at Penn State," an annual publication of outstanding students, has been chosen by editors, Richard Rau and Evelyn Kielar.

The committee will consist of Richard Lemyre, All-College president; David Jones, Daily Collegian editor; and the presidents of the nine undergraduate school student councils.

Council presidents are Thomas Inter, Agriculture; Philip Greenberg, Business; Neil Yocom, Chemistry and Physics; Harry Shank, Education; Paul Brobst, Engineering; Richard Kirschner, Liberal Arts; Jane Mason, Home Economics; Nancy Lusk, Physical Education and Athletics; and Frederick Becker, Mineral Industries.

Students whose short biographies will appear in "Who's Who" will be chosen by the committee on the basis of activities and scholarship.

Hillel to Present 'My Little Boy'

The Hillel Hour, sponsored by Hillel Foundation, will present "My Little Boy," its fifth program in this year's series of dramatic presentations, at 7:45 tonight.

The cast includes Elaine Rossin, Patricia Farber, Carolyn Cantar and Robert Bazilian.

The weekly programs are alternately directed by Sandra Green-spun, third semester arts and letters major, and Robert Ablove, seventh semester arts and letters major.

"Flying frogs" that glide like flying squirrels are found near the mouth of the Amazon River, says the National Geographic Magazine.

GOP Chairmen to Meet

The meeting of Young Republican Club county chairmen will be held Saturday at Indiana instead of today as previously reported.

David R. Mackey, assistant professor of speech, was elected Burgess of State College by a 317-vote margin in elections Tuesday. He will succeed E. K. Hibshman Jan. 1.

Mackey defeated Republican candidate Leon D. Skinner, assistant professor of English composition. Skinner is a present member of the State College borough council.

All other nine borough offices, except that of one of three school board directors, taken by Dr. William T. Welch, were filled by Republicans by a turnout of 2735 voters, 55 per cent of those registered.

Prof Wins Council Seat

Charles F. LeeDecker, instructor of political science and assistant executive secretary of the Institute of Local Government; Roy D. Anthony, retired professor of pomology; and George Robert

David R. Mackey

Smith were named to the borough council. Republicans now hold all ten seats on the council.

Defeated Democratic candidates for councilmen were William M. Garner, of the federal pasture laboratories, Dr. Warren W. Miller, associate professor of chemistry, and Franklin L. Bentley, who retired from the faculty in June.

Dr. Howard O. Triebold, professor of agriculture and biological chemistry, was one of the three school directors named. Dr. H. Thompson Dale, GOP candidate, and Welch, Democrat, filled the two other offices on the school board.

Fred Bender, Republican, retained his office of tax collector over opponent Democratic Joseph A. Glenn. R. W. Acheson, single candidate for auditor, marked another local GOP victory.

In the state-wide elections, voters of the Commonwealth defeated a referendum reading "Do you favor the preparation of a convention of a new constitution subject to ratification by a vote of the people?"

Dean Adopts 'Hands Off' Vote Policy

The Dean of Men's office will adopt a hands off policy concerning the legality of Town Council elections of Oct. 21-23, Harold K. Perkins, assistant dean of men said yesterday, speaking unofficially for the office. The elections results had been approved by the office.

The matter will be left to the jurisdiction of the Association of Independent Men, Perkins added.

Town Council President Chester Cherwinski will meet today with Perkins and assistant to the dean of men, James W. Dean.

Town Council elections were declared illegal Monday by AIM elections committee chairman, Byron Fielding, who claimed the election procedure violated the Town Council constitution. The constitution calls for petitions to be used in the nomination of ward representatives. No petitions were used.

Joseph Somers, president of AIM, announced yesterday that he met with Town Council President Chester Cherwinski and suggested a new election plan of mailing ballots to the 2300 independent men living in town. The cost of such an election would be borne by AIM, subject to approval of the Board of Governors, Somers added. The Town Council treasury was nearly depleted by the cost of the initial election.

Soccer Player's Condition Improves

Condition of William Shaw, third semester DIR student, injured at a soccer practice session last week, is "improving slowly," according to doctors at Centre County Hospital in Bellefonte.

Shaw was taken to the hospital suffering from internal bleeding resulting from a kick in the abdomen.

Dean's List Omission

Nancy Gemmill, seventh semester home economics major, was omitted from the Home Economics school dean's list in yesterday's Daily Collegian. Her average for the spring semester was 2.81.

IFC Open Houses Attract 500 Rushees

More than 500 independent men visited fraternity houses over the weekend as part of the annual Interfraternity Council open house.

The open house is sponsored each spring and fall by the IFC rushing committee as part of its year-round rushing program.

Men were asked to fill out rushing cards at each fraternity they visited. These cards supply information concerning each prospective rushee and make it easier for each fraternity to determine if the man should be rushed.

Men being rushed by various fraternities will be invited to evening meals and other regular activities of the house throughout the semester. In this way, fraternities and rushees get to know each other.

Some Houses Filled

According to Bruce Coble, chairman of the IFC rushing committee, many houses are filled to capacity this semester, but most houses will have vacancies by seniors graduating in February.

Coble warned rushees to abide by the regulations of the IFC rushing and pledging code.

According to this code, no freshman may be pledged until after first semester grades are released early in the spring semester. Freshmen may then be pledged but may not move into fraternity houses until their dormitory contract has been fulfilled.

Upperclassmen May Pledge Upperclassmen may be pledged at any time according to the code. Upperclassmen must also remain in College dormitories until their contracts expire.

No man may be pledged who does not have a 1.0 All-College average or a 1.0 average for the preceding semester, according to the code.

A complete copy of the rushing and pledging code will be included in the "Penn State Fraternity Magazine" which will be distributed soon, Coble said.

The magazine will be sent to new men at the College. It also contains information and pictures on each fraternity.
